MAY BATTLE KENNEDY

Lodge Endorsed By Republicans For Senate Race

WORCESTER, Mass. (AP) — Massachusets Republicans chose another Lodge on Saturday to fight for a seat in the U.S. Senate for which another Kennedy is aiming this fall.

George Cabot Lodge won the GOP state convention endorsement for senator in a neck-and-neck battle which was finally decided only by the last three of the 40 districts.

Lodge, 34, defeated veteran Rep. Laurence Curtis, 68, for the endorsement after the lead had see-sawed back and forth several times. The final vote was Lodge 936 and Curtis 848.

EXPECTS KENNEDY

Republicans expect that Lodge will face in the November election Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy, youngest brother of President Kennedy, who won the endorsement for senator at the Democratic convention a week ago.

Kennedy, however, faces a primary fight with State Atty. Gen. Edward J. McCormack Jr., nephew of House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass.

McCormack withdrew from the convention contest before the balloting was completed. When it halted, the vote stood 691 for Kennedy and 360 for McCormack.

Volpe promised Lodge his support "down the line . . . all the way."

Curtis said he would make no immediate statement on whether he would battle Lodge in the September primary.

Lodge said at a news conference that it made no difference whether he faces McCormack or Kennedy in November. He offered to debate either of them.

Lodge said he would start his campaign next week.

The Senate seat sought formerly was held by John F. Kennedy, who resigned after becoming President. The interim incumbent, Sen. Benjamin F. Smith, was named to succeed the President and is not contesting to retain the seat.

A Lodge-Kennedy contest in November would be a new round in a political battle which the Kennedy and Lodge families have

Engineers To Strike Airlines

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Flight Engineers Association decided Saturday to stage a "selective" strike against one or more of three major U. S. Airlines in defiance of President Kennedy's appeal for arbitration.

Union headquarters said an announcement would be made late Saturday night or early Sunday morning on which of the lines would be struck — Eastern Airlines, Pan American World Airways or Trans World Airlines.

Involved are 1,700 flight engineers. Their two-year contract dispute centers around the duties and qualifications of the "third man" in a jet cockpit.

A presidential board has recommended that the crews be reduced from four to three and that the third man have both the skill of an engineer and the training of a pilot. The union claims this would displace its members and put them at the mercy of the large and more powerful Air Line Pilots Association.

The walkout decision defied the White House. The President had said a stoppage would be contrary to the public interest and strike a hard blow at the national economy.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg met during the morning with airline representatives. But no one was present from the flight engineers.

A Labor Department spokesman had no comment when informed of the strike decision.

Fire Damages Grambling Barn

GRAMBLING (Special) — Fire of undetermined origin severely damaged the Grambling College dairy barn late Saturday. No estimate of damage could be made by college authorities until equipment in the one story concrete sturcture could be examined.

The fire is believed to have started in a section of the building reserved for feed.

Equipment damaged included milking machines, a cooler storage tank which holds approximately 2000 gallons of milk, four electric milkers, laboratory equipment for testing milk and a homogenizer.

The blaze was fought by the Grambling volunteer fire company.

15 Vietnamese In Armored Column Are Also Victims

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Heavily armed Communist guerrillas smashed an armored South Vietnamese column Saturday near its capital, killing 2 U.S. officers and 15 Vietnamese.

The bold ambush 30 miles north of Saigon was carried out with 50-caliber machine guns, 57-mm recoilless rifles, land mines and small arms by a guerrilla band of from 300 to 400 men.

SEVERAL WOUNDED

Not a member of the armored column escaped unhurt, said U.S. sources, who estimated the number of wounded Vietnamese soldiers at 20. All seven vehicles in the column were heavily damaged and the guerrillas stripped them of weapons before fading into the jungle.

Vietnamese soldiers, aided by a big U.S. helicopter, set out in pursuit of the raiders, but the chase appeared hopeless.

Never before had the Viet Cong guerrillas appeared so close to Saigon so heavily armed. They staged their ambush near the town of Ben Cat after terrorizing villagers into silence.

Six U.S. servicemen now have been killed in combat since last December when U.S. military aid was stepped up. A U.S. army sergeant was killed in an action in Central Viet Nam this week.

The two U.S. dead, both advisers to the Vietnamese army's 7th Regiment of the 5th Infantry Division, were riding in a jeep, the third vehicle in the convoy.

They were not immediately identified pending notification of next of kin.

One apparently was killed instantly by a mine explosion. His body was found in the jeep. The body of the other was some distance away.

The Viet Cong ambush was strung alone more than a half mile of road.

Villagers said the Viet Cong moved into the area about 7 a.m. and set up the ambush about 20 yards from the side of the road.

Indian, 103, Makes Claims As Father

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP)—Luis Carrizales, a Cherokee Indian who has lived in Des Moines for about 40 years, makes these claims on this Father's Day weekend:

He is the oldest father in the state and has 13 children — the oldest 82, the youngest 9.

He is 103 years old.

Carrizales says he was born Lati Macalca in Sapulpa, Okla., in 1859, and never saw a white man until he was 18 years old. His father was Chief White Horse.

He says he once worked on an Oklahoma ranch with Buffalo Bill Cody, knew the late Will Rogers and toured with the Ringling Bros. and Cole Bros. circuses.

Carrizales says he married for the first time at the age of 21, after a visiting Englishmen persuaded him to go to England with him, promising him one of his sisters in marriage. He says his wife taught him to read and write. He never went to school.

He speaks English, French, Italian, Greek, Portuguese and three Indian dialects, and sometimes is called into court here to act as an interpreter.

About 20 years ago, Carrizales joined the YMCA here, giving his age as 80. He works out often in the gymnasium.

YMCA athletic director John Schmidt says: "It's hard to believe he's past 100 years old. He has better muscle tone than most men of 60."

Carrizales made national headlines when, at the age of 84, he married a 24-year-old Des Moines woman. They had six children — the last, he says, when he was 94. They since have been divorced. He says he also had seven children by previous marriages.

Decision Due On Budgets For Schools

Figures Awaited By Legislators From Educators

BATON ROUGE (AP)— One of Gov. Jimmie H. Davis' top legislative leaders expressed confidence Saturday educators will produce budgets this week for each of Louisiana's 67 local schools systems.

And Sen. E. W. Gravolet Jr., of Point a la Hache, denied the legislature would use any different method of distributing state funds to local school boards than has been used in recent years by the education department.

DECISION NEAR

A major decision appeared to be due Wednesday in the procedure for getting funds appropriated by the legislatute for public schools to the local systems.

Gravolet, one of Gov. Davis' top Senate floor leaders, is vice chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Segregation. He also is a member of the governor's legislative budget study committee, and he heads a subcommittee working with educators on a distribution formula.

Sen. William Cleveland of Crowley, Senate finance chairman and head of the Legislative Budget Committee, has called a meeting of the budget group Wednesday.

By then, the budget group wants educators' figures on how much each parish and city school board plans to spend in state money during the fiscal year which begins July 1.

The $495 million general appropriations bill, which contains provisions for direct appropriation of state school funds to local systems, is scheduled to clear the House appropriations committee Wednesday or Thursday.

The big money bill probably will be shoved toward a House floor vote one week from Monday. It has a $162 million item for public school education, a boost of $4.5 over the current budget to make up for growth in the number of pupils and other factors.

Shelby M. Jackson, state superintendent of education, has an appointment with the budget study committee for the Wednesday meeting. He has remained silent since a closed door meeting last

Warning On Snakes Is Issued

Swimmers, whether in supervised pools, or in rivers, ponds or lakes, were warned to be on the lookout for snakes.

A report that a poisonous snake was found in a local pool brought the warning from officials.

Recreation Director Jack Hesketh said Saturday night rumors had been circulating that a snake had been found in one of the new recreational swimming pools, but so far as he knew, this was not so. However, a snake was found in one of the local pools Friday.

Hesketh requested that all swimmers be on the lookout for any foreign objects in the water, and report any seen to the lifeguard on duty. The lifeguard will then take necessary precautions, Hesketh stated.

He pointed out that chlorine in the water will kill cold blooded animals such as frogs and snakes, and he felt that pool swimmers had little to fear. However, persons swimming in local ponds, lakes and the river do so at their own risk, and should be extra cautious to avoid encounters with snakes.

N.Y. Judge Is Convicted Of 'Fix' Try

Two Others Also Are Found Guilty By Federal Jury

NEW YORK (AP) — State Supreme Court Justice J. Vincent Keogh, a former William O'Dwyer aide who once aspired to his boss' job as mayor, was convicted Saturday night of trying to fix a federal court case.

A federal jury of nine men and three women debated three days to reach a verdict of guilty in a $35,000 bribery to lighten a bankruptcy fraud case sentence.

SENTENCING DUE

Convicted with the 56-year-old veteran of 12 years on the trial court bench were a former assistant U.S. attorney of Brooklyn, Elliott Kahaner, 36, and labor racketeer Antonio (Tony Ducks) Corallo, 47.

They face sentences of five years in jail and a $10,000 fine. U.S. Dist. Judge Edward Weinfeld set July 17 for sentencing.

Keogh, who wore a debonair smile through the month-long trial —until the tensions of the long jury deliberations began to break through his urbane manner—told reporters after the verdict:

"I am innocent. Nothing anyone can say or do can change that fact. My attorneys will press my appeal from this unjust conviction as soon as possible."

He apparently was stunned by the verdict and remained seated for 10 minutes after court was adjourned. His wife of 20 years, the former Rosemary Agnes Brickman, sat 30 feet away, her face turned toward a window to conceal her emotions.

Kahaner and his wife left the courtroom immediately without speaking to reporters. Corallo, who has a long record of arrests but only one conviction—a narcotics count—tipped his straw hat at a rakish angle and ambled from the courtroom with a smile.

Dr. Robert M. Erdman, 43, an orthopedic surgeon of Manhattan and admitted go-between in the fix attempt, testified that he paid Keogh $22,500 and Kahaner $12,500 to use their influence in behalf of Sanford Moore. Corallo, Erdman said, helped raise the bribe money.

Moore, 44, a former New York City policeman who went broke as operator of a chain of juke boxes on Long Island, admitted concealing $100,000 in assets from the receivers in his bankruptcy proceedings.

The Moore case was before U.S. Dist. Judge Leo F. Rayfiel, a friend of Keogh and former congressman with Keogh's brother, Rep. Eugene J. Keogh, D-N.Y.

Ouachita Voter Books To Open On Wednesday

Voter registration books for Ouachita Parish will be open again Wednesday — but only for one week.

Mrs. Mae Lucky, registrar of voters, said the books will be closed again on June 28. They will remain closed 30 days for the Democratic primary election which is scheduled July 28.

The registration books have been closed since May 19 for the one mill maintenance tax election for the Cooley hospital which will be held Tuesday, June 19.

Mrs. Lucky said the books will be open Wednesday at 8 a.m. And she reminded persons desiring to register or report a change of address to do so during the week while the books are open.

Legislature Set For Sixth Week

By SAM HANNA
World Legislative Writer

BATON ROUGE — Gov. Jimmie H. Davis' "peace and harmony" Legislature will begin its sixth week of the current session tonight on a strange combination of bills legislating milk, liquor and deadheads.

Both houses convene at 7 p.m. to continue work in the second half of the 1962 session.

The House will be in the spotlight tonight when three or four bills of major interest are brought to the floor for final passage.

MILK BILL

But Rep. Lantz Womack of Winnsboro also has the special order of the day on a measure to create a milk commission to set minimum and maximum prices on processors.

Both bills are controversial, but neither has the potential of producing a floor fight as Sen. Johnny Roger's proposal to make public all unclassified state employes.

This is the so-called "deadhead" bill designed to make public the names of employes on the state payroll but not working.

Talks Held On Ending OAS War

ALGIERS (UPI) — Speculation ran high in Algiers Sunday that the European Secret Army Organization (OAS) might have reached an agreement with the Algerian Provisional Executive to end the terrorism in the territory.

There was no official confirmation that agreement had been reached or was near, and the OAS continued its scorched-earth attacks on public buildings Saturday night.

But reliable reports said Jacques Susini, a leading political theoretician of the Secret Army, was holding talks with Moslem leaders, including Dr. Chawki Mostefai, a member of the Executive that is governing Algeria until independence.

There was no OAS pirate broadcast Saturday night for the first time in a week. Observers said the silence could indicate the situation was too fluid to comment on.

One source at Rocher Noir, the administrative headquarters, said agreement was "practically concluded" and would begin taking effect at the beginning of the week.

Secret Army terrorists moved their operations to the Foreign Legion city of Sidi Bel Abbes Friday and Saturday. At the same time, they stepped up their drive to get Europeans out of the country before the July 1 independence vote.

Says De Gaulle's Separate Forces Stand Dangerous

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara spelled out Saturday night the nuclear strategy the United States would use if major war came in Europe — including no city bombing unless driven to it by Soviet action.

At the same time, the U.S. defense chief sharply challenged, without naming names, President Charles de Gaulle's plan for France to go it alone with her own nuclear weapons and strategy.

RAISES QUESTION'S

He raised questions about the dangers created by a relatively weak nuclear nation, including the possibility that its very weakness might invite a preventive attack by the Soviet Union.

McNamara set forth his views in a speech for the University of Michigan commencement.

The text was understood to have been reviewed at the highest policy making levels of government—since it involves both U.S. strategy in relation to allies and an apparent critique of the ambitions of one of the members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, France.

On nuclear strategy in event of attack on the NATO alliance, McNamara said the principal objective of the United States would be "destruction of the enemy's military forces, not of his civilian population."

But McNamara attached this significant qualifying clause: The strength and nature of the Alliance make it possible to retain, even after massive surprise Soviet attack, "sufficient reserve striking power to destroy an enemy society if driven to it."

Bills Point In Two Ways On State Tax

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Bills which point in the direction of simplification and reduction of state taxes and in increases and greater complexity are pending before the Legislature in the current session.

There is also a proposal which would have the effect of reducing general fund revenues by about $1 million in this fiscal year and $2 million in future years by dedicating two per cent of the sales tax to a possible $20 million bond issue for aid to private, segregated schools.

52 STATE TAXES

These points were made by the Public Affairs Research Council in its weekly Legislative Bulletin which noted also that Louisiana with 52 taxes now "levies about every conceivable type of tax."

"Louisiana," said PAR, "has a complex revenue structure that has grown more so over the years as a wealth of legislation has been adopted to add taxes, exemptions and dedications.

"Except for the Little Hoover Commission bills, most of the revenue proposals in this session would continue this trend and further complicate the state's financial structure."

Commenting on this situation, PAR said:

"Instead of the piecemeal approach of constantly changing Louisiana's revenues, action is needed to remove unnecessary complications, permit better enforement, provide greater equity, allow flexibility to meet changing needs, and create a better balance between the taxing authority of the state and local governments."

PAR called attention to bills sponsored by the Little Hoover Commission which would repeal 16 minor or "nuisance" taxes.

WEATHER SATELLITE

Fifth Tiros Launch Slated This Week

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The fifth Tiros weather watch satellite is scheduled for launching within a few days to hunt hurricanes and view storm systems and ice breakup in the northern latitudes.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced Saturday the effort to loft Tiros V into orbit is scheduled Tuesday at the earliest.

The launching is timed so the satellite's cloud cover cameras will be pointed at the hurricane breeding grounds of the Caribbean and Atlantic during late August and early September, normally the peak tropical storm period.

The hurricane season opened officially Friday, and should Alma—the name picked for the initial 1962 storm—make an appearance during Tiros V's first 10 days, the satellite will be able to photograph it.

After that period, the satellite alignment will be such that for 38 days the cameras will be able to photograph cloud cover only over areas south of the equator.

Starting about mid-August, the satellite path will enable the cameras to obtain northern hemispheric pictures for 35-40 days, explained Robert Rados, Tiros project manager for NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center.

The Weather Bureau plans to relay Tiros V hurricane pictures swiftly by photofacsimile to storm warning centers in Miami; San Juan, Puerto Rico and New Orleans.

Tiros III, launched last July, demonstrated the importance of weather satellite data in tracking hurricanes when it located Hurricane Esther two days before conventional procedures would have found it.

Cuba Acts To Crush Uprising

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — The Castro regime sent troops and tanks to the Cuban city of Cardenas Saturday in a display of force ordered after a counterrevolutionary street demonstration.

After the televised military parade through the streets of the city 70 miles east of Havana, the government radio said the show of strength was prompted by "little groups of counterrevolutionaries, parasites and lazy ones who came into the street waving counterrevolutionary signs."

The demonstrators were described on the broadcast as bandits, thieves and dope fiends.

It was the first time since Prime Minister Fidel Castro's seizure of power in January 1959, that his government has taken such action. It appeared to indicate that underground opposition to his regime is gaining strength and now is regarded as a considerable threat.

Castro himself was not seen by television monitors here during the military parade and the other proceedings.

However, President Osvaldo Dorticos took the speaker's platform to deliver a fiery Castro-style speech in which he warned that from now on counterrevolutionaries will be given neither rest nor truce.

It was clear from his words that a counterrevolutionary demonstration of some magnitude took place in Cardenas a few days ago. However, he gave no specific details as to its nature.

He says he once worked on an Oklahoma ranch with Buffalo Bill Cody, knew the late Will Rogers and toured with the Ringling Bros. and Cole Bros. circuses.

Carrizales says he married for the first time at the age of 21, after a visiting Englishmen persuaded him to go to England with him, promising him one of his sisters in marriage. He says his wife taught him to read and write. He never went to school.

He speaks English, French, Italian, Greek, Portuguese and three Indian dialects, and sometimes is called into court here to act as an interpreter.

About 20 years ago, Carrizales joined the YMCA here, giving his age as 80. He works out often in the gymnasium.

YMCA athletic director John Schmidt says: "It's hard to believe he's past 100 years old. He has better muscle tone than most men of 60."

Carrizales made national headlines when, at the age of 84, he married a 24-year-old Des Moines woman. They had six children — the last, he says, when he was 94. They since have been divorced. He says he also had seven children by previous marriages.

N.Y. Judge Is Convicted Of 'Fix' Try

Two Others Also Are Found Guilty By Federal Jury

NEW YORK (AP) — State Supreme Court Justice J. Vincent Keogh, a former William O'Dwyer aide who once aspired to his boss' job as mayor, was convicted Saturday night of trying to fix a federal court case.

A federal jury of nine men and three women debated three days to reach a verdict of guilty in a $35,000 bribery to lighten a bankruptcy fraud case sentence.

SENTENCING DUE

Convicted with the 56-year-old veteran of 12 years on the trial court bench were a former assistant U.S. attorney of Brooklyn, Elliott Kahaner, 36, and labor racketeer Antonio (Tony Ducks) Corallo, 47.

They face sentences of five years in jail and a $10,000 fine. U.S. Dist. Judge Edward Weinfeld set July 17 for sentencing.

Keogh, who wore a debonair smile through the month-long trial —until the tensions of the long jury deliberations began to break through his urbane manner—told reporters after the verdict:

"I am innocent. Nothing anyone can say or do can change that fact. My attorneys will press my appeal from this unjust conviction as soon as possible."

He apparently was stunned by the verdict and remained seated for 10 minutes after court was adjourned. His wife of 20 years, the former Rosemary Agnes Brickman, sat 30 feet away, her face turned toward a window to conceal her emotions.

Kahaner and his wife left the courtroom immediately without speaking to reporters. Corallo, who has a long record of arrests but only one conviction—a narcotics count—tipped his straw hat at a rakish angle and ambled from the courtroom with a smile.

Dr. Robert M. Erdman, 43, an orthopedic surgeon of Manhattan and admitted go-between in the fix attempt, testified that he paid Keogh $22,500 and Kahaner $12,500 to use their influence in behalf of Sanford Moore. Corallo, Erdman said, helped raise the bribe money.

Moore, 44, a former New York City policeman who went broke as operator of a chain of juke boxes on Long Island, admitted concealing $100,000 in assets from the receivers in his bankruptcy proceedings.

Ouachita Voter Books To Open On Wednesday

Voter registration books for Ouachita Parish will be open again Wednesday — but only for one week.

Mrs. Mae Lucky, registrar of voters, said the books will be closed again on June 28. They will remain closed 30 days for the Democratic primary election which is scheduled July 28.

The registration books have been closed since May 19 for the one mill maintenance tax election for the Cooley hospital which will be held Tuesday, June 19.

Mrs. Lucky said the books will be open Wednesday at 8 a.m. And she reminded persons desiring to register or report a change of address to do so during the week while the books are open.

Another Hot Day Predicted

Perhaps many Monroyans may make home - made ice cream as part of their Sabbath day of rest today as an escape from 90-degree temperature predicted for the Twin Cities.

The mercury rose to 91 Saturday, not falling below 71 during the morning. And the same old sun will be at it again today, coming out bright and early at 5 o'clock this morning.

Other predictions see partly cloudy skies through tonight and winds of 5-15 miles per hour. Low temperature should be around 70. No rain is predicted.

Legislature Set For Sixth Week

By SAM HANNA
World Legislative Writer

BATON ROUGE — Gov. Jimmie H. Davis' "peace and harmony" Legislature will begin its sixth week of the current session tonight on a strange combination of bills legislating milk, liquor and deadheads.

Both houses convene at 7 p.m. to continue work in the second half of the 1962 session.

The House will be in the spotlight tonight when three or four bills of major interest are brought to the floor for final passage.

MILK BILL

But Rep. Lantz Womack of Winnsboro also has the special order of the day on a measure to create a milk commission to set minimum and maximum prices on processors.

Both bills are controversial, but neither has the potential of producing a floor fight as Sen. Johnny Roger's proposal to make public all unclassified state employes.

This is the so-called "deadhead" bill designed to make public the names of employes on the state payroll but not working.

Talks Held On Ending OAS War

ALGIERS (UPI) — Speculation ran high in Algiers Sunday that the European Secret Army Organization (OAS) might have reached an agreement with the Algerian Provisional Executive to end the terrorism in the territory.

There was no official confirmation that agreement had been reached or was near, and the OAS continued its scorched-earth attacks on public buildings Saturday night.

But reliable reports said Jacques Susini, a leading political theoretician of the Secret Army, was holding talks with Moslem leaders, including Dr. Chawki Mostefai, a member of the Executive that is governing Algeria until independence.

There was no OAS pirate broadcast Saturday night for the first time in a week. Observers said the silence could indicate the situation was too fluid to comment on.

One source at Rocher Noir, the administrative headquarters, said agreement was "practically concluded" and would begin taking effect at the beginning of the week.

Secret Army terrorists moved their operations to the Foreign Legion city of Sidi Bel Abbes Friday and Saturday. At the same time, they stepped up their drive to get Europeans out of the country before the July 1 independence vote.

WEATHER SATELLITE

Fifth Tiros Launch Slated This Week

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The fifth Tiros weather watch satellite is scheduled for launching within a few days to hunt hurricanes and view storm systems and ice breakup in the northern latitudes.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced Saturday the effort to loft Tiros V into orbit is scheduled Tuesday at the earliest.

The launching is timed so the satellite's cloud cover cameras will be pointed at the hurricane breeding grounds of the Caribbean and Atlantic during late August and early September, normally the peak tropical storm period.

The hurricane season opened officially Friday, and should Alma—the name picked for the initial 1962 storm—make an appearance during Tiros V's first 10 days, the satellite will be able to photograph it.

After that period, the satellite alignment will be such that for 38 days the cameras will be able to photograph cloud cover only over areas south of the equator.

Starting about mid-August, the satellite path will enable the cameras to obtain northern hemispheric pictures for 35-40 days, explained Robert Rados, Tiros project manager for NASA's Goddard Space Flight Center.

The Weather Bureau plans to relay Tiros V hurricane pictures swiftly by photofacsimile to storm warning centers in Miami; San Juan, Puerto Rico and New Orleans.

Tiros III, launched last July, demonstrated the importance of weather satellite data in tracking hurricanes when it located Hurricane Esther two days before conventional procedures would have found it.

Says De Gaulle's Separate Forces Stand Dangerous

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara spelled out Saturday night the nuclear strategy the United States would use if major war came in Europe — including no city bombing unless driven to it by Soviet action.

At the same time, the U.S. defense chief sharply challenged, without naming names, President Charles de Gaulle's plan for France to go it alone with her own nuclear weapons and strategy.

RAISES QUESTION'S

He raised questions about the dangers created by a relatively weak nuclear nation, including the possibility that its very weakness might invite a preventive attack by the Soviet Union.

McNamara set forth his views in a speech for the University of Michigan commencement.

The text was understood to have been reviewed at the highest policy making levels of government—since it involves both U.S. strategy in relation to allies and an apparent critique of the ambitions of one of the members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, France.

On nuclear strategy in event of attack on the NATO alliance, McNamara said the principal objective of the United States would be "destruction of the enemy's military forces, not of his civilian population."

But McNamara attached this significant qualifying clause: The strength and nature of the Alliance make it possible to retain, even after massive surprise Soviet attack, "sufficient reserve striking power to destroy an enemy society if driven to it."

To this strongly implied warn-

Bills Point In Two Ways On State Tax

BATON ROUGE (Special) — Bills which point in the direction of simplification and reduction of state taxes and in increases and greater complexity are pending before the Legislature in the current session.

There is also a proposal which would have the effect of reducing general fund revenues by about $1 million in this fiscal year and $2 million in future years by dedicating two per cent of the sales tax to a possible $20 million bond issue for aid to private, segregated schools.

52 STATE TAXES

These points were made by the Public Affairs Research Council in its weekly Legislative Bulletin which noted also that Louisiana with 52 taxes now "levies about every conceivable type of tax."

"Louisiana," said PAR, "has a complex revenue structure that has grown more so over the years as a wealth of legislation has been adopted to add taxes, exemptions and dedications.

"Except for the Little Hoover Commission bills, most of the revenue proposals in this session would continue this trend and further complicate the state's financial structure."

Commenting on this situation, PAR said:

"Instead of the piecemeal approach of constantly changing Louisiana's revenues, action is needed to remove unnecessary complications, permit better enforement, provide greater equity, allow flexibility to meet changing needs, and create a better balance between the taxing authority of the state and local governments."

PAR called attention to bills sponsored by the Little Hoover Commission which would repeal 16 minor or "nuisance" taxes.

Vidalia Blaze Razes Center

VIDALIA (Special) — Fire of undetermined origin completely gutted Clark Shopping Center here Saturday night despite efforts of Vidalia, Ferriday and Natchez firemen. Loss was not determined.

Destroyed in the raging fire were Hollis Jewelry Store, Talley's Men's Shop, Caryle's Dress Shop and a branch office of New Orleans oilman William G. Helis, recently resigned State Mineral Board chairman.

Clyde Clark of Natchez is the owner of the building, located on the Vidalia - Ferriday highway just inside the city limits.

Cuba Acts To Crush Uprising

KEY WEST, Fla. (AP) — The Castro regime sent troops and tanks to the Cuban city of Cardenas Saturday in a display of force ordered after a counterrevolutionary street demonstration.

After the televised military parade through the streets of the city 70 miles east of Havana, the government radio said the show of strength was prompted by "little groups of counterrevolutionaries, parasites and lazy ones who came into the street waving counterrevolutionary signs."

The demonstrators were described on the broadcast as bandits, thieves and dope fiends.

It was the first time since Prime Minister Fidel Castro's seizure of power in January 1959, that his government has taken such action. It appeared to indicate that underground opposition to his regime is gaining strength and now is regarded as a considerable threat.

Castro himself was not seen by television monitors here during the military parade and the other proceedings.

However, President Osvaldo Dorticos took the speaker's platform to deliver a fiery Castro-style speech in which he warned that from now on counterrevolutionaries will be given neither rest nor truce.

It was clear from his words that a counterrevolutionary demonstration of some magnitude took place in Cardenas a few days ago. However, he gave no specific details as to its nature.

Reds Short On Food In East Europe

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) —The women go into the state-run supermarkets, look around, and often leave only with baskets of bread.

Food is short in Communist East Europe this spring. In East Germany, Czechoslovakia, Romania and Bulgaria the shortages are worse than in Poland, Hungary and Yugoslavia.

Nobody is starving. Stores have cheap staples, like bread, noodles, canned fish and low-grade sausage.

There are shortages of vegetables, fresh fruit and poultry. Where there are supplies, prices are often so high that housewives look longingly and then turn away to the staples.

Meat stores are closed more often than open. When meat becomes available, there frequently are long queues.

The prospects for improvement this summer and fall are not good. Floods in Poland, drought in Bulgaria and cold weather elsewhere have hurt crops. Everywhere they are late, in some areas spoled by rain.

East Europeans, even so, may be eating better than the Russians. The diet is dull, however. They eat new potatoes, lettuce, cucumbers, onions when they appear in the stores, not when they want them.

East Europe's food situation contrasts sharply with that of Western Europe. In Germany, France, Italy and England, food shops have everything to choose from, prices are more acceptable and housewives leave with full shopping bags.

On a tour of East Europe, this correspondent so far has not found the same sort of plenty. The area used to be the breadbasket of Europe. Communist governments say there are shortages because people are eating more and demanding more.

Western diplomats behind the Iron Curtain attribute the shortages and crop difficulties to total or partial collectivization of farms. Communism, they say, still has not been able to find incentives to make dispossessed farmers work and produce.

FACILITY FOR RETARDED

Future Of Cooley Hangs On Election

By RICHARD TYLER
World Staff Writer

Given a favorable vote Tuesday in a one mill maintenance tax election, the former G. B. Cooley Tuberculosis Sanitorium near West Monroe will open early in January, 1963, as a hospital for Ouachita Parish's mentally retarded.

If approved, the action will mark one more step in the facility's 23-year history. Founded in 1939, it functioned for 20 years as a base for the treatment of the parish's tuberculosis - stricken, supported by two similar ten-year tax elections, also based on the one-mill assessment.

It was in that capacity that the hospital was closed in January of 1960 when the need for such a service dwindled with the development of new techniques in the diagnosis and treatment of the disease. Ownership of the property, including approximately 26 wooded acres on the White's Ferry Road, six miles north of West Monroe, reverted to the parish Police Jury.

In mid-March of 1961, the Ouachita Association for Retarded Children, began actively to seek its use. It was leased to them earlier this year, on the heels of the establishment by the jury of a five-member commission under chairman W. P. Heard to look to its administration.

The hospital, named for Ouachita river boat captain G. B. Cooley, a president in 1923 of the Ouachita Tuberculosis and Public Health Association, will serve initially as a center for the "residential care" of 70 to 80 of the parish's severly retarded young people and adults. But plans for future expansions, well documented according to mounting needs, already are a favorite topic with Heard and commissioners, W. K. Harris, Mrs. Ike Hamilton, J. W. Roberson and Hugh Balfour.

In Ouachita Parish alone, according to the chairman, there now live in the neighborhood of 3000 mentally handicapped children and adults, of which some 200 so suffer from the effects of retardation as to "demand constant nursing care and supervision."

"These are the forgotten ones," says Heard, "the ones we now have to help.

"There is no place in the state for these people to go. State and private institutions already in existence and two proposed state institutions can care for about 3500 altogether, but they have waiting lists amounting to more than the number housed."

"Obviously, Ouachita Parish has to take the lead and do something for itself," added Mrs. Hamilton, active in work with and for the retarded. "And we have every confidence that the voters of the parish are ready to do just that Tuesday."

Meanwhile, work towards putting the Cooley hospital back into shape for its latest mission has gone unabated, with volunteer labor working what amounts almost to a miracle, according to some observers. Weeks of renovation already have gone into the project with months still ahead.

At the beginning, the facility will employ approximately 20 staff members. Officials point out the hospital is not a school nor, even in the strictest sense, a hospital. "Our patients will not be educable," explained commissionmember W. K. Harris, who doubles as president of the Ouachita Association for Retarded Children. "If they are, they're the work of other agencies. At the Cooley hospital, what we'll have mainly is a comprehensive residential program and other projects which will be beneficial to persons of a low mental level."

"We won't even really be a hospital," added Hugh Balfour, "in that no major medical treatment will be given nor surgery performed. Naturally, medical care for curable physical ailments will be available when needed, a nurse will always be on duty and a doctor on call for routine checking and emergency treatment."

"If the damage is severe enough to incapacitate a person to the point of requiring constant care and supervision in his every activity, that's the way he's going to remain," said commissioner Roberson. "And very frankly, statistics tell us that with 75 retarded persons being born in the parish every year, at least 21 of them are going to wind up requiring institutional care at one time or another."

He is the father of two Twin City women. Funeral arrangements are incomplete but will be under the direction of Mulhearn Funeral Home of Winnsboro.

Mr. Lazarus, a resident of Winnsboro for the past 53 years, is a member of both the Methodist Church and the Masonic Lodge.

Survivors are his widow, Mrs. Kate Lazarus, Winnsboro; three daughters, Mrs. Eric Gilmore, Oklahoma City, Okla., Mrs. W H. Smith, Monroe, and Mrs. Carl Turner Jr., West Monroe; one son, Lucius T. Lazarus, Killen, Tex.; and 11 grandchildren.

Union Assails Taft-Hartley Use By JFK

LEVITTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — A union leader attacked President Kennedy Saturday for invoking the Taft-Hartley Act to end a 2½-month strike at Republic Aviation Corp.

Justin Ostro, president of Local 1987 of the International Association of Machinists, AFL-CIO, told a rally of 10,000 unionists that the injunction was an attempt by the President to balance pressure he exerted recently to have a steel price increase rescinded.

Kennedy based his action on his declaration that the production shutdown of the nation's only modern supersonic, all-weather fighter-bomber, the F105, imperiled the national safety. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara also declared that the F105 was urgently needed now by U.S. forces in Southeast Asia.

The Justice Department, acting on behalf of the President, obtained a temporary restraining order Friday to end the walkout of 9,000 production workers at Republic's big plant at Farmingdale, N.Y.

Republic is the country's only producer of the F105.

Ostro's union represents about 8,000 of the 9,000 workers who have been on strike.

Ostro told the meeting that the "Taft-Hartley law is not for the working people and the people who invoke it are not for the working people."

He advised members of the union, however, that they should not necessarily become Republicans because of the President's action "because we have no guarantee Republicans would not do the same thing."

The machinists applauded loudly when Ostro said one unnamed official of the union told him: "When Kennedy invoked the Taft-Hartley law I became an instant Republican."

The union announced previously it would abide by the injunction and return to work Monday, but Ostro said they would do so reluctantly.

BEFORE LEGISLATURE

Gibbs Explains Closing Measure

Rep. Lawrence Gibbs Saturday night issued a statement concerning House Bill 1151 now pending before the state Legislature.

The bill has been endorsed by "Citizens for Sunday Closing," a local organization pushing for a closing ordinance in the Twin Cities.

Gibbs said the bill, of which he is a sponsor, is "community service" legislation and he said it has been endorsed by ministerial groups throughout the state.

Here is Gibbs' statement:

"This bill hurts no one but to the contrary, it renders community service. It allows drug store, service stations, curb markets and grocery stores, which dispense necessary foods, to remain open.

"House Bill 1151 prohibits those engaged in business that renders no essential services to the community to operate on Sunday. This bill has the approbation of ministerial associations in the various communities of Louisiana.

"It merely restricts the unnecessary business activities."

Bar Association Elects At Biloxi

Carlton succeeds Sherwood W. Wise of Jackson. As retiring president of the Junior Bar Section, E. C. Ward of Natchez will serve as second vice president.

Union Assails Taft-Hartley Use By JFK

LEVITTOWN, N.Y. (AP) — A union leader attacked President Kennedy Saturday for invoking the Taft-Hartley Act to end a 2½-month strike at Republic Aviation Corp.

Justin Ostro, president of Local 1987 of the International Association of Machinists, AFL-CIO, told a rally of 10,000 unionists that the injunction was an attempt by the President to balance pressure he exerted recently to have a steel price increase rescinded.

Kennedy based his action on his declaration that the production shutdown of the nation's only modern supersonic, all-weather fighter-bomber, the F105, imperiled the national safety. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara also declared that the F105 was urgently needed now by U.S. forces in Southeast Asia.

The Justice Department, acting on behalf of the President, obtained a temporary restraining order Friday to end the walkout of 9,000 production workers at Republic's big plant at Farmingdale, N.Y.

Republic is the country's only producer of the F105.

Ostro's union represents about 8,000 of the 9,000 workers who have been on strike.

Ostro told the meeting that the "Taft-Hartley law is not for the working people and the people who invoke it are not for the working people."

He advised members of the union, however, that they should not necessarily become Republicans because of the President's action "because we have no guarantee Republicans would not do the same thing."

The machinists applauded loudly when Ostro said one unnamed official of the union told him: "When Kennedy invoked the Taft-Hartley law I became an instant Republican."

The union announced previously it would abide by the injunction and return to work Monday, but Ostro said they would do so reluctantly.

BEFORE LEGISLATURE

Gibbs Explains Closing Measure

Rep. Lawrence Gibbs Saturday night issued a statement concerning House Bill 1151 now pending before the state Legislature.

The bill has been endorsed by "Citizens for Sunday Closing," a local organization pushing for a closing ordinance in the Twin Cities.

Gibbs said the bill, of which he is a sponsor, is "community service" legislation and he said it has been endorsed by ministerial groups throughout the state.

Here is Gibbs' statement:

"This bill hurts no one but to the contrary, it renders community service. It allows drug store, service stations, curb markets and grocery stores, which dispense necessary foods, to remain open.

"House Bill 1151 prohibits those engaged in business that renders no essential services to the community to operate on Sunday. This bill has the approbation of ministerial associations in the various communities of Louisiana.

"It merely restricts the unnecessary business activities."

Bar Association Elects At Biloxi

Carlton succeeds Sherwood W. Wise of Jackson. As retiring president of the Junior Bar Section, E. C. Ward of Natchez will serve as second vice president.

SENT RAZOR BLADE

Test Of Davis' Control May Come On Money Bill

By SAM HANNA
World Legislative Writer

BATON ROUGE — Gov. Jimmie H. Davis has kept the Legislature under his control far better than everybody expected so far, but the test of his real strength is yet to come.

The governor's ability to have his wishes carried out in the Legislature will receive its biggest challenge when the general appropriations bill finally hits the floor.

This is the $495 - million measure that supports the budget for the coming fiscal year of 1962-63 — the bill that contains reductions in many phases of state spending.

Only a few members of the Legislature have had a chance to look into the proposed spending program for next year, since the appropriations bill is being heard behind closed doors.

From time to time state officials directly affected by the bill have been permitted to enter the closed hearings of the House appropriations committee.

This is in contrast to past sessions when the hearings were opened — to any member of the Legislature who wanted to drop in and hear for himself, or to any citizen or member of the press.

Any observer of state politics can appreciate the position of the lawmaker who must vote on a bill that in some instances will mean a reduction in funds for programs back home.

This is especially important in that an election year is approaching. Voters might not feel so kindly toward a legislator who failed to bring the bacon home.

All of this points up to a crucial period for the Davis administration.

While the administration has been successful for five weeks in keeping the legislature in line with its programs, the final two weeks or so of the session could prove to be another story.

The general appropriations bill probably will come not be sent to the House until a week from tonight.

At that time lawmakers who have held their tongues so far may be prone to speak out in order to save their own political hides.

Davis will not stand for re-election in '64, but most of the legislators will.

Bernard Waiting

Rep. Elmer Bernard of West Baton Rouge Parish is waiting for the proper time to call from the calendar his resolution that asks Commissioner of Administration James S. Reily to explain why he said the administration knew about the mounting deficit before ever acknowleding the fact.

Bernard's moment could come when the general appropriations bill is introduced. Lawmakers might then look favorably on a detailed explanation of the state's fiscal affairs.

But the resolution may not be necessary, since Reily has in the past gone before the legislature to explain the budget.

If he does again this year, Bernard's chance to get an explanation from the governor's chief fiscal officer will be available.

In fact, it will be his only chance.

The administration at the moment has enough votes to kill the resolution. Bernard knows this.

Jackson Wins

Another factor not to be overlooked in the forecast for the coming days of the session is the action taken Friday by the State Board of Education.

The board publicly opposed in a resolution the administration's plan to adopt its own distribution formual for school funds on a parish - by - parish basis.

This means that Supt. Shelby M. Jackson has the strong support of his own board in his opposition aganst the administration's proposal for a new formula which could take the money away from Jackson's control.

Jackson, from the moment Davis presented the proposed budget to the Legislature, hasn't liked the idea. In fact he has declined to accept the proposal.

Jackson also has voiced opposition, in private meetings with the segregation committee and the State Sovereignty Commission, against a three - man commission being empowered to make direct grants to students attending private segregated schools.

Jackson wants his own department to handle the school funds while the administration program includes steps in the opposite direction.

Not to be forgotten here is Leander Perez's influence with the administration in striving to establish a system of private schools to maintain segregation — private schools with public funds.

Chance Slim

Unless Sen. Jamar Adcock of Monroe can gain the support of the administration, his bill to make Shelby Jackson's position appointive rather than elective hasn't got a chance.

So far the administration has declined to throw its support behind Adcock's bill.

Adcock knows this and for this reason left the bill on the calendar last week after getting it out of committee, which was a surprise in itself.

Jackson has so much influence through his school people that some lawmakers wouldn't dare vote for the bill. But others have said privately that they just don't think it would be a good idea to let the Board of Education appoint the school superintendent.

Here again is the agrument regarding the local school superintendents who are appointed rather than elected.

At any rate Adcock has bristled up to the strongest man, next to Jimmie Davis, in the state capitol.

Jackson says he may have something to say about the Senator's bill when he speaks to the Lions Club in Monroe on Tuesday.

Long At Work

U. S. Sen. Russell B. Long is politicing the Legislature.

He threw a party for the Senate last Monday night at his farm near Baton Rouge and has another one planned this week for the House.

Long is not missing any bets, in that he's solidifying his support with the lawmakers for the coming Senate race, July 28th.

Then, too, he's still considered as a man who is not completely out of the governor's race in 1964, especially if the Legislature adopts a bill to permit future governors to serve two consecutive terms.

The bill, sponsored by the Little Hoover Commission, may be reconsidered in the House tonight after it failed by five votes on Wednesday.

Adcock, who is close to Long, is co - sponsoring a similiar bill.

John J. McKeithen, meantime, continues to make the rounds.

The Columbia attorney, who has been on the Public Service Commission for several years, has visited the Legislature two times or more.

McKeithen's friends are saying that he will run for governor regardless of Long.

Hyannis Gets Arkansas Goat To Feed Riders

HYANNIS, Mass. (UPI)—A 140-pound goat named Samson arrived here from Little Rock, Ark., Saturday, a gift from Southern segregationists to the Negroes who took "reverse freedom rides."

The 3-year-old goat was shipped by Malcolm G. Taylor, chairman of Little Rock's Freedom Riders North Committee. He said the animal could be used for a Fourth of July barbecue for the Negroes.

Though the goat was addressed to Selectman E. Thomas Murphy, it was immediately turned over to a local refuge of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Meanwhile state officials assigned James Caramello of the New Bedford office of the State Welfare Department to assume control of efforts to find homes and jobs for the Negroes here.

Rulings Pending On Sit-In Appeals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court, as it approaches the end of its 1961-62 term, is facing 20 racial-segregation appeals, most of them lunch-counter sit-ins.

The justices are expected to adjourn by June 25 or July 2.

Action on at least some of the segregation backlog seems likely.

Cases from seven states have been piling up since the term began last October. The court has heard only one. On Dec. 11 it reversed for lack of evidence the sit-in conviction of 16 Negro students who demonstrated at three white lunch counters in Baton Rouge, La., in 1960.

The court has scheduled arguments next term on an appeal by 187 Negro students convicted last year in Columbia, S. C., of breach of the peace after an anti-segregation demonstration on the capitol grounds.

The Baton Rouge students were also convicted of disturbing the peace. Chief Justice Earl Warren rules that sitting "peacefully in a place where custom decreed they should not sit" was not evidence of a crime.

Another Louisiana case is pending, as well as appeals from Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Alabama and Georgia.

Thirteen of the cases not yet acted upon deal with trespass convictions, a subject on which the court has not thus far touched.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) is defending many of the demonstrators. It contends that a state may not constitutionally enforce racial discrimination through the trespass law in a store open to the general public.

Minor Theft Cases Probed By Officers

Monroe police were busy Saturday investigating minor theft reports while West Monroe officers were attempting to locate the owner of a found billfold.

Charles W. Smith of 1510 South Second St., returned home shortly after lunch Saturday and found some of his clothing and luggage gone, and in their place a paper bag of old clothes and worn out pair of shoes.

Smith told Monroe police officers he left home at 7:40 a.m. Saturday and returned at 12:15 p.m. When he entered his home, he found a paper bag containing a bundle of old clothing and a pair of worn out shoes.

West Monroe officers were trying to locate Patsy L. Ledford, whose last known address was 126 Louise Dr., Ruston. Her billfold was found by an Arizona motorist on U. S. Highway 80, west of West Monroe, early Saturday morning. The black billfold with a driver's license issued to Patsy Ledford, was turned over to the West Monroe department by John T. Hays, Scott Dale, Ariz.

She is requested to contact the West Monroe ploice department and claim her wallet.

The West Monroe fire department also had a busy day — units 17 and 16 extinguished a car fire on the Thomas Road early Saturday morning and put out an electrical blaze at the A & W Root Beer Stand at 1323 Natchitoches St., at 1 p.m.

The car, belonging to Negro Warren Ard, who gave an address at a motel on Claiborne St., was not seriously damaged and the blaze started when the carburetor backfired.

Both Monroe and West Monroe departments made arrests for driving while under the influence of intoxicating beverages.

West Monroe officers booked John Rogers, 25 of route one, Box 51, West Monroe, at 6:25 a.m. Saturday for DWI. He was taken into custody in the 400 block of Cotton Street.

Monroe officers booked three on the charge. They were Edward R. Goodson, 51 of 808 Pine St., West Monroe; Lewis G. Zeigler, 43, 117 Avant Rd., West Monroe; and Percy Melvin Travillion, 39, Negro of 1725 Rogers St.

Goodson, booked at 6:38 p.m. Saturday, was apprehended at Hall and Wood Streets and released under a $435 bond. Zeigler, taken into custody at 8:10 p.m. at Sixth and Grammont Streets, was held under a $500 bond. Travillion, also held under a $500 bond, was booked at 2:40 a.m. Saturday after being apprehended at South Second and Orange Streets.

Astronaut Feted At Homecoming

MITCHELL, Ind. (AP) — Astronaut Virgil I. Gus Grissom became the shy boy from around the corner again Saturday at a homecoming celebration that attracted

But, nearly all of them were little more than the 3,552 residents of this town in the southern Indiana hills.

there and America's second man in space appeared relaxed and happy as he renewed old acquantances and made some new ones.

Grissom, 36, smiled constantly —but had little to say — through formal ceremonies.

The Air Force captain retreated quickly to his parents' neat frame house on newly named Grissom Avenue after telling the crowd: "Thank you very much. It was an overwhelming day. You're all wonderful people."

After a long, hot afternoon of speeches and awards, the taciturn Grissom rose to accept the plaudits of the home town folks on behalf of "my six teammates, who are working today while I am loafing in the sun."

But he appeared happiest when he was just another small town boy home for a visit—in a quiet corner chatting with high school buddies or dashing out of his parents' home to talk with friends who stopped at the curb.

Sen. Homer E. Capehart, R-Ind., added to the homey atmosphere when he told the crewcut astronaut, "When you take a trip to the moon, Gus, take a persimmon seed, a watermelon seed and two pieces of chicken. If there's anyone up on the moon, tell them they came from Indiana."

His last visit home was for Mitchell's annual persimmon festival two years ago.

The afternoon ceremony at Lehigh Field included tributes from Capehart, Gov. Matthew E. Welsh, Rep. Earl Wilson, R-Ind., Mayor Roy F. Ira and Dr. Frederick L. Hovde, president of Purdue University, Grissom's alma mater.

Grissom was made an honorary member of a local sorority, and laughingly told the crowd: "This is rather an exceptional day. I have been made a colonel (Kentucky), a member of a sorority and a high school dedicated to me that I thought I'd never get out of."

The school is the new Mitchell junior and senior high school, which will be named the Virgil I. Grissom Building.

Rulings Pending On Sit-In Appeals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court, as it approaches the end of its 1961-62 term, is facing 20 racial segregation appeals, most of them lunch-counter sit-ins.

The justices are expected to adjourn by June 25 or July 2.

Action on at least some of the segregation backlog seems likely.

Cases from seven states have been piling up since the term began last October. The court has heard only one. On Dec. 11 it reversed for lack of evidence the sit-in conviction of 16 Negro students who demonstrated at three white lunch counters in Baton Rouge, La., in 1960.

The court has scheduled arguments next term on an appeal by 187 Negro students convicted last year in Columbia, S. C., of breach of the peace after an anti-segregation demonstration on the capitol grounds.

The Baton Rouge students were also convicted of disturbing the peace. Chief Justice Earl Warren rules that sitting "peacefully in a place where custom decreed they should not sit" was not evidence of a crime.

Another Louisiana case is pending, as well as appeals from Maryland, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Alabama and Georgia.

Thirteen of the cases not yet acted upon deal with trespass convictions, a subject on which the court has not thus far touched.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) is defending many of the demonstrators. It contends that a state may not constitutionally enforce racial discrimination through the trespass law in a store open to the general public.

Minor Theft Cases Probed By Officers

Monroe police were busy Saturday investigating minor theft reports while West Monroe officers were attempting to locate the owner of a found billfold.

Charles W. Smith of 1510 South Second St., returned home shortly after lunch Saturday and found some of his clothing and luggage gone, and in their place a paper bag of old clothes and worn out pair of shoes.

Smith told Monroe police officers he left home at 7:40 a.m. Saturday and returned at 12:15 p.m. When he entered his home, he found a paper bag containing a bundle of old clothing and a pair of worn out shoes.

West Monroe officers were trying to locate Patsy L. Ledford, whose last known address was 126 Louise Dr., Ruston. Her billfold was found by an Arizona motorist on U. S. Highway 80, west of West Monroe, early Saturday morning. The black billfold with a driver's license issued to Patsy Ledford, was turned over to the West Monroe department by John T. Hays, Scott Dale, Ariz.

She is requested to contact the West Monroe ploice department and claim her wallet

The West Monroe fire department also had a busy day — units 17 and 16 extinguished a car fire on the Thomas Road early Saturday morning and put out an electrical blaze at the A & W Root Beer Stand at 1323 Natchitoches St., at 1 p.m.

Lodge Endorsed By Republicans For Senate Race

The Senate seat at stake this year was formerly held by Lodge's father, Henry Cabot Lodge, who lost it to President Kennedy in 1952.

Two years ago, when President Kennedy won the national election, Henry Cabot Lodge was the defeated Republican nominee for vice president.

The political feud dates back much further. Soon after the turn of the century, Henry Cabot Lodge's grandfather, who bore the same name, defeated President Kennedy's grandfather, John F. Fitzgerald, for the U.S. Senate.

Lodge said Saturday he believed he should personally tell the convention his reasons for running as long as he was asking for delegate support.

Lodge said he decided to run because he was shocked at "the use of naked power by the federal government" and that he was "angry at the callous manner in which a single family has grasped for personal power."

Without mentioning the Kennedy family by name, he said, "their arrogance is so complete, that with open contempt for their own party in their own state, they forced the Democratic convention to endorse the mot unqualified candidate for public office this country has ever seen."

That was an obvious reference to Ted Kennedy, who reached his 30th birthday, the minimum age for a senatorial candidate, only last February.

Decision Due On Budgets For Schools

Wednesday, which reports indicate was the scene of heated argument.

The State Board of Education formally announced in a resolution Friday it "unalterably opposed" changes being proposed in the method of distributing public school funds.

Gravolet said the budget committee had recommended using the identical method set up by the education department in recent years to allocate funds to the local systems.

"I don't know how anybody could be opposed to it," Gravolet said.

Gravolet outlined what he said were three major reasons why direct appropriations by the legislature had to be used. They were based on the segregation problem, need for grants in aid to private school pupils, and the state's critical financial situation.

He noted the budget committee has been consulting directly with education officials on spending and the distribution formula.

In the legislative mill is a set of bills creating a new threeman grants in aid commission and providing financies for grants through bonding part of the state sales tax to bring in up to $20 million a year.

Bar Group Opposes 75 Bills

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana State Bar Association's house of delegates voted Saturday to oppose 78 bills in the current legislature, including one to provide for emergency commitment of mentally ill persons.

The house of delegates acted on 125 measures on which the group's committee on law reform reported recommendations either for opposition or promotion because of their effect on administration of justice.

The group took no action on 16 already withdrawn or approved by both chambers of the legislature. The law reform committee studied 1,500 bills. It excluded all measures having no direct effect on the administration of justice.

Eberhard Deutsch of New Orleans, chairman, said the committee in the future would seek bar authority to request that legislation in which it was interested be held aside until the house of delegates could take action on recommendations.

The mentally ill commitment bill the delegates opposed originally was introduced by Rep. Arthur Crais of Orleans Parish.

Chairman James Leake of the House committee on public health, welfare and charitable institutions, offered a substitute bill after his committee studied the measure.

The committee report said the bill would authorize any person to take a mentally disturbed person into custody and transport him to a hospital without civil or criminal liability.

Such broad authority, the report said, should be limited to doctors, curators and police officers.

The group also opposed the so-called "good samaritan" bill offered in the House by Rep. Mike John of Ouachita.

NEW COMPANY

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — James Stapleton, Paul Lukather and George Sawaya have been signed to a three - year, non - exclusive contract by Newton Arnold and Michael du Pont's new company, Glenwood - Neve Productions.

The company's first production, "Hands of a Stranger," will star Stapleton and Lukather and feature Sawaya.

Natchez Youth Hurt In Wreck

VIDALIA (Special) — Philip G. Gousset Jr., 19, of Natchez Saturday night remained hospitalized after the car he was driving overturned and was demolished on a winding road nine miles south of here Saturday afternoon.

Authorities at Jeff Davis Hospital in Natchez described Gousset's condition as serious. His companion, Eugene Moritz of Natchez, was treated for lacerations and shock and discharged.

The pair, both students at Mississippi State University, were on a fishing trip to Deer Park when their auto turned over on a sharp curve at Moro Plantation.

Legislature Set For Sixth Week

liquor in drugstores and supermarkets will come on the heels of another liquor bill handled by another administration floor leader.

Rep. T. T. Fields of Farmerville won House approval Thursday on his measure to require wholesale and retail liquor dealers to operate under separate roofs.

But Rep. John Schwegmann, a Jefferson Parish supermarket owner, amended the bill to include a "grandfather" clause. Schwegmann opposed Triche's measure also.

Womack, meantime, ran into trouble last week on his milk bill, opposed again by Schwegmann, who contended that it would force the price of milk to go up.

The House also may receive for final passage a bill by Rep. Rodney Buras of New Orleans to exempt from property taxes any new houses until occupied or sold.

Buras has had trouble passing bills so far this session.

Meantime, a bill sponsored by the Little Hoover Commission to permit future governors to succeed themselves will be brought back for reconsideration.

Rep. Robert Munson, commission chairman, of Cheneyville wanted to give the measure its final test Thursday, but he delayed action because of a short House.

Munson, however, may hold the bill until Monday or later since Sunday night sessions can be murder on controversial items.

The Legislature is expected to continue through a heavy load of bills this week sponsored by individual lawmakers with the administration's big test of strength to come next week.

Rep. Bryan Lehmann, a floor leader who heads the House appropriations committee, said the $495 million general appropriations bill probably will be submitted next Sunday night.

This will leave the Legislature a little over two weeks to consider next year's spending program — a job that may cause the lawmakers to act up, since Davis is proposing a cutback in funds.

Says De Gaulle's Separate Forces Stand Dangerous

ing against city attack by the Soviet Union McNamara added, "We are giving a possible opponent the strongest imaginable incentive to refrain from striking our own cities."

McNamara said "a central military issue facing NATO today is the role of nuclear strategy" and then ticked off four items pointing toward what he called increased integration to achieve common defense:

1. The NATO alliance "has over-all nuclear strength adequate to any challenge confronting it."

2. This strength "not only minimizes the likelihood of major nuclear war, but makes possible a strategy designed to preserve the fabric of our societies if war should occur."

3. The damage to civilian society from nuclear war would be very grave.

4. Improved non-nuclear forces, "well within alliance resources, could enhance deterrence of any aggressive moves short of direct, all-out attack on Western Europe."

He said, too, "we confidently expect to maintain in the years ahead" the balance of nuclear power. During the next fiscal year, the United States plans to spend almost $15 billion on nuclear weapons and for what this money buys, there is no substitute, the defense chief declared.

The Soviet Union has superiority in non-nuclear forces today but that superiority is by no means overwhelming, McNamara said. Collectively, NATO has the potential for defense against such forces; in manpower alone NATO has more men under arms than the Soviet Union and her satellites, he said. The United States has added $10 billion for non-nuclear strength buildup in the current and next fiscal years.

Attend Meet

Dr. John W. Hill, assistant professor of chemistry at Northeast Louisiana State College, will attend the conference on nuclear and electron spin resonance at the University of Florida on a grant from the National Science Foundation.

The conference will be held Aug. 13-24, and Dr. Hill's grant is $180 for the 11 days, plus expenses, Dr. William K. Easley, chairman of the NLSC chemistry department, has announced.

Taken Ill

Jes' Ramblin' was sorry to hear that Mrs. Larue Howard, wife of Monroe's mayor, was rushed to St. Francis hospital Saturday for emergency treatment after she became ill at their farm home on Buckhorn Bend Road.

Mrs. Howard said Saturday night that she will probably go home in a couple of days but visitors will be welcome.

Terrorists Fail To Stop Brides

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—June is still the month of the bride, even in terror-gripped Algiers.

In the City Hall, shattered by Friday's explosions, six couples lined up Saturday in front of the marriage official. The brides wore white gowns and clutched fresh flowers. After the joint ceremony, they stepped daintily on high heels across debris and shattered glass to waiting automobiles.

William T. Dean Succumbs; Rites Are Set Monday

William T. Dean, 55, died at his residence in Bosco at 6:15 p.m. Saturday after an illness of several months.

Funeral services are scheduled at 10 a.m. Monday at the chapel of Mulhearn Funeral Home here with the Rev. O. Stalcup, pastor of the Bosco Baptist Church, officiating.

Burial will follow in the Twin City Memorial Gardens outside West Monroe on U. S. Highway 80 with Masonic services at the graveside.

Mr. Dean, a native of Hope, Ark., was a welder employed by Ford, Bacon and Davis Company of Monroe. He was a veteran of World War Two, a member of the Bosco Baptist Church and Graham Surghnor of the Masonic Lodge.

Survivors include his widow, Mrs. Lou Dean, Bosco; two daughters, Misses Deloris Ann and Charissa Lee Dean, both of Bosco; one son, Charles C. Dean, Oakdale, his mother and step-father, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Hackworth, Monroe; four sisters, Mrs. Allen Cloud, and Mrs. P. M. Jeter, both of Bosco, Mrs. W. A. Newman, Monroe, and Mrs. George Ellington, Mangum; three brothers, Ferris P. Dean and Fred Dean, both of Nederland, Tex., and A. J. Dean, Titusville, Fla.; and two grandchildren.

Lodge Endorsed By Republicans For Senate Race

The Senate seat at stake this year was formerly held by Lodge's father, Henry Cabot Lodge, who lost it to President Kennedy in 1952.

Two years ago, when President Kennedy won the national election, Henry Cabot Lodge was the defeated Republican nominee for vice president.

The political feud dates back much further. Soon after the turn of the century, Henry Cabot Lodge's grandfather, who bore the same name, defeated President Kennedy's grandfather, John F. Fitzgerald, for the U.S. Senate.

Lodge said Saturday he believed he should personally tell the convention his reasons for running as long as he was asking for delegate support.

Lodge said he decided to run because he was shocked at "the use of naked power by the federal government" and that he was "angry at the callous manner in which a single family has grasped for personal power."

Without mentioning the Kennedy family by name, he said, "their arrogance is so complete, that with open contempt for their own party in their own state, they forced the Democratic convention to endorse the mot unqualified candidate for public office this country has ever seen."

That was an obvious reference to Ted Kennedy, who reached his 30th birthday, the minimum age for a senatorial candidate, only last February.

Decision Due On Budgets For Schools

Wednesday, which reports indicate was the scene of heated argument.

The State Board of Education formally announced in a resolution Friday it "unalterably opposed" changes being proposed in the method of distributing public school funds.

Gravolet said the budget committee had recommended using the identical method set up by the education department in recent years to allocate funds to the local systems.

"I don't know how anybody could be opposed to it," Gravolet said.

Gravolet outlined what he said were three major reasons why direct appropriations by the legislature had to be used. They were based on the segregation problem, need for grants in aid to private school pupils, and the state's critical financial situation.

He noted the budget committee has been consulting directly with education officials on spending and the distribution formula.

In the legislative mill is a set of bills creating a new threeman grants in aid commission and providing financies for grants through bonding part of the state sales tax to bring in up to $20 million a year.

Natchez Youth Hurt In Wreck

VIDALIA (Special) — Philip G. Gousset Jr., 19, of Natchez Saturday night remained hospitalized after the car he was driving overturned and was demolished on a winding road nine miles south of here Saturday afternoon.

Authorities at Jeff Davis Hospital in Natchez described Gousset's condition as serious. His companion, Eugene Moritz of Natchez, was treated for lacerations and shock and discharged.

The pair, both students at Mississippi State University, were on a fishing trip to Deer Park when their auto turned over on a sharp curve at Moro Plantation.

Bar Group Opposes 75 Bills

BATON ROUGE (AP) — The Louisiana State Bar Association's house of delegates voted Saturday to oppose 75 bills in the current legislature, including one to provide for emergency commitment of mentally ill persons.

The house of delegates acted on 125 measures on which the group's committee on law reform reported recommendations either for opposition or promotion because of their effect on administration of justice.

The group took no action on 16 already withdrawn or approved by both chambers of the legislature. The law reform committee studied 1,500 bills. It excluded all measures having no direct effect on the administration of justice.

Eberhard Deutsch of New Orleans, chairman, said the committee in the future would seek bar authority to request that legislation in which it was interested be held aside until the house of delegates could take action on recommendations.

The mentally ill commitment bill the delegates opposed originally was introduced by Rep. Arthur Crais of Orleans Parish.

Chairman James Leake of the House committee on public health, welfare and charitable institutions, offered a substitute bill after his committee studied the measure.

The committee report said the bill would authorize any person to take a mentally disturbed person into custody and transport him to a hospital without civil or criminal liability.

Such broad authority, the report said, should be limited to doctors, curators and police officers.

The group also opposed the so-called "good samaritan" bill offered in the House by Rep. Mike John of Ouachita.

NEW COMPANY

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — James Stapleton, Paul Lukather and George Sawaya have been signed to a three - year, non - exclusive contract by Newton Arnold and Michael du Pont's new company, Glenwood - Neve Productions.

The company's first production, "Hands of a Stranger," will star Stapleton and Lukather and feature Sawaya.

Legislature Set For Sixth Week

liquor in drugstores and supermarkets will come on the heels of another liquor bill handled by another administration floor leader.

Rep. T. T. Fields of Farmerville won House approval Thursday on his measure to require wholesale and retail liquor dealers to operate under separate roofs.

But Rep. John Schwegmann, a Jefferson Parish supermarket owner, amended the bill to include a "grandfather" clause. Schwegmann opposed Triche's measure also.

Womack, meantime, ran into trouble last week on his milk bill, opposed again by Schwegmann, who contended that it would force the price of milk to go up.

The House also may receive for final passage a bill by Rep. Rodney Buras of New Orleans to exempt from property taxes any new houses until occupied or sold.

Buras has had trouble passing bills so far this session.

Meantime, a bill sponsored by the Little Hoover Commission to permit future governors to succeed themselves will be brought back for reconsideration.

Rep. Robert Munson, commission chairman, of Cheneyville wanted to give the measure its final test Thursday, but he delayed action because of a short House.

Munson, however, may hold the bill until Monday or later since Sunday night sessions can be murder on controversial items.

The Legislature is expected to continue through a heavy load of bills this week sponsored by individual lawmakers with the administration's big test of strength to come next week.

Rep. Bryan Lehmann, a floor leader who heads the House appropriations committee, said the $495 million general appropriations bill probably will be submitted next Sunday night.

This will leave the Legislature a little over two weeks to consider next year's spending program — a job that may cause the lawmakers to act up, since Davis is proposing a cutback in funds.

Says De Gaulle's Separate Forces Stand Dangerous

ing against city attack by the Soviet Union McNamara added, "We are giving a possible opponent the strongest imaginable incentive to refrain from striking our own cities."

McNamara said "a central military issue facing NATO today is the role of nuclear strategy" and then ticked off four items pointing toward what he called increased integration to achieve common defense:

1. The NATO alliance "has over-all nuclear strength adequate to any challenge confronting it."

2. This strength "not only minimizes the likelihood of major nuclear war, but makes possible a strategy designed to preserve the fabric of our societies if war should occur."

3. The damage to civilian society from nuclear war would be very grave.

4. Improved non-nuclear forces, "well within alliance resources, could enhance deterrence of any aggressive moves short of direct, all-out attack on Western Europe."

He said, too, "we confidently expect to maintain in the years ahead" the balance of nuclear power. During the next fiscal year, the United States plans to spend almost $15 billion on nuclear weapons and for what this money buys, there is no substitute, the defense chief declared.

The Soviet Union has superiority in non-nuclear forces today but that superiority is by no means overwhelming, McNamara said. Collectively, NATO has the potential for defense against such forces; in manpower alone NATO has more men under arms than the Soviet Union and her satellites, he said. The United States has added $10 billion for non-nuclear strength buildup in the current and next fiscal years.

having received his MD at the University of Mississippi. He will intern at John Sealy Hospital in Galveston.

And to add to the family celebrations, David was married to Carrie Land of Jackson.

Attend Meet

Dr. John W. Hill, assistant professor of chemistry at Northeast Louisiana State College, will attend the conference on nuclear and electron spin resonance at the University of Florida on a grant from the National Science Foundation.

The conference will be held Aug. 13-24, and Dr. Hill's grant is $180 for the 11 days, plus expenses, Dr. William K. Easley, chairman of the NLSC chemistry department, has announced.

Taken Ill

Jes' Ramblin' was sorry to hear that Mrs. Larue Howard, wife of Monroe's mayor, was rushed to St. Francis hospital Saturday for emergency treatment after she became ill at their farm home on Buckhorn Bend Road.

Mrs. Howard said Saturday night that she will probably go home in a couple of days but visitors will be welcome.

Terrorists Fail To Stop Brides

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP)—June is still the month of the bride, even in terror-gripped Algiers.

In the City Hall, shattered by Friday's explosions, six couples lined up Saturday in front of the marriage official. The brides wore white gowns and clutched fresh flowers. After the joint ceremony, they stepped daintily on high heels across debris and shattered glass to waiting automobiles.

Pool Dedication Set At Tallulah

TALLULAH (Special) — Citizens of Tallulah today will dedicate their town's new swimming pool, financed entirely by public subscription. The community project stands out as a monument to hard working public-spirited townspeople who chose to give voluntarily rather than pass an all-inclusive tax.

Ceremonies will begin at 2 p.m. with Rep. Otto Passman as principal speaker. Sponsors of the project are members of the Madison Recreational Society which was incorporated in 1951.

The Society, active in numerous fields of recreational endeavor, launched the drive for the new pool in February, 1960, under the leadership of its president, Mrs. Warren Mills.

Swimming recreation was provided previously at Delhi, 20 miles away.

The need for a safe place to swim was made keenly apparent when, on July 25, 1960, the community was shocked by the tragic accidental drowning of little seven-year-old Cally Calhoun of Ruston who was visiting relatives here. Memorial gifts gave impetus to the fund drive.

After the swimming pool drive have been started, Gaines Byram was named general chairman of the financial drive.

Businessmen were approached with the idea that investment in the swimming pool was an investment in Tallulah. The response was gratifying. As a yardstick for soliciting subscriptions, the finance committee evolved what was designated as the "500 Club," whereby it was hoped that 500 familes would pledge $100 each.

The town was divided into five areas with a chairman for each area. About 25 workers solicited pledges to extend over a three-year period.

The pool is located on four and one-half acres of land donated by W. W. Burnside and W. A. Cooper. Jim Folk was named president of the society in 1961, and worked to carry on the project. Ralph Loe is the new president.

When sufficient funds were raised to enable the building committee to "go head," a contract for $46,783.15 was let and excavation began the first of December.

Mrs. Mills accepted responsibility to campaign for additional funds to obtain a bath house and fence. Donations by individuals and groups were secured. Young matrons of Tallulah sponsored a rummage sale and employees of the telephone company invited diti citizens to a benefit dance. By May of this year, the fund was over-subscribed.

Volunteer labor and workmen, including plumbers, electricians and supplies who gave building materials at cost, enabled the bath house to be constructed at about half what the contract cost would have been.

The pool opened June 2, and the first day 485 swimmers came out to use the facilities.

Single season memberships of $9 or family memberships of $12 (or for visitors 25 cents for children and 50 cents for adults per visit) provides a season-long pass to the pool.

Recreation Program Ends First Week

The Monroe recreation Department brought it's first week of summer playgrounds to an end Friday with a talent show being the feature attraction.

Talent show winners at each white playground were: George Breese, first place, Bonnie Rushing, a dance, second place; Jackie Prophit, a dance, and third place, Debbie Rushing and Pat Stockstill, a pantomine.

Sherrouse, first place, Mitchell Charrier, a song—Cottonfields; second place, Betsy Coy, the twist; third place, Sonny Ober, Cornet solo, The Marine Hymn.

Georgia - Tucker, first place, Joel Watts, trumpet solo; second place, Cindy McDonough, Barbara McDonough, and Sandra Sherman, a skit; third place, Robert Watts, a clarinet solo; Clara - Hall, first place, Sonya Moody and Carol Martin, a dance; second place, Bobby Ross and Joanie Shambro, the twist; third place, David Leath and Randy Hillman a clown dance.

Lexington, Charlotte Kilcrease, Mike Miltello, Bruce Betts, Johnnie Portman, Kippy Sudduth, Tommy Grigson, and Eugene Wisakowsky; Lida - Benton, Judy Roberts, Rita Mathews, Kathy Harold, Irma Harrell, Joanie DeLaney, Brenda Smith, Dottie Walters, Debbie Simpson, Jesse Roberts, Ted Finkbeiner, Alois Smith, and Brenda Womack.

Barkdull - Faulk, Jimmy Rogers, the twist, Libby and Catherine Masters, Cotton Fields, Kay Lofton and Lois Boatright, Mash Potato, Folk Dancers, Gary Stamper, Janice Thompson, Robert Thompson, Randy Borden, Mickey Lofton, Marion Lawrence, Libby Masters, Carmen Lofton, Betsy Kimbel, Peter Masters, Catherine Masters, Martin Ramsey, and Lois Boatright.

Colored winners were: Carver, Singing, Mary Brown, Sarah Johnson, and Paul Jones, imitations, Donna Hill, Charles James, and Edward Lewis, and stunts; Carrie Turner, Renwick St., Creative Dance, Amanda Huff, Authur Hollins, George Jones, and Frankie Jackson, Songs, Alester McElroy, Charles Moore, Maxine Hopper, Vera Thomas, Reading, Cleo May, Alice Thomas, Ruthie Sellers, Johnson Recreation Center, Ruth Ann Edwards, Thera Saucers, and Robert Lloyd.

Attendance for the first week was: Barkdull - Faulk, 336; Lida-Benton, 423; Lexington, 225; Clara Hall, 237; Georgia - Tucker, 174; Sherrouse, 287; George - Breese, 154; Johnson Recreation Center, 418; Carver Homes, 456; and Renwick Street Recreation Center, 232.

All playgrounds engaged in free play activities during the week and special emphasis was placed on checkers and Rook. This week a Rook and checker tournament will be held at Georgia - Tucker and Lida-Benton and Carver Homes playgrounds. Playgrounds will run for seven more weeks and are open Monday through Friday 8:30 to 11:30.

Swimming lessons will start Tuesday morning at the Southside pool. These lessons are sponsored by the recreation department and are under the supervision of Roy Aston, head lifeguard.

Twelve years of age and up, including adults, will start at 7 a.m. Nine, ten and 11 years old will start at 7:45.

The six, seven and eight year old will start at 8:30.

The pool will be open to the public at 9:45 until 9 p.m. for regular swimming until the lessons are over with.

Kennedy Flies To Glen Ora

MIDDLEBURG, Va. (AP)—President Kennedy flew to Glen Ora, his leased estate near here, Saturday afternoon, to spend the weekend.

He was accompanied by his daughter, Caroline, on the 21-minute helicopter flight from the White House lawn.

Mrs. Kennedy and John Jr., who drove to Glen Ora Friday, were on hand to greet them.

Kennedy expects to return to the White House early Monday.

Harriman Says Soviets Urging Guinea Invasion

WASHINGTON (AP)—Assistant Secretary of State Averell Harriman said Saturday night we have to believe that the Russians have been encouraging President Sukarno of Indonesia to try to seize West New Guinea by force.

The United States and U.N. Acting Secretary-General U Thant have been trying to bring about a peaceable settlement of the New Guinea dispute between Indonesia and the Netherlands. They have not succeeded and there has been some fighting in the area between Indonesia and Dutch forces.

In a recorded radio interview—Radio Press International—Harriman was asked whether he had any reason to fear that Sukarno is too close to the Kremlin.

"I think we have reason to believe that the Russians have been egging Sukarno on," he replied. "I think they would like to see a battle there, because they know that the United States and many countries will oppose the settlement of this by force and therefore they—the Indonesians—would then depend upon the Russians more than they do today."

Harriman said he thinks the mediation efforts have narrowed the differences between the two countries. The United States believes that if they can be brought back to the conference table these final differences will be ironed out and a peaceful solution will be found, he said.

ALCATRAZ ESCAPE

Louisiana Burglar Leader In Break

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Who thought up last week's escape from Alcatraz is unclear. But it's apparent that the mastermind of the break by three southern bank robbers was Frank Lee Morris, a small man with the large I.Q of 132.

Personal comment on the three escapees by Fred T. Wilkinson, assistant director of the Federal Bureau of Prisons, bears this out.

"Morris is quiet and very intelligent. He's not given to rash violence. Above all, he's a planner. The whole operation seems typical of him."

Wilkinson added, however, that the other men, brothers John and Clarence Anglin, "are more on the natively cunning side, throwbacks to the swamp country, more given to action."

Wilkinson said he came to know the men at the Atlanta Federal Penitentiary where he served as warden.

Morris was 35, was an escapee from the state prison at Angola, La., when he took part in a $6,165 burglary of a Slidell, La., bank on Nov. 25, 1955. Recaptured he was sent to Alcatraz, the impregnable "rock" in San Francisco Bay, on Jan. 14 to complete his 14-year sentence.

John and Clarence Anglin and a third brother robbed a Columbia, Ala., bank of $19,000 in January 1958. They were arrested and the money recovered. John was sent to Alcatraz in October of 1960 and Clarence followed him the following January to complete 15 and 10-year sentences, respectively.

The Anglins eventually were put in side-by-side cells, as is federal custom for brothers. Morris was four cells away. The cells were on the lower tier of a triple decker.

Morris, if he was the ringleader, must have noticed the cell walls are eroded and the metal fixtures rusted. Wilkinson and Warden Olin Blackwell admit this condition.

The first step must have been to pry at the walls around a metal ventilator cover. The results were satisfactory since all three men eventually chipped loose the ventilator covers in their cells. They would take the dirt down to the prison exercise yard and throw it to the winds, a handful at a time.

Eventually it became necessary to cover up their handiwork. There is a workshop in the prison and the warden says the men had access to such things as paint glue, and so on. Someone with patience smuggled enough material into the cells to make and paint cardboard replicas of the ventilator covers, plus a little bit of wall.

It must have been an electric moment for the men when they got the ventilator covers loose, and enlarged the holes in the four-inch thick walls to about 10-by-14 inches, big enough to crawl through.

What they found first was a passageway connecting all the cells. Now they could meet and plot without being observed. They could explore. Next there was a 30-foot pipe, narrow but wide enough to squirm up, that led to the roof.

From the roof it was 100 feet to any number of long drain pipes leading to the ground. Beyond that there was only a 12-foot barbed wire topped fence and 100 yards further they were on the beach, the "rock's" cliffs rising some 100 feet above them.

Another convict said the trio fashioned a pontoon raft of raincoat sleeves. No such raft has been found, but since the escape two makeshift paddles, turned out in the Alcatraz workshop, have been discovered.

One of the paddles was found on "the rock," the other on Angle Island to the north, the closest point of land to Alcatraz, but still two miles away.

This floating gear had been hidden on the roof.

The warden and Wilkinson, the latter sent to Alcatraz to investigate the break, do not deny any of the above but they insist that the night the men went to the water, once they embarked, "They were on their own."

Officially there is no police projection of what happened. The FBI, in charge of the search, would say only "we are doing everything we can think of. The case is not closed until there is a body."

Did they make it: No one knows.

Negotiations Resumed By Ford, Union

DETROIT (AP) — Representatives of Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers Union resumed negotiations Saturday to settle a 10-day-old strike at an Ohio stamping plant that has resulted in the layoff of about 50,000 Ford workers.

The company shut down the last of its auto assembly lines Friday night, saying the strike by 3,300 workers at the Walton Hills stamping plant over work standards had cut off supplies of vital parts.

Both sides agreed a better understanding of the issues was gained in sessions Friday.

"If we can find the framework for a settlement, the negotiations will continue on a nonstop basis," Ken Bannon, a UAW vice president, said Saturday.

The Walton Hills UAW local struck in a dispute over production quotas in three areas. A management spokesman said the additional grievances have been added during negotiations.

The plant was one of the last to settle local grievances during national negotiations between Ford and the UAW on a new three-year wage contract last fall.

All of Ford's 16 assembly plants were shut down at the close of work Friday. A battery manufacturing plant had been closed earlier.

A partial shutdown at Ford's glass plant in Nashville, Tenn., will idle 1,000 workers, but another 1,000 will be kept on to keep furnaces going and attend to other duties, a company spokesman said.

A total of 10,000 employes at metal stamping plants at Buffalo, Chicago, Dearborn and Monroe, Mich., also will be laid off Monday.

Ford said five truck assembly plants will continue operating under present plans.

Pool Dedication Set At Tallulah

TALLULAH (Special) — Citizens of Tallulah today will dedicate their town's new swimming pool, financed entirely by public subscription. The community project stands out as a monument to hard working public-spirited townspeople who chose to give voluntarily rather than pass an all-inclusive tax.

Ceremonies will begin at 2 p.m. with Rep. Otto Passman as principal speaker. Sponsors of the project are members of the Madison Recreational Society which was incorporated in 1951.

The Society, active in numerous fields of recreational endeavor, launched the drive for the new pool in February, 1960, under the leadership of its president, Mrs. Warren Mills.

Swimming recreation was provided previously at Delhi, 20 miles away.

The need for a safe place to swim was made keenly apparent when, on July 25, 1960, the community was shocked by the tragic accidental drowning of little seven-year-old Cally Calhoun of Ruston who was visiting relatives here. Memorial gifts gave impetus to the fund drive.

After the swimming pool drive have been started, Gaines Byram was named general chairman of the financial drive.

Businessmen were approached with the idea that investment in the swimming pool was an investment in Tallulah. The response was gratifying. As a yardstick for soliciting subscriptions, the finance committee evolved what was designated as the "500 Club," whereby it was hoped that 500 familes would pledge $100 each.

The town was divided into five areas with a chairman for each area. About 25 workers solicited pledges to extend over a three-year period.

The pool is located on four and one-half acres of land donated by W. W. Burnside and W. A. Cooper. Jim Folk was named president of the society in 1961, and worked to carry on the project. Ralph Loe is the new president.

When sufficient funds were raised to enable the building committee to "go head," a contract for $46,783.15 was let and excavation began the first of December.

Mrs. Mills accepted responsibility to campaign for additional funds to obtain a bath house and fence. Donations by individuals and groups were secured. Young matrons of Tallulah sponsored a rummage sale and employees of the telephone company invited diti citizens to a benefit dance. By May of this year, the fund was over-subscribed.

Volunteer labor and workmen, including plumbers, electricians and supplies who gave building materials at cost, enabled the bath house to be constructed at about half what the contract cost would have been.

The pool opened June 2, and the first day 485 swimmers came out to use the facilities.

Single season memberships of $9 or family memberships of $12 (or for visitors 25 cents for children and 50 cents for adults per visit) provides a season-long pass to the pool.

MRS. WARREN MILLS, who as president of the Madison Parish Recreational Society in 1960 started the movement to build the Tallulah swimming pool.

The pool will be open to the public at 9:45 until 9 p.m. for regular swimming until the lessons are over with.

Harriman Says Soviets Urging Guinea Invasion

WASHINGTON (AP)—Assistant Secretary of State Averell Harriman said Saturday night we have to believe that the Russians have been encouraging President Sukarno of Indonesia to try to seize West New Guinea by force.

The United States and U.N. Acting Secretary-General U Thant have been trying to bring about a peaceable settlement of the New Guinea dispute between Indonesia and the Netherlands. They have not succeeded and there has been some fighting in the area between Indonesia and Dutch forces.

In a recorded radio interview—Radio Press International—Harriman was asked whether he had any reason to fear that Sukarno is too close to the Kremlin.

"I think we have reason to believe that the Russians have been egging Sukarno on," he replied. "I think they would like to see a battle there, because they know that the United States and many countries will oppose the settlement of this by force and therefore they—the Indonesians—would then depend upon the Russians more than they do today."

Harriman said he thinks the mediation efforts have narrowed the differences between the two countries. The United States believes that if they can be brought back to the conference table these final differences will be ironed out and a peaceful solution will be found, he said.

Negotiations Resumed By Ford, Union

DETROIT (AP) — Representatives of Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers Union resumed negotiations Saturday to settle a 10-day-old strike at an Ohio stamping plant that has resulted in the layoff of about 50,000 Ford workers.

The company shut down the last of its auto assembly lines Friday night, saying the strike by 3,200 workers at the Walton Hills stamping plant over work standards had cut off supplies of vital parts.

Both sides agreed a better understanding of the issues was gained in sessions Friday.

"If we can find the framework for a settlement, the negotiations will continue on a nonstop basis," Ken Bannon, a UAW vice president, said Saturday.

The Walton Hills UAW local struck in a dispute over production quotas in three areas. A management spokesman said that additional grievances have been added during negotiations.

The plant was one of the last to settle local grievances during national negotiations between Ford and the UAW on a new three-year wage contract last fall.

All of Ford's 16 assembly plants were shut down at the close of work Friday. A battery manufacturing plant had been closed earlier.

A partial shutdown at Ford's glass plant in Nashville, Tenn., will idle 1,000 workers, but another 1,000 will be kept on to keep furnaces going and attend to other duties, a company spokesman said.

A total of 10,000 employes at metal stamping plants at Buffalo, Chicago, Dearborn and Monroe, Mich., also will be laid off Monday.

Ford said five truck assembly plants will continue operating under present plans.

Army Is Hoping To Trim Guard

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some high Army officials are ready to recommend a get-tough course if state governors insist on holding onto National Guard units the Army feels are unnecessary.

But they still hope the governors can be persuaded to go along with the Army's plan to break up four Guard divisions and eliminate 340 company and detachment-size units.

The record of virtually solid opposition by governors seems to indicate it is a slim hope.

It is questionable whether President Kennedy would permit the Army to get tough with the governors on this politically sensitive question in a congressional election year.

Intense political pressure has been directed against the planned elimination of 751 Guard and Reserve units and a related proposal to cut Guard and Reserve manpower from 700,000 to 642,000 men.

The Defense Department said nearly half of the 50 governors have written letters which have come to the attention of Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara. All were critical.

Thirty-three of the 100 senators have written — about half opposed and the rest either forwarding letters from constituents or asking information. Apparently none supported the reorganization plan.

Slightly fewer than 50 House members have written to McNamara on the question, the Pentagon said, with about one-third of them registering opposition and the rest sending along letters from the homefolks or seeking information. Here, too, there no known expressions of support.

In this fight, the Army has a powerful ally in McNamara, who has shown in the past he doesn't bend easily to pressure.

The Army believes the final language of a military money bill, already passed in different versions by the House and Senate, will permit it to go ahead with its controversial reorganization plan.

But the Army is braced for the distinct possibility that Congress may order it to keep the Guard at 400,000 men and the Reserve at 300,000. A House - Senate conference committee is expected to work out compromise language on this next week. The original House bill does not require these manpower floors, the Senate bill does — and in the past, the Senate view on this question has prevailed.

The Army's proposal to trim authorized Guard and Reserve manpower by 58,000 men — 33,000 Guard and 25,000 Reserve — is only indirectly related to the plan for elimination of 751 units.

The Army says the lower figure of 642,000 is about all it can expect to muster in the coming year, unless it undertakes an extraordinary recruiting effort and lowers its standards.

The men in the units to be disbanded would not be released, but would be assigned to other outfits or to a manpower pool available for use as reinforcements in any callup.

Even if Congress does not stand in the way, basic law requires that a governor must approve any change or elimination of a Guard unit in his state.

However, the Army holds a trump card:

It could withdraw federal recognition — and with it, federal drill pay and equipment — from any unit it decided had no place in the modern organization.

The governor could keep the unit as part of his state militia, but it would have no federal standing.

"If there is a clear case where the Army doesn't need a unit, I would certainly recommend withdrawing federal recognition," said one top official when pressed on what he would do if all else failed.

Seaman Killed By N.O. Police In Gun Battle

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — New Orleans police, in a running gun battle Saturday, shot and killed an armed seaman who had been stopped for routine questioning.

The victim was identified from papers in his wallet as Floyd Daniel Roberts, 34, of New Orleans.

Officers John Ballengee and Terry Parta had stopped Roberts when he whipped out a revolver and fired one shot at Parta.

As Roberts started to run, both officers opened fire and hit him several times.

Rusk Says Danger Of War By Accident Grows

CONCORD, N.H. (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk warned Saturday night the danger of war by accident is being increased by the unchecked nuclear arms race and he appealed anew for an enforceable disarmament agreement.

"Only one breakthrough is required," Rusk said. "The Soviet Union must realize that it cannot eat the cake of disarmament and keep the cake of secrecy . . . It is our hope that the Soviets will come to realize that secrecy is a dangerous anachronism in a nuclear age."

In a speech prepared for the New Hampshire Council on World Affairs, Rusk blamed the Soviet's unwillingness to accept a disarmament inspection and control system for the total failure of all the East-West negotiations to halt the arms race.

He said the United States has tried many approaches to meet Soviet objections that inspection would only mean Western "espionage" inside the Soviet Union. He declared this country and its Allies will go on trying and he expressed hope that someday "responsible statemanship" in Moscow will lead to accord.

Rusk said all nations of the world are presently caught in a paradoz, declaring that while they are "pouring more and more resources and skill into improving armaments, they are, on balance, enjoying less and less security."

"There are four specific dangers which the East and West now share," he said, "which could be the basis for early action in the disarmament field . . .

"First, there is the danger which arises from the proliferation of nuclear weapons under the control of an increasing number of individual nations. As more and more nations come to possess their own nuclear stockpiles, the danger of a nuclear conflagration also increases. (The United States, Russia, and Britain have had nuclear weapons for years. France is now developing a nuclear war capability).

"Secondly, there is the danger of outbreak of war by accident, miscalculation or failure of communications this danger grows as modern weapons become more complex, command and control difficulties increase, and the premium is on ever faster reaction.

"Thirdly, there is an increasing danger that outer space will become man's newest battlefield. . . .

"Fourthly, there is the danger that mounting proportions of our national resources, skill and treasure will have to be diverted to the business of developing newer and newer armaments. Neither the United States nor the U.S.S.R. has so many schools, hospitals and highways . . . that we could not put to better use the funds and energies and talents which go to make our warships and tanks and missiles."

Tighten Up Operations

By W. B. RAGSDALE JR.

WASHINGTON (AP)—While the Billie Sol Estes case still crackles about him, Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman is trying to prevent this sort of thing from happening again.

Estes, a smooth-talking Texas farm boy, took city slicker finance companies for millions before his paper empire toppled earlier this year and he was indicted for fraud. Almost daily investigators uncover new facets of his complex dealings.

Although Freeman insists the government didn't lose a cent to the 37-year-old Pecos, Tex., wheeler-dealer, there is evidence that he took advantage of loopholes in government farm programs and their administration.

Republicans charge he received favored treatment from the Agriculture Department. They say the favoritism came in Estes' cotton acreage allotment transfers, and in the department's failure to boost his bond on grain facilities and to remove Estes as a member of the President's Cotton Advisory Committee until after his indictment.

Sen. Karl Mundt, R-S.D., says Freeman told him he now regrets his May 7 news conference comment that the Estes affair had been "ballooned out of all proportions."

Freeman refused to confirm this and appeared reluctant to discuss the subject, but he is taking steps to tighten up operations of his 90,000-employe department with the idea of bringing warnings about any future fast and loose operators to the prompt attention of top officials.

Testimony before Texas courts of inquiry and a House subcommittee shows a number of warning signals in the Estes case that either were ignored or followed up too slowly.

To guard against a repeat performance, Freeman is creating a trouble shooting team of investigators who will have the job of collecting these warning signals, assessing them and reporting directly to the secretary.

"We should be acutely tuned in to little things that might become big things," Freeman said in an interview. "The little red flags need to be watched carefully, lest they become big red flags.

"In a case that involved as much money as this, the work should have moved much faster. There ought to be shortcuts that will alert the top officials more quickly."

In 1949, a Hoover Commission task force said of the Agriculture Department:

"This department has grown to its present size without sufficient attention being given to integrating its parts into a whole. As a result it is in many ways a loose confederation of autonomous bureaus with a strong tendency to develop overlapping and duplicating programs."

Some progress has been made in pulling together the vast operations of the department since that day, but meanwhile the department also has grown enormously, especially its surplus commodity operations.

When Freeman took over in January 1961, he inaugurated changes that may have far-reaching effects on the century-old department. Some steps, however, may take years to complete.

By use of electronic data processing equipment, payroll and personnel records will be consolidated in New Orleans starting next January. This huge computer complex will take over all operations of 87 payroll departments and many duties of the 130 personnel offices.

Officials say not only will the central operation cut costs, but it also will increase efficiency by providing a handy, central source of information about employes.

With the present setup, one top official said, "We know more about cows and bulls in our dairy programs than we do about our people."

Freeman also began a host of studies designed to see where modern management techniques can be put to use. These already have resulted in many changes with more on the way.

But the Estes affair stepped up the pace and forced a close look to see if other changes are needed.

Freeman acknowledged slowness in facing up to the problems posed by Estes but he insisted the evidence doesn't show that the West Texas financier got any favors.

Although three officials who took favors from Estes have been fired, Freeman repeatedly has said they gave no favors in return. Assistant Secretary of Labor Jerry Holleman also was fired when he admitted taking money from Estes.

Freeman agreed, however, that any wealthy, influential man—as Estes appeared to be—may get extra consideration from a government agency, even though he says it probably won't change the final decision.

"A man who can call on his congressman for help, possibly bring in a smart lawyer, is bound to be better off than the man who doesn't know his way around," Freeman said.

Freeman said he counted on his special investigating team to speed up machinery in cases such as that of Estes, where he said it was moving in the right direction but much too slowly.

This is planned as a group of 14 to 16 picked men who will coordinate the activities of the 700 men already working on internal audits and investigations. At present, these investigators work within separate department divisions and have no way to know what another bureau is working on.

For example, Estes was continued as a member of the president's cotton advisory committee when it was given official status by Congress last fall, even though one agency was investigating his cotton acreage allotment dealings and another probing his financial status.

As a result of the first investigation, the department levied a $554,000 fine against Estes for alleged irregularities in the transfer of more than 3,000 acres of cotton allotments. But the action came after his indictment.

Freeman said the cotton allotment investigation was a "very tricky legal problem," but he added:

"The transfer of a few acres should not attract attention but the transfer of 3,000 acres should have been warning. Then we should have gotten to the heart of that—fast."

Republicans have charged favoritism was shown when the government dropped plans to boost the bond required for Estes' grain operations from $700,000 to $1 million.

Warehouse officials accepted a net worth statement—later admitted by the accountant to be poorly drawn—that showed Estes' net worth was more than $13 million at a time when he actually was in debt.

As a result of this incident, two certified public accountants have been assigned to the warehouse division to help review financial statements and help train other staff members.

Also, a task force is reviewing all bonds of $200,000 or over for grain warehouses and $100,000 or more for cotton warehouses and making a comprehensive review of most recent financial information from warehousemen.

Later, a review is planned of the adequacy of all bonds of any amount.

Atom Used To Smoke Out Opium And Other Crimes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The same atom which can destroy (or light) cities is being used to smoke out smuggled opium.

This is not a case of using a sledgehammer to swat a fly. The detective atom is kept under control at all times in nuclear reactors like those at the Atomic Energy Commission's Oak Ridge (Tenn.) national laboratory.

It can perform almost inconceivably delicate tasks. It is now assisting the Treasury Department's Bureau of Narcotics in its never - ending struggle to stop smuggling of opium into this country.

It is important to the narcotics bureau to know where the contraband is coming from, whether from China, Asia Minor, India, or wherever else the opium poppies blow.

Knowing the origin helps the bureau to build road blocks against the narcotics traffic.

George Leddicotte of the Oak Ridge lab has developed a procedure, called "activation analysis which is able to tell federal narcotics agents where a confiscated batch of opium came from.

"Through activation analysis, scientists can determine the trace amounts of various minor element found in the samples of opium.

"By comparison of these trace amounts with samples of known origin, they can determine from what area the opium came."

It is a fact the smugglers can't do anything about that because minute amounts of many so-called trace elements are present in the soil where opium poppies are cultivated.

When opium is sent through a nuclear reactor, the trace elements are made slightly radioactive.

"After its trip through the reactor, the sample is placed in a shielded lead container and the rays emitted from the various radioactive atoms are measured," the AEC reports.

"The energy of the various rays is indicative of the elements in the sample. Comparison with samples of known origin then gives the location."

The atom also is doing detective work on other fronts of crime But the AEC isn't telling all it knows about these other jobs of the atomic cops.

A Sheriff's Formula For

Catching Crooks

By JIMMY HATTEN
State Editor

TALLULAH — Silver - haired Sheriff C. E. Hester has evolved a simple and effective formula for handling criminal cases in his 18 years as Madison Parish's chief law enforcement officer.

Whenever a man is suspect in a case, Hester says, "We try to treat that man the way we'd like to be treated."

But few would make the mistake of taking unfair advantage of Hester and Co.'s hospitality. His record of efficiency and his reputation as a forceful lawman attest to this.

Hester, at 70, is one of Louisiana's oldest sheriffs and one of the most respected — especially in the Northeast Louisiana area. He took over the sheriff's post following the death of Sheriff Andrew Sevier, after Sevier's widow had filled out her late husband's term.

Hester was hesitant about campaigning for the post at first, but as he says, "The people finally talked me into it."

AGRICULTURALIST

Thus the former agriculturalist embarked on a career that he says he has never regretted.

His first love was the soil. For 14 years he managed what was then the largest cotton plantation in Louisiana at Transylvania. He also served for seven or eight years as a county agent.

Four years after he took over the reins of sheriff in Madison, he was catapulted into national prominence for his work on the Walter Dorman murder case.

Dorman, of Hattiesburg, Miss., met his death the night of Oct. 22, 1948 in a fishing shack at Talla Bena, a small settlement about a mile and one-half from Tallulah.

Newspapers carried short articles on the death, which was later to balloon into a cloak-and-dagger saga that was snatched up by several detective magazines.

Dorman was killed when the shack exploded. The structure had served as the home of George R. Dowdy, 67, and his son, J. D., 23. At first, the grisley remains found in the rubble of the blast were thought to be those of J. D. Dowdy.

But later, it was established that it was Dorman, who had been visiting in the area. Investigation by Hester, his deputies and other officials disclosed that the elder Dowdy was in possession of about $13,000 worth of life insurance preminums taken out on his son J. D. several weeks before.

After positive identification of the remains as those of Dorman, the two Dowdy's were taken into custody and were later indicted on murder charges. Hester's conviction that dynamite, and not gasoline as had been claimed, was the cause of the explosion set the stage for the probe that turned up the purchase place of the explosives and led to the breaking of the case.

It's not often that a hair-raising murder mystery comes along, Hester explains — much of the time it's routine investigation and meeting the everyday law enforcement needs of the people of the parish.

"But," Hester hastens to point out, "you never know what is going to turn up — it never gets monotonous."

A man who looks and acts the type of the storied old Southern gentleman, Hester maintains that so far as the delta parish of Madison is concerned, "We don't have any problems around here."

Madison is a parish with a heavy Negro population. Although the government people are edging in on the civil rights issue, especially as regards to voting, the veteran sheriff is quick to point out that the Sheriff's Department does its duty impartially.

"As far as the law is concerned, they're protected just as we would anyone else," he says.

Though a segregationist, Hester foresees advances by the Negro population. But he maintains that one part of the population cannot be elevated by cutting the other part down. His advice — understanding and common sense.

His son-in-law, U. S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, doesn't stand a chance of changing Hester's viewpoint on race, and Hester admits, he won't be apt to change Douglas. They understand each other.

Hester's force has increased from four to nine since he took office.

He is credited with being one of the first to equip his patrol cars with two-way radios and has established a efficient system of records and files.

He is a member of the Louisiana Sheriff's Associaton, the Louisiana Peace Officer's Association and the National Sheriff's Association.

A man who has seen pathos and excitement, progress and change during his tenure as sheriff, Hester sums it up this way—"The biggest thing in law enforcement is how you treat people."

Quiet Revolution

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission is sending its miracle workers of the atomic age out in increasing force.

These miracle workers are radioactive atoms, or isotopes.

In a quiet revolution, they're already performed myriads of tasks with stunning successes in medicine and health, industry, and agriculture.

The greatest peaceful boons from atomic energy, they've influenced almost every phase of American life, and have even gone into space and out to sea to power miniature radio broadcasting stations.

In medicine, radioactive isotopes have probed secrets of heart disease and cancer, the chemistry of life, the workings of vitamins and hormones. They help diagnose and treat diseases, and 500,000 Americans each year are given radio-atoms to seek out disease.

In industry, they've helped create new plastics and other products. They provide astonishingly accurate controls to measure and gauge industrial processes, and can peek with X-ray eyes to spot flaws inside industry's output.

In agriculture, these special atoms led to better fertilizers, wiped out at least one costly pest of cattle, brought new strains of plants yielding richer harvests, or better able to resist disease.

The main producer of radioisotopes is the Oak Ridge National Laboratory. Since 1946, it has shipped more than 160,000 packages of 100 various kinds of radioisotopes products to hospitals, industries, research centers, and jobbers or suppliers in this country and abroad.

Their potential uses are only beginning to be realized, many specialists feel.

A new isotopes development center has just been established at this laboratory, operated for the AEC by the Union Carbide Corporation.

It will serve as a focal point of information on current uses, will seek or suggest ideas for new applications, and add to a vast library of information on both radioactive and non-radioactive isotopes so users can pick the best isotope suited for a particular purpose, explains A. F. Rupp, director of the new center.

Radioisotopes are getting to be fairly big business, with the Oak Ridge Laboratory alone selling about $2½ million worth a year.

Before atomic energy arrived, radioisotopes were pretty rare. A few were made in tiny amounts by bombarding ordinary materials in atomic accelerators or atom-smashers. Some special radio-atoms are still made that way. Far more are produced in atomic piles or ovens.

A wealth of radioisotopes comes from the ashes or wastes produced in reactors or atomic power plants. Splitting uranium or plutonium create dozens of radio-atoms, including strontium-90, cesium-137, iodine-131.

Periodically, the fuel must be chemically reprocessed to purify the unspent portions and remove the wastes or isotopes.

Finding jobs for them and selling them could cut down the overall cost of running the reactor and electrical power plant.

Because they give off tell-tale radiation, radio-atoms can be traced wherever they go in the soil, human or animal bodies, or in pipelines.

As tracers, they've explored the action of drugs, of chemicals known to cause cancer in animals, how the body makes and breaks down its protein stuff of life, how the body uses cholesterol, blamed as a cause of heart attacks.

The thyroid gland drinks up iodine. Radio-iodine is used to determine if a thyroid is overactive, or besieged by cancer. Rays from bigger doses of radio-iodine can combat such growths.

Cobalt-66 and cesium-137 shoot out powerful gamma rays, similar to X-rays, used to treat disease.

Radio-atoms show how fertilizers move through the ground, and where or how rapidly they move into plants. Radio-atoms can also change the heredity of plants in the search for higher-yield strains.

Radio-atoms have shown the path to new weed killers or plant growth stimulants. They helped wipe out the screw worm fly, a pest of cattle, and they promise similar controls over other costly pests.

Tracking Arkansas Bobcats

By JANICE CLARK
Correspondent

CROSSETT, Ark. — Up front in a rapidly - growing sport in southern Arkansas is the up-at-dawn hunt for the bobcat. The population of this lightening - swift predator has grown to tremendous proportions in the past few years, and the dapple - coated cat enjoys the questionable status of year-round open season as a quarry.

Two of Ashley County's most regular hunters are Boyett Goodwin and Clayton Miller, who have trailed the bobcat for over two years. By June this year they had killed 83 together, and 22 since January. The men, who are neighbors on the Bastrop-Hamburg highway, share dogs and a lifetime of having lived and hunted in the forests and creek bottoms near their homes.

Boyett got into the cat hunting sport first. He had a pup named Skivy, which he was thinking of raising to be a hunting dog, when Skivy began killing housecats with a zeal that carried over to killing "anything that would climb a tree." So in season Skivy became a topnotch squirrel and coon dog, and when the season closed on those game animals Skivy kept Goodwin hunting for bobcats.

We left a note on Goodwin's door one afternoon telling him we'd like a picture of him and his dogs, with a bobcat if possible. By 10 the next morning we received a call that Boyett and Miller had a cat for us. They'd arisen at daybreak and headed out for the sort of terrain they felt a bobcat would like. Asked just where you go to look for bobcats, they said, "In old fields and briar patches — where quail and other birds might be nesting."

The dogs began "cold-trailing" the cat at about 6 o'clock that morning, and finally cornered him three hours later. The dogs "run him up and down a briar patch about an hour before we hollered him out." Then the dogs were too fast for the cat to go up a tree and moved in on the 24 pound whirlwind. The cornered cat sank his teeth into Skivy's muzzle, and the two went into orbit as a single clawing, snarling, biting unit of dynamite, with the other dogs darting in and out of the fray to give and take their share of punishment.

This is when 67-year-old Goodwin moved in with speed to match the whirling animals, using his hands and gun butt to pry the animals apart and free his dog. A .22 shot then caught the cat in the side and felled him. When we reached Goodwin and Miller several hours later we found the dogs stiff and sore, and almost harder to get to their feet than the dead cat. Skivy's muzzle was swollen and punctured with deep teeth marks, and the other dogs were nursing wounds about the head and paws. Goodwin was as lithe as an Indian, however, and showed no signs of exhaustion as he squatted on his heels beside the younger Miller to tell of the five-hour hunt through fields, up creek beds and into the woods on the path of the cat dogs.

In their two years of hunting the bobcats the men have learned a great deal about their habits; how to trail them, and something of how to anticipate the cats' actions. But the bobcat comes honestly by the description, "wily!" Miller says a cat racing ahead of a pack of dogs will skim over a creek on a log, stop up ahead until the dogs cross the creek, then circle back over the same log — leaving the dogs in utter confusion. Goodwin commented that bobcats are "gettin' tricky as a coon about fooling a dog." He says a cat will race up to a tree, bump into it, and then leap beyond it, often leaving the dogs baying up the tree where they think the cat has climbed. "They'll go up a leaning tree and jump out, sometimes through nearby pines, before touching ground — leaving the dogs at the base of the old tree."

Once last year Goodwin's Skivy cornered a 40-pound cat that "got him across the nose." Goodwin's right hand is cross - hatched with scars he received as he pried the huge cat loose so he could get a clear shot at him. And that was a cat that almost bore out the old saying that a cat has nine lives. Goodwin's dogs treed that one, and the hunter barely glimpsed him 75 feet up a tree peering around the trunk at him. Boyett took aim with his .22 pistol and caught the huge cat toward the back, just showing from behind the tree. The cat slid halfway down the tree and clung there "looking sort of addled." Another shot hit him on the side of the head, and the cat dropped into the middle of the dogs. He sank his claw into one dog's foot, and "I knocked him loose with my pistol butt." That is when the 40-pounder caught Goodwin across the back of his right hand with his claws as the man fought to free his dog. A third shot finally killed the animal.

The men say there are 50 per cent more cats in Ashley County woods this year than last. We asked how they reached that estimate, and Goodwin said, "Because I see 100 per cent more tracks and signs." Among the "signs" are little piles of dirt along the edges of dirt and gravel roads where the bobcat scratches up the dirt, with both paws held closely together. Their paw prints are clearly discernible along the bayou and creek banks where the cats come for water. We asked how he accounted for the sudden increase in cat population, and he replied that high water during the past few years drove them up from the bottom lands. They have found good eating there, and have stayed and are multiplying very rapidly.

Miller and Goodwin have checked the stomach contents of many of the 83 animals they have killed and found game birds of all sorts, especially those that nest near the ground such as quail and wild turkey; also chickens, squirrel and pigs. Goodwin said that "last winter there must have been 400 pigs in these woods, and now I doubt if there are 20." Four sows near his place had 31 pigs several weeks ago, and now there are only four remaining. "One sow had six or seven pigs two or three weeks ago and I said, " 'There's cat bait.' I went back in four days and there were no pigs. They'll also eat a lot of young deer."

A cat dog is not easily trained. Battle-worn Skivy died early this year, and the two men now hunt mostly with several dogs Miller has trained. Miller said, "I raised two packs of dogs and every one of them trailed deer before I finally made a cat dog out of a black and tan." It was a real switch to hear men speak with disgust about dogs that trail deer!

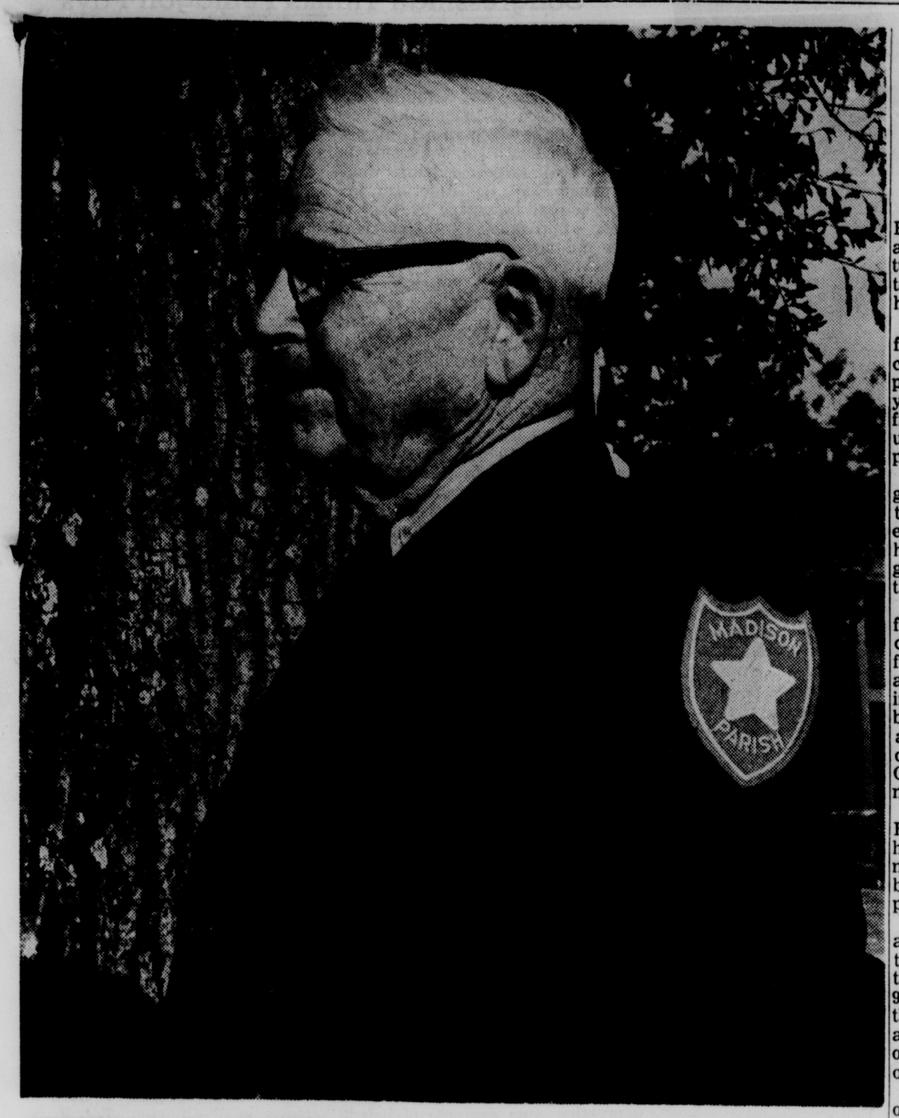

For the handful of cat hunters in Ashley County, the excitement of trailing the wily bobcat, and then the unpredictable behavior of the cornered animal provide the real challenge. Goodwin says that when you catch the eye of a cat up a tree the animal's mouth stretches into a devilish grin, and the hair along his jowls bristles out on end — and you know something is about to happen and with the speed of a snapped spring. The cat will jump from as high as 30 to 40 feet and hit the ground running. If he's cornered on the ground he'll turn and fight through a pack of dogs and men — whatever stands between him and freedom. Every cat hunt reaches a different climax, and both hunter and dogs bear scars to help them remember the times the cat fought back — but both keep going back to hunt their idea of the most exciting prey in Ashley County.

BOYETT GOODWIN with a battered, battle-scarred Skivy after a four-hour morning chase that brought down the 24-pound cat. Skivy looks on the dead cat with extreme distaste, his muzzle still sore and swollen from the encounter.

Although three officials who took favors from Estes have been fired, Freeman repeatedly has said they gave no favors in return. Assistant Secretary of Labor Jerry Holleman also was fired when he admitted taking money from Estes.

Freeman agreed, however, that any wealthy, influential man—as Estes appeared to be—may get extra consideration from a government agency, even though he says it probably won't change the final decision.

"A man who can call on his congressman for help, possibly bring in a smart lawyer, is bound to be better off than the man who doesn't know his way around," Freeman said.

Freeman said he counted on his special investigating team to speed up machinery in cases such as that of Estes, where he said it was moving in the right direction but much too slowly.

This is planned as a group of 14 to 16 picked men who will coordinate the activities of the 700 men already working on internal audits and investigations. At present, these investigators work within separate department divisions and have no way to know what another bureau is working on.

For example, Estes was continued as a member of the president's cotton advisory committee when it was given official status by Congress last fall, even though one agency was investigating his cotton acreage allotment dealings and another probing his financial status.

As a result of the first investigation, the department levied a $554,000 fine against Estes for alleged irregularities in the transfer of more than 3,000 acres of cotton allotments. But the action came after his indictment.

Freeman said the cotton allotment investigation was a "very tricky legal problem," but he added:

"The transfer of a few acres should not attract attention but the transfer of 3,000 acres should have been warning. Then we should have gotten to the heart of that—fast."

Republicans have charged favoritism was shown when the government dropped plans to boost the bond required for Estes' grain operations from $700,000 to $1 million.

Warehouse officials accepted a net worth statement—later admitted by the accountant to be poorly drawn—that showed Estes' net worth was more than $13 million at a time when he actually was in debt.

As a result of this incident, two certified public accountants have been assigned to the warehouse division to help review financial statements and help train other staff members.

Also, a task force is reviewing all bonds of $200,000 or over for grain warehouses and $100,000 or more for cotton warehouses and making a comprehensive review of most recent financial information from warehousemen.

Later, a review is planned of the adequacy of all bonds of any amount.

Atom Used To Smoke Out Opium And Other Crimes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The same atom which can destroy (or light) cities is being used to smoke out smuggled opium.

This is not a case of using a sledgehammer to swat a fly. The detective atom is kept under control at all times in nuclear reactors like those at the Atomic Energy Commission's Oak Ridge (Tenn.) national laboratory.

It can perform almost inconceivably delicate tasks. It is now assisting the Treasury Department's Bureau of Narcotics in its never - ending struggle to stop smuggling of opium into this country.

It is important to the narcotics bureau to know where the contraband is coming from, whether from China, Asia Minor, India, or wherever else the opium poppies blow.

Knowing the origin helps the bureau to build road blocks against the narcotics traffic.

George Leddicotte of the Oak Ridge lab has developed a procedure, called "activation analysis which is able to tell federal narcotics agents where a confiscated batch of opium came from.

"Through activation analysis, scientists can determine the trace amounts of various minor element found in the samples of opium.

"By comparison of these trace amounts with samples of known origin, they can determine from what area the opium came."

It is a fact the smugglers can't do anything about that because minute amounts of many so-called trace elements are present in the soil where opium poppies are cultivated.

When opium is sent through a nuclear reactor, the trace elements are made slightly radioactive.

"After its trip through the reactor, the sample is placed in a shielded lead container and the rays emitted from the various radioactive atoms are measured," the AEC reports.

"The energy of the various rays is indicative of the elements in the sample. Comparison with samples of known origin then gives the location."

The atom also is doing detective work on other fronts of crime But the AEC isn't telling all it knows about these other jobs of the atomic cops.

A Sheriff's Formula For Catching Crooks

By JIMMY HATTEN
State Editor

TALLULAH — Silver - haired Sheriff C. E. Hester has evolved a simple and effective formula for handling criminal cases in his 18 years as Madison Parish's chief law enforcement officer.

Whenever a man is suspect in a case, Hester says, "We try to treat that man the way we'd like to be treated."

But few would make the mistake of taking unfair advantage of Hester and Co.'s hospitality. His record of efficiency and his reputation as a forceful lawman attest to this.

He took over the sheriff's post following the death of Sheriff Andrew Sevier, after Sevier's widow had filled out her late husband's term.

Hester was hesitant about campaigning for the post at first, but as he says, "The people finally talked me into it."

AGRICULTURALIST

Thus the former agriculturalist embarked on a career that he says he has never regretted.

His first love was the soil. For 14 years he managed what was then the largest cotton plantation in Louisiana at Transylvania. He also served for seven or eight years as a county agent.

Four years after he took over the reins of sheriff in Madison, he was catapulted into national prominence for his work on the Walter Dorman murder case.

Dorman, of Hattiesburg, Miss., met his death the night of Oct. 22, 1948 in a fishing shack at Talla Bena, a small settlement about a mile and one-half from Tallulah.

Newspapers carried short articles on the death, which was later to balloon into a cloak-and-dagger saga that was snatched up by several detective magazines.

Dorman was killed when the shack exploded. The structure had served as the home of George R. Dowdy, 67, and his son, J. D., 23. At first, the grisley remains found in the rubble of the blast were thought to be those of J. D. Dowdy.

But later, it was established that it was Dorman, who had been visiting in the area. Investigation by Hester, his deputies and other officials disclosed that the elder Dowdy was in possession of about $13,000 worth of life insurance preminums taken out on his son J. D. several weeks before.

After positive identification of the remains as those of Dorman, the two Dowdy's were taken into custody and were later indicted on murder charges. Hester's conviction that dynamite, and not gasoline as had been claimed, was the cause of the explosion set the stage for the probe that turned up the purchase place of the explosives and led to the breaking of the case.

It's not often that a hair-raising murder mystery comes along, Hester explains — much of the time it's routine investigation and meeting the everyday law enforcement needs of the people of the parish.

"But," Hester hastens to point out, "you never know what is going to turn up — it never gets monotonous."

A man who looks and acts the type of the storied old Southern gentleman, Hester maintains that so far as the delta parish of Madison is concerned, "We don't have any problems around here."

Madison is a parish with a heavy Negro population. Although the government people are edging in on the civil rights issue, especially as regards to voting, the veteran sheriff is quick to point out that the Sheriff's Department does its duty impartially.

"As far as the law is concerned, they're protected just as we would anyone else," he says.

Though a segregationist, Hester foresees advances by the Negro population. But he maintains that one part of the population cannot be elevated by cutting the other part down. His advice — understanding and common sense.

His son-in-law, U. S. Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas, doesn't stand a chance of changing Hester's viewpoint on race, and Hester admits, he won't be apt to change Douglas. They understand each other.

Hester's force has increased from four to nine since he took office.

He is credited with being one of the first to equip his patrol cars with two-way radios and has established a efficient system of records and files.

He is a member of the Louisiana Sheriff's Associaton, the Louisiana Peace Officer's Association and the National Sheriff's Association.

A man who has seen pathos and excitement, progress and change during his tenure as sheriff, Hester sums it up this way—"The biggest thing in law enforcement is how you treat people."

Quiet Revolution

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

OAK RIDGE, Tenn. (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission is sending its miracle workers of the atomic age out in increasing force.

These miracle workers are radioactive atoms, or isotopes.

In a quiet revolution, they're already performed myriads of tasks with stunning successes in medicine and health, industry, and agriculture.

The greatest peaceful boons from atomic energy, they've influenced almost every phase of American life, and have even gone into space and out to sea to power miniature radio broadcasting stations.

In medicine, radioactive isotopes have probed secrets of heart disease and cancer, the chemistry of life, the workings of vitamins and hormones. They help diagnose and treat diseases, and 500,000 Americans each year are given radio-atoms to seek out disease.

In industry, they've helped create new plastics and other products. They provide astonishingly accurate controls to measure and gauge industrial processes, and can peek with X-ray eyes to spot flaws inside industry's output.

In agriculture, these special atoms led to better fertilizers, wiped out at least one costly pest of cattle, brought new strains of plants yielding richer harvests, or better able to resist disease.

The main producer of radioisotopes is the Oak Ridge National Laboratory. Since 1946, it has shipped more than 160,000 packages of 100 various kinds of radioisotopes products to hospitals, industries, research centers, and jobbers or suppliers in this country and abroad.

Their potential uses are only beginning to be realized, many specialists feel.

A new isotopes development center has just been established at this laboratory, operated for the AEC by the Union Carbide Corporation.

It will serve as a focal point of information on current uses, will seek or suggest ideas for new applications, and add to a vast library of information on both radioactive and non-radioactive isotopes so users can pick the best isotope suited for a particular purpose, explains A. F. Rupp, director of the new center.

Radioisotopes are getting to be fairly big business, with the Oak Ridge Laboratory alone selling about $2½ million worth a year.

Before atomic energy arrived, radioisotopes were pretty rare. A few were made in tiny amounts by bombarding ordinary materials in atomic accelerators or atom-smashers. Some special radio-atoms are still made that way. Far more are produced in atomic piles or ovens.

A wealth of radioisotopes comes from the ashes or wastes produced in reactors or atomic power plants. Splitting uranium or plutonium create dozens of radio-atoms, including strontium-90, cesium-137, iodine-131.

Periodically, the fuel must be chemically reprocessed to purify the unspent portions and remove the wastes or isotopes.

Finding jobs for them and selling them could cut down the overall cost of running the reactor and electrical power plant.

Because they give off tell-tale radiation, radio-atoms can be traced wherever they go in the soil, human or animal bodies, or in pipelines.

As tracers, they've explored the action of drugs, of chemicals known to cause cancer in animals, how the body makes and breaks down its protein stuff of life, how the body uses cholesterol, blamed as a cause of heart attacks.

The thyroid gland drinks up iodine. Radio-iodine is used to determine if a thyroid is overactive, or besieged by cancer. Rays from bigger doses of radio-iodine can combat such growths.

Cobalt-66 and cesium-137 shoot out powerful gamma rays, similar to X-rays, used to treat disease.

Radio-atoms show how fertilizers move through the ground, and where or how rapidly they move into plants. Radio-atoms can also change the heredity of plants in the search for higher-yield strains.

Radio-atoms have shown the path to new weed killers or plant growth stimulants. They helped wipe out the screw worm fly, a pest of cattle, and they promise similar controls over other costly pests.

Tracking Arkansas Bobcats

By JANICE CLARK
Correspondent

CROSSETT, Ark. — Up front in a rapidly - growing sport in southern Arkansas is the up-at-dawn hunt for the bobcat. The population of this lightening - swift predator has grown to tremendous proportions in the past few years, and the dapple - coated cat enjoys the questionable status of year-round open season as a quarry.

Two of Ashley County's most regular hunters are Boyett Goodwin and Clayton Miller, who have trailed the bobcat for over two years. By June this year they had killed 83 together, and 22 since January. The men, who are neighbors on the Bastrop-Hamburg highway, share dogs and a lifetime of having lived and hunted in the forests and creek bottoms near their homes.

Boyett got into the cat hunting sport first. He had a pup named Skivy, which he was thinking of raising to be a hunting dog, when Skivy began killing housecats with a zeal that carried over to killing "anything that would climb a tree." So in season Skivy became a topnotch squirrel and coon dog, and when the season closed on those game animals Skivy kept Goodwin hunting for bobcats.

We left a note on Goodwin's door one afternoon telling him we'd like a picture of him and his dogs, with a bobcat if possible. By 10 the next morning we received a call that Boyett and Miller had a cat for us. They'd arisen at daybreak and headed out for the sort of terrain they felt a bobcat would like. Asked just where you go to look for bobcats, they said, "In old fields and briar patches — where quail and other birds might be nesting."

The dogs began "cold-trailing" the cat at about 6 o'clock that morning, and finally cornered him three hours later. The dogs "run him up and down a briar patch about an hour before we hollered him out." Then the dogs were too fast for the cat to go up a tree and moved in on the 24 pound whirlwind. The cornered cat sank his teeth into Skivy's muzzle, and the two went into orbit as a single clawing, snarling, biting unit of dynamite, with the other dogs darting in and out of the fray to give and take their share of punishment.

This is when 67-year-old Goodwin moved in with speed to match the whirling animals, using his hands and gun butt to pry the animals apart and free his dog. A .22 shot then caught the cat in the side and felled him. When we reached Goodwin and Miller several hours later we found the dogs stiff and sore, and almost harder to get to their feet than the dead cat. Skivy's muzzle was swollen and punctured with deep teeth marks, and the other dogs were nursing wounds about the head and paws. Goodwin was as lithe as an Indian, however, and showed no signs of exhaustion as he squatted on his heels beside the younger Miller to tell of the five-hour hunt through fields, up creek beds and into the woods on the path of the cat dogs.

In their two years of hunting the bobcats the men have learned a great deal about their habits; how to trail them, and something of how to anticipate the cats' actions. But the bobcat comes honestly by the description, "wily!" Miller says a cat racing ahead of a pack of dogs will skim over a creek on a log, stop up ahead until the dogs cross the creek, then circle back over the same log — leaving the dogs in utter confusion. Goodwin commented that bobcats are "gettin' tricky as a coon about fooling a dog." He says a cat will race up to a tree, bump into it, and then leap beyond it, often leaving the dogs baying up the tree where they think the cat has climbed. "They'll go up a leaning tree and jump out, sometimes through nearby pines, before touching ground — leaving the dogs at the base of the old tree."

Once last year Goodwin's Skivy cornered a 40-pound cat that "got him across the nose." Goodwin's right hand is cross - hatched with scars he received as he pried the huge cat loose so he could get a clear shot at him. And that was a cat that almost bore out the old saying that a cat has nine lives. Goodwin's dogs treed that one, and the hunter barely glimpsed him 75 feet up a tree peering around the trunk at him. Boyett took aim with his .22 pistol and caught the huge cat toward the back, just showing from behind the tree. The cat slid halfway down the tree and clung there "looking sort of addled." Another shot hit him on the side of the head, and the cat dropped into the middle of the dogs. He sank his claw into one dog's foot, and "I knocked him loose with my pistol butt." That is when the 40-pounder caught Goodwin across the back of his right hand with his claws as the man fought to free his dog. A third shot finally killed the animal.

The men say there are 50 per cent more cats in Ashley County woods this year than last. We asked how they reached that estimate, and Goodwin said, "Because I see 100 per cent more tracks and signs." Among the "signs" are little piles of dirt along the edges of dirt and gravel roads where the bobcat scratches up the dirt, with both paws held closely together. Their paw prints are clearly discernible along the bayou and creek banks where the cats come for water. We asked how he accounted for the sudden increase in cat population, and he replied that high water during the past few years drove them up from the bottom lands. They have found good eating there, and have stayed and are multiplying very rapidly.

Miller and Goodwin have checked the stomach contents of many of the 83 animals they have killed and found game birds of all sorts, especially those that nest near the ground such as quail and wild turkey; also chickens, squirrel and pigs. Goodwin said that "last winter there must have been 400 pigs in these woods, and now I doubt if there are 20." Four sows near his place had 31 pigs several weeks ago, and now there are only four remaining. "One sow had six or seven pigs two or three weeks ago and I said, " 'There's cat bait.' I went back in four days and there were no pigs. They'll also eat a lot of young deer."

A cat dog is not easily trained. Battle-worn Skivy died early this year, and the two men now hunt mostly with several dogs Miller has trained. Miller said, "I raised two packs of dogs and every one of them trailed deer before I finally made a cat dog out of a black and tan." It was a real switch to hear men speak with disgust about dogs that trail deer!

For the handful of cat hunters in Ashley County, the excitement of trailing the wily bobcat, and then the unpredictable behavior of the cornered animal provide the real challenge. Goodwin says that when you catch the eye of a cat up a tree the animal's mouth stretches into a devilish grin, and the hair along his jowls bristles out on end — and you know something is about to happen and with the speed of a snapped spring. The cat will jump from as high as 30 to 40 feet and hit the ground running. If he's cornered on the ground he'll turn and fight through a pack of dogs and men — whatever stands between him and freedom. Every cat hunt reaches a different climax, and both hunter and dogs bear scars to help them remember the times the cat fought back — but both keep going back to hunt their idea of the most exciting prey in Ashley County.

BOYETT GOODWIN with a battered, battle-scarred Skivy after a four-hour morning chase that brought down the 24-pound cat. Skivy looks on the dead cat with extreme distaste, his muzzle still sore and swollen from the encounter.

United States Flag

Sponsored by the Lieutenant Joseph Bowmar Society, Children of the American Revolution, Flag Day was observed in the Twin Cities, along with other communities throughout the nation, last Thursday.

There events covering most of the past week marked the observance here, and because of the importance of observing this day to the American people we are taking note of it here.

To start off the observance the past week, on Monday afternoon the mayors of the Twin Cities signed a Flag Day proclamation. On Tuesday afternoon there was a presentation of a flag to the police jury for the parish courthouse. Then on Thursday, members of the society sold miniature flags.

The flag of the United States of America, the sacred symbol of our American heritage and our American hope for the future, should be the immediate concern of every American citizen.

Major objectives of the Lieutenant Joseph Bowmar Society were: to foster thoughtful, patriotic love and respect for our country's national emblem; to insure the correct use and display of the flag; to educate children and adults in the flag code; to encourage display of the flag in every community, at homes, business places and civic institutions; to make all Americans flag-conscious; to protect the flag in all ways, at all times, under all circumstances.

It is deplorable that so few people have flags and so few want to show them and spread joy for being an American. By having the symbol of our nation flying high, we bring joy and pride to the heart and spread patriotism to others.

In order that we may thus honor the flag, the following information on how to display Old Glory is given:

If the flag is displayed on a staff projecting at an angle from the home, the blue field must be at the top of the staff. When displayed over a sidewalk suspended vertically from a rope stretched from a house to a pole, it should be hoisted out with the blue field first.

When the flag is flown at half-mast, it should be raised to the peak for a moment and then lowered to the half-mast mark. Before lowering it for the day, it should again be hoisted to the peak for an instant. On Memorial Day the flag is flown half-mast until noon, then raised to the peak.

Blue, white and red striped bunting may be used for decorations but Old Glory should never be tied or dragged in that manner. Flag etiquette also requires that the flag should not touch the ground.

When other flags are flown on the same halyard, the American flag should be flown at the top. Only flags of our states or cities or pennants of societies may be flown from the same halyard.

The flag is usually displayed from sunrise to sunset in the open. It is raised briskly and lowered ceremoniously. Weather permitting, it is displayed daily and especially on certain enumerated holidays.

When carried in processions with another flag, the United States flag is borne on the marchers' right of the other emblems. When carried with several other flags, it may be borne in front of the center of the line formed by the other standards.

When displayed against a wall or a window, the blue field should be uppermost and to the observers' left. When displayed flat on a speaker's platform, the flag should be behind and above the speaker's head.

The United States has long been the stronghold of liberty. Today our liberty, our most priceless heritage, is in great danger, not only from outside forces but from our own forces also. The wanton disregard of many for our heritage is frightening.

The great German poet Goethe said in his generation, "What you have inherited from your fathers, earn over again for yourselves or it will not be yours."

It is very important that we give thoughtful study to American history, world history and history that is being made today. It is imperative that we keep morally straight. We must fight against the paralysis of patriotism that is creeping over our country. We must heed the admonition, "Wake up, Americans!"

Let us realize the spirit of the flag and learn to appreciate it more. Let us match our responsibilities with our privileges and check up on our individual loyalty to the fundamental ideals of our democracy.

As Francis Scott Key wrote in the Star-Spangled Banner, " 'Tis the Star-Spangled Banner, oh long may it wave, o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave."

Majority May Be Wrong

For quite a long time some Chattanoogans have been asserting that P. R. Olgiati is mayor of Chattanooga and a strong contender for governor because the people of that city keep re-electing him.

But suddenly the judgment of the Chattanooga voters seems to be a poor recommendation. They appear to have let maudlin sympathy overcome their common sense.

Raulston Schoolfield is a former judge there and a former attorney. The Tennessee legislature impeached him and convicted him and pulled him down from the bench. Then the bar association took him into court and disbarred him for life from practicing law.

On May 29 the voters of Chattanooga and Hamilton county almost put this former attorney back into judicial robes. They gave him 13,855 votes. The switching of 840 other votes would have elected him.

People are naturally sympathetic with a man who has lost his right to practice his profession. Sometimes they let sympathy overcome their reason.

There may have been instances in which an attorney was unjustly disbarred but the offense charged against him has to be serious and the evidence has to be strong. There may have been a case in the annuals of the United States in which a judge was unfairly impeached by a legislature but if there has been such a case we have never seen it. If the bar association says a man who formerly was a member is unfit to practice law and if a state legislature says the same man is unfit to be a judge, even the vote of the people becomes a poor recommendation.

If Olgiati should run for governor the people of Tennessee would do well to pay attention chiefly to his record, as voters in every state should do when selecting an official.

More than half of all telephone calls are made on impulse.

Old Razzle Dazzle

Alexandria, La.

To the Editor:

The old Democrat razzle-dazzle is being heard in the land. The Democrats as "The Party of The People," so - called, must live up to their name. So the old ballyhoo now — just before election time for the old reliable rubber stamp Democrats in Washington — is that the good old Democratic administration is making plans for cutting our taxes. Don't you believe it!

Not only is this expedient line dreamed up to catch votes for those old faithfuls running for re-election, but it is also a connivance for allowing the President what he is asking for — congressional approval of his request for solid control over the raising and lowering of taxes at will. In order to achieve this additional dictatorial power, he must first give out the news that he is thinking of the poor oppressed taxpayer by offering him a cut in taxes. That is bait. Once he gets this power — watch out! He can then raise taxes at his direction. And don't think he won't!

In spite of all their hollering about it, our congressmen do pay attention to letters they receive from constituents, so it would pay us all to write them and urge that they not give the president this added unconstitutional power. After all, there should be some limit to our suicidal bootlicking.

About Editor's Note

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

I have read, with disgust, your note on the letter submitted by my step - son, R. C. White, Jr.

First, let me make it clear that I do not agree with his sentiments on most of the current issues, but I do feel that he is entitled to his own opinions and convictions.

I have known R. C. White, Jr., since he was 16 years old. I have always known him to be an idealist and a humanitarian, and I will venture to say that there is not another young man in Monroe who has done more for humanity than he has.

I think for you to insinuate that he was "brain - washed" is libelous and a villanious assault on his character. It would seem to me that it would be ridiculous that one who has been through as much as he has and has seen the mistreatment of himself and his fellow prisoners, plus many deaths of his friends, could or would be converted to the enemy's beliefs. After having seen the workings of Communism, I am sure that he is even more opposed to it than most people.

Fortunately, the people in this community have known him much longer than they have known you and they know nothing of your background. No one who knows him will believe your dastardly innuendoes. Evidently, you are a bigot who would stoop to use your position to attack someone in such a manner simply because they do not agree with your views. I think this was really "hitting below the belt".

I would appreciate it if you would print this letter in your paper and would also thank you to cancel my subscription to your publication. If such lies are to be printed therein, I do not care to continue reading it.

Regrets Note

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

The members of the Commission on Christian Social Concerns of the First Methodist Church, Monroe, in session Monday evening, June 11th, expressed regret that the Editor's note which prefaced a letter contributed by Mr. R. C. White should infer that his comments contained in the letter might be the result of brainwashing while he was held prisoner of war in both Europe and North Korea.

Mr. White, who has been a member of this church for many years, serves also on this Commission. He is held in high esteem and we speak for his integrity, honor and fine Christian principles. He is much concerned about our Americcan way of life and those who know him value his interpretation of truth, justice and freedom.

Truth

Dodson, La.

To the Editor:

In Monroe Morning World, June 8, I saw an article entitled, "Editors Propose New Criteria Code to Help Evaluate Good Newspapers." Good luck and God Speed to you. The truth is, like diamonds, worth more than gold. But do you suppose this drive will succeed? Don't think it shall be tainted with political favoritism at some time and in different places.

The truth and nothing but the truth most likely would remove the smoke screen from a great deal of our political problems. At present I am writing an article, for a magazine in New York that would make the average editor's face red if he were either southern or northern, but I've written the facts as have I found them.

The problem with research work is that it is hard to find any two authors, that agree. For example, I refer to the World Almanac and quote it as I did in a recent article, and pick up a copy of a newspaper that discredits it. Then what?

I'm for you and the truth in every instance. Of course, we who write can be euphumistic. We don't have to be too sarcastic.

J. P. Waller

R. C. White Lauded

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

I have known R. C. White Jr., since his graduation from Tulane. I knew him when he was elected "Young Man of the Year" by the JC's and when he was a member of the Louisiana Legislature. I was one of a large number of friends who "sweated out" the long months of imprisonment until at last his name appeared on the list of those released by the Communists. In the last year or two, I have conversed with him almost daily and, so far as I can see, he is fundamentally unchanged in his ideas, your suggestion of "brain washing" to the contrary notwithstanding.

He has always had a deep concern of the less fortunate. The thought of children going hungry has stirred him to action and it did not seem to matter if the children were white or black, a fact that caused him to be challenged by an anonymous phone call as "nigger lover."

Since his return from the Communist Prison Camp he has acquired an exceptionally attractive wife and two exceptionally bright youngsters. He goes to church regularly, contributes liberally to the good things of our community. In fact, by almost any standard, he would be rated as worthy of highest respect.

It seems most unfortunate that a man who has given years of his life to his country and is now a useful, respected citizen should be so offensively referred to. It occurs to me that the author of the editorial note might be the same sort of a citizen. Probably leads much the same kind of private life. Why then, I wonder, do we allow ourselves to be so carried away with our own convictions that we make "anonymous phone calls" or, perhaps worse, write such an "Editor's Note" to those with whom we differ.

Cordially,

Reports Refute Charges 'Little Woman' Panicked In Stock Plunge

Was it the "little woman" who panicked on Black Monday, May 28, in Wall Street, then in unreasoning terror dumped her stocks in skyrocketing volume and thereby set off one of the worst stock market slumps of this century?

This is the accusation Wilbert H. Teepe, a vice president of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith made on TV that chaotic week. He declared that 75 per cent of the sell orders he received on Black Monday — and NO buy orders — came from panic-stricken female investors. The Insider's Newsletter of Cowles Magazines picked up the spectacular quote, queried Mrs. Ruth Hagy, vice president of United Shareholders of America, who "conceded that most of the heavy selling did come from unseasoned investors and that women formed a large part of this group."

NUTS to Mr. Teepe and Mrs. Hagy — and I've evidence to back up my derisive retort. What Teepe claimed and what Mrs. Hagy conceded wasn't so, and what's more, it couldn't have been so.

ITEM: Merrill Lynch itself is now making an exhaustive investigation of the 174,000 transactions through its firm that one week and, although its study isn't yet finished, it has enough data to give its own Teepe the back of its statistical hand.

To start with, only one of every five of Merrill Lynch's stock customers is a woman and so, as another vice president said, "Obviously women couldn't be responsible for 75 per cent of the selling in our firm." The week's transactions haven't been broken down by sex at this writing, but this official flatly states, "We know females didn't cause it, there weren't enough of them in the market — and our trading records from day to day and month to month show women aren't nearly as important in trading as some think."

Actually, on the Thursday following the crash — May 31 — odd lot buying at this largest brokerage firm in the world topped odd lot selling by three to one. Buying in odd lots that one day totaled $19.5 million, selling $6.4 million and for the week odd-lot buying totaled $49 million against $40 million of selling. Since odd lots are transactions in less than 100 shares each, it's logical to believe a lot of unseasoned females would be in this group.

Item: Bache & Co., a second firm high in the top 10, agrees and goes even farther. Says Bache's Henry Gellerman, "She behaved as she always does — she sees a bargain and she buys it."

Gellerman adds significantly that, "More women opened new accounts during those hectic days of the sell off than ever before!" A random survey of Wall Street firms indicates this was a fairly general experience — and the new accounts were predominantly buying.

Item: From a fourth firm which had been highly active in new, hot stock issues in 1961, willing to comment but not to be named: "The ones who dumped were men who had gone over their heads in once hot issues and who saw their capital fading away. Women didn't get as much of a chance to get in on those issues. The panic-stricken were the men who had been 'lucky' enough to have had the tips."

Item: While women are participating in the stock market on a record scale, they still accounted for well under 30 per cent of all trading by public individuals at the last census, hardly a majority.

Other responsible surveys have emphasized women tend to become attached to favorite stocks —such as Telephone — won't sell no matter what advice they get. These are behavior patterns, not easily changed.

Cost Too High?

Congressman Thinks Pentagon Pays 50 Per Cent Too Much

For over a year, Representative Earl Wilson of Indiana has been studying the Pentagon's procurement policies. He has come up with some facts and figures which indicate that the American taxpayer may be paying as much as one - third more for the purchase of military hardware than is necessary — a sum that runs into the billions. Mr. Wilson's study, let it be added, has been conducted in cooperation with the General Accounting Office, whose job it is to watch the millions and let the billions take care of themselves.

Mr. Wilson has discovered that the time - honored and very necessary practice of receiving competitive bids from private industry on contracts is being ignored far more often than it is observed. According to the Indiana Congressman, "approximately 80 per cent of our defense equipment is procured through 'sole source or negotiated' methods."

What does this mean? Mr. Wilson spells it out this way:

"Someone in a branch of, say, the Navy Department, determines that for some reason or another only one company is to be allowed to make needed equipment. In many cases no other company is allowed to bid. The favored company submits its bid, negotiates with the civil servant responsible for the contract, and gets the award."

Lengthy investigation has convinced Mr. Wilson that as a result of these "sole source or negotiated" contracts some 30 per cent of our defense procurement funds are being squandered or wasted. He estimates, in dollars, that this situation is costing the U. S. $12 billion to $15 billion — and getting worse.

With a file full of documentation, Congressman Wilson has begun to fight for action against this practice. One example of how it works can be found in the Navy's procurement of an AN-PRC 41 portable radio for Marine Corps use. The Navy decided not to send this contract out for bids but to award the contract on a "sole source" basis to manufacturer "A." The Navy's excuse by advertising and competitive bidding" would "unduly delay" procurement. This was on March 22, 1962.

On April 5, 1962, a reputable electronics firm (manufacturer "B") was refused permission to bid on the contract. The director of the Navy's Contract Division gave the excuse that no blueprints were available. At this point, Mr. Wilson stepped in and insisted that "B" be allowed to bid. Specifications were sent to "B" — a firm with an excellent record for fulfilling its military contracts — and it came up with a cost of 34 per cent — or $1.3 million — less than manufacturer"A" had given as its price.

When these facts were presented to high Navy officials, with a demand that the contract for the AN-PRC radio be opened to competitive bidding, the answer continued to be that there was no manufacturer "B," at $1.3 million less in cost, the Navy refused, but promised to investigate the situation.

The Navy was in a bind, as Mr. Wilson pointed out. If it continued to insist on awarding the contract to manufacturer "A," "the taxpayer's pockets will be picked to the tune of $1.3 million." If the Navy mounted a lengthy investigation, it "will be admitting that its certification of urgency was fraudulent on its face and arrived at simply to give a favored company government business at highly inflated prices."

This is but one example. Representative Earl Wilson is presenting the entire file to the House Armed Services Committee. If he gets no action, he will carry his battle to the floor of the House. He may not win, for the dead weight of bureaucracy is hard to move in Washington. But if he loses, the fault will be with Congress and with the voters who are willing to subsidize this kind of waste in government procurement.

AFL - CIO president George Meany challenged business leaders to tell him how bigger profits would create more jobs during the recent White House Conference on National Economic Issues.

It strikes me that if Mr. Meany has any doubt on this score, he lacks the most fundamental knowledge of the American economic system and the important place of business profits in the employment picture.

We might even ask Mr. Meany how he thinks jobs can be created in our present free - enterprise system without profits.

If it weren't for business profits, it wouldn't be possible for the unions Mr. Meany represents to ever seek a raise in wages or an increase in benefits at the collective bargaining table.

In fact, if it weren't for business profits, there would be no AFL - CIO organization in existence today.

When there is a profit squeeze in the economy, such as there is today, everybody suffers — and the worker most of all. For there is no way to increase job opportunities without capital, and capital is derived from business profits.

This problem strikes deep at the core of our economic growth problem. Increased facilities are financed in large part from business profits. And if the profits aren't available to finance these additions, the capacity needed to provide a growth rate equal to present - day challenges will not be built.

Lower profits, such as the business world is now experiencing because of wage costs, tougher competition and other factors have many pyramiding effects. For example, lower profits mean lower tax collections for the federal government and present the problem of either cutting back government spending or indulging in deficit financing.

Lower profits also make for investor timidity, and this dries up the risk capital needed to keep the wheels of business spinning at an accelerated rate. And when investors, as a group, begin to shy away from risking their money, the result is to force many marginal producers out of business.

All of this, of course, aggravates the unemployment problem and has an adverse effect on the entire economy.

Regardless of what Mr. Meany believes or implies that he believes, the fact remains that today's profit squeeze is directly related to the shrinkage of job opportunities at a time when an expanding population is generating an ever - greater demand for such opportunities.

How bad is the profit squeeze today?

An indication can be seen in a recent study by the Research Institute of America. It reports that American business as a whole since 1956 has experienced a sales increase of 12.5 per cent. But, during the same period, dollar earnings before tax ex dropped 7.6 per cent, and the profit margin on sales dropped 17.5 per cent.

Thus, we have a situation where sales are increasing, but the profits on those sales are falling off. The result can only have a dangerous effect on the incentive to increase sales and provide for more economic growth and increased employment.

There is nothing immoral or wrong about business profits. In fact, they are the lifeblood of our free - enterprise system, out of which grow expanded facilities, better products and — most important — bigger and better job opportunities for working Americans. They must be protected and allowed to grow if this country is to keep pace with the expanding economies of Western Europe and other areas, such as Japan.

United States Flag

Sponsored by the Lieutenant Joseph Bowmar Society, Children of the American Revolution, Flag Day was observed in the Twin Cities, along with other communities throughout the nation, last Thursday.

There events covering most of the past week marked the observance here, and because of the importance of observing this day to the American people we are taking note of it here.

To start off the observance the past week, on Monday afternoon the mayors of the Twin Cities signed a Flag Day proclamation. On Tuesday afternoon there was a presentation of a flag to the police jury for the parish courthouse. Then on Thursday, members of the society sold miniature flags.

The flag of the United States of America, the sacred symbol of our American heritage and our American hope for the future, should be the immediate concern of every American citizen.

Major objectives of the Lieutenant Joseph Bowmar Society were: to foster thoughtful, patriotic love and respect for our country's national emblem; to insure the correct use and display of the flag; to educate children and adults in the flag code; to encourage display of the flag in every community, at homes, business places and civic institutions; to make all Americans flag-conscious; to protect the flag in all ways, at all times, under all circumstances.

It is deplorable that so few people have flags and so few want to show them and spread joy for being an American. By having the symbol of our nation flying high, we bring joy and pride to the heart and spread patriotism to others.

In order that we may thus honor the flag, the following information on how to display Old Glory is given:

If the flag is displayed on a staff projecting at an angle from the home, the blue field must be at the top of the staff. When displayed over a sidewalk suspended vertically from a rope stretched from a house to a pole, it should be hoisted out with the blue field first.

When the flag is flown at half-mast, it should be raised to the peak for a moment and then lowered to the half-mast mark. Before lowering it for the day, it should again be hoisted to the peak for an instant. On Memorial Day the flag is flown half-mast until noon, then raised to the peak.

Blue, white and red striped bunting may be used for decorations but Old Glory should never be tied or dragged in that manner. Flag etiquette also requires that the flag should not touch the ground.

When other flags are flown on the same halyard, the American flag should be flown at the top. Only flags of our states or cities or pennants of societies may be flown from the same halyard.

The flag is usually displayed from sunrise to sunset in the open. It is raised briskly and lowered ceremoniously. Weather permitting, it is displayed daily and especially on certain enumerated holidays.

When carried in processions with another flag, the United States flag is borne on the marchers' right of the other emblems. When carried with several other flags, it may be borne in front of the center of the line formed by the other standards.

When displayed against a wall or a window, the blue field should be uppermost and to the observers' left. When displayed flat on a speaker's platform, the flag should be behind and above the speaker's head.

The United States has long been the stronghold of liberty. Today our liberty, our most priceless heritage, is in great danger, not only from outside forces but from our own forces also. The wanton disregard of many for our heritage is frightening.

The great German poet Goethe said in his generation, "What you have inherited from your fathers, earn over again for yourselves or it will not be yours."

It is very important that we give thoughtful study to American history, world history and history that is being made today. It is imperative that we keep morally straight. We must fight against the paralysis of patriotism that is creeping over our country. We must heed the admonition, "Wake up, Americans!"

Let us realize the spirit of the flag and learn to appreciate it more. Let us match our responsibilities with our privileges and check up on our individual loyalty to the fundamental ideals of our democracy.

As Francis Scott Key wrote in the Star-Spangled Banner, " 'Tis the Star-Spangled Banner, oh long may it wave, o'er the land of the free and the home of the brave."

Majority May Be Wrong

For quite a long time some Chattanoogans have been asserting that P. R. Olgiati is mayor of Chattanooga and a strong contender for governor because the people of that city keep re-electing him.

But suddenly the judgment of the Chattanooga voters seems to be a poor recommendation. They appear to have let maudlin sympathy overcome their common sense.

Raulston Schoolfield is a former judge there and a former attorney. The Tennessee legislature impeached him and convicted him and pulled him down from the bench. Then the bar association took him into court and disbarred him for life from practicing law.

On May 29 the voters of Chattanooga and Hamilton county almost put this former attorney back into judicial robes. They gave him 13,855 votes. The switching of 840 other votes would have elected him.

People are naturally sympathetic with a man who has lost his right to practice his profession. Sometimes they let sympathy overcome their reason.

There may have been instances in which an attorney was unjustly disbarred but the offense charged against him has to be serious and the evidence has to be strong. There may have been a case in the annuals of the United States in which a judge was unfairly impeached by a legislature but if there has been such a case we have never seen it. If the bar association says a man who formerly was a member is unfit to practice law and if a state legislature says the same man is unfit to be a judge, even the vote of the people becomes a poor recommendation.

If Olgiati should run for governor the people of Tennessee would do well to pay attention chiefly to his record, as voters in every state should do when selecting an official.

Old Razzle Dazzle

Alexandria, La.

To the Editor:

The old Democrat razzle-dazzle is being heard in the land. The Democrats as "The Party of The People," so - called, must live up to their name. So the old ballyhoo now — just before election time for the old reliable rubber stamp Democrats in Washington — is that the good old Democratic administration is making plans for cutting our taxes. Don't you believe it!

Not only is this expedient line dreamed up to catch votes for those old faithfuls running for re-election, but it is also a connivance for allowing the President what he is asking for — congressional approval of his request for solid control over the raising and lowering of taxes at will. In order to achieve this additional dictatorial power, he must first give out the news that he is thinking of the poor oppressed taxpayer by offering him a cut in taxes. That is bait. Once he gets this power — watch out! He can then raise taxes at his direction. And don't think he won't!

In spite of all their hollering about it, our congressmen do pay attention to letters they receive from constituents, so it would pay us all to write them and urge that they not give the president this added unconstitutional power. After all, there should be some limit to our suicidal bootlicking.

About Editor's Note

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

I have read, with disgust, your note on the letter submitted by my step - son, R. C. White, Jr.

First, let me make it clear that I do not agree with his sentiments on most of the current issues, but I do feel that he is entitled to his own opinions and convictions.

I have known R. C. White, Jr., since he was 16 years old. I have always known him to be an idealist and a humanitarian, and I will venture to say that there is not another young man in Monroe who has done more for humanity than he has.

I think for you to insinuate that he was "brain - washed" is libelous and a villanious assault on his character. It would seem to me that it would be ridiculous that one who has been through as much as he has and has seen the mistreatment of himself and his fellow prisoners, plus many deaths of his friends, could or would be converted to the enemy's beliefs. After having seen the workings of Communism, I am sure that he is even more opposed to it than most people.

Fortunately, the people in this community have known him much longer than they have known you and they know nothing of your background. No one who knows him will believe your dastardly innuendoes. Evidently, you are a bigot who would stoop to use your position to attack someone in such a manner simply because they do not agree with your views. I think this was really "hitting below the belt".

I would appreciate it if you would print this letter in your paper and would also thank you to cancel my subscription to your publication. If such lies are to be printed therein, I do not care to continue reading it.

Regrets Note

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

The members of the Commission on Christian Social Concerns of the First Methodist Church, Monroe, in session Monday evening, June 11th, expressed regret that the Editor's note which prefaced a letter contributed by Mr. R. C. White should infer that his comments contained in the letter might be the result of brainwashing while he was held prisoner of war in both Europe and North Korea.

Mr. White, who has been a member of this church for many years, serves also on this Commission. He is held in high esteem and we speak for his integrity, honor and fine Christian principles. He is much concerned about our Americcan way of life and those who know him value his interpretation of truth, justice and freedom.

Truth

Dodson, La.

To the Editor:

In Monroe Morning World, June 8, I saw an article entitled, "Editors Propose New Criteria Code to Help Evaluate Good Newspapers." Good luck and God Speed to you. The truth is, like diamonds, worth more than gold. But do you suppose this drive will succeed? Don't think it shall be tainted with political favoritism at some time and in different places.

The truth and nothing but the truth most likely would remove the smoke screen from a great deal of our political problems. At present I am writing an article, for a magazine in New York that would make the average editor's face red if he were either southern or northern, but I've written the facts as have I found them.

The problem with research work is that it is hard to find any two authors, that agree. For example, I refer to the World Almanac and quote it as I did in a recent article, and pick up a copy of a newspaper that discredits it. Then what?

I'm for you and the truth in every instance. Of course, we who write can be euphumistic. We don't have to be too sarcastic.

J. P. Waller

R. C. White Lauded

Monroe, La.

To the Editor:

I have known R. C. White Jr., since his graduation from Tulane. I knew him when he was elected "Young Man of the Year" by the JC's and when he was a member of the Louisiana Legislature. I was one of a large number of friends who "sweated out" the long months of imprisonment until at last his name appeared on the list of those released by the Communists. In the last year or two, I have conversed with him almost daily and, so far as I can see, he is fundamentally unchanged in his ideas, your suggestion of "brain washing" to the contrary notwithstanding.

He has always had a deep concern of the less fortunate. The thought of children going hungry has stirred him to action and it did not seem to matter if the children were white or black, a fact that caused him to be challenged by an anonymous phone call as "nigger lover."

Since his return from the Communist Prison Camp he has acquired an exceptionally attractive wife and two exceptionally bright youngsters. He goes to church regularly, contributes liberally to the good things of our community. In fact, by almost any standard, he would be rated as worthy of highest respect.

It seems most unfortunate that a man who has given years of his life to his country and is now a useful, respected citizen should be so offensively referred to. It occurs to me that the author of the editorial note might be the same sort of a citizen. Probably leads much the same kind of private life. Why then, I wonder, do we allow ourselves to be so carried away with our own convictions that we make "anonymous phone calls" or, perhaps worse, write such an "Editor's Note" to those with whom we differ.

Reports Refute Charges 'Little Woman' Panicked In Stock Plunge

Was it the "little woman" who panicked on Black Monday, May 28, in Wall Street, then in unreasoning terror dumped her stocks in skyrocketing volume and thereby set off one of the worst stock market slumps of this century?

This is the accusation Wilbert H. Teepe, a vice president of Merrill Lynch, Pierce, Fenner & Smith made on TV that chaotic week. He declared that 75 per cent of the sell orders he received on Black Monday — and NO buy orders — came from panic-stricken female investors. The Insider's Newsletter of Cowles Magazines picked up the spectacular quote, queried Mrs. Ruth Hagy, vice president of United Shareholders of America, who "conceded that most of the heavy selling did come from unseasoned investors and that women formed a large part of this group."

They must be protected and allowed to grow if this country is to keep pace with the expanding economies of Western Europe and other areas, such as Japan.

How do you stand, sir?

By United Press International

Today is Sunday, June 17, the 168th day of the year with 197 to follow. This is Father's Day.

The moon is approaching its full phase.

The morning stars are Jupiter, Mars and Saturn.

The evening star is Venus.

On this day in history:

In 1775, about 3,500 British soldiers attacked 1,000 American patriots at Bunker Hill.

In 1954, Rocky Marciano retained the world heavyweight championship after a 15-round decision over former champion Ezzard Charles.

A thought for the day: The British philosopher, John Locke, said: "The end of law is not to abolish or restrain, but to preserve and enlarge freedom."

No Peerages This Year Is 'Pass Word'

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON

LONDON (AP) — Quietly the word has spread among Conservative party rank-and-file members in the House of Commons:

"Harold says peerages are out this year."

This means Prime Minister Macmillan does not want to deplete his ranks by letting elected members accept honors moving them over to the House of Lords. Vacancies mean elections, and recently Macmillan's Tories have lost ground at the polls.

Macmillan's anxiety is a symptom of a political revolution that seems to be creeping over Britain today.

It is a revolution in voting loyalties.

It could change Britain's relations with the United States.

The Labor party has gained strength in special elections and is bidding to unseat Macmillan in the next general election. It is pledged to move toward a more middle-of-the-road position in the cold war—away from U.S. views.

The Laborites are Socialist-minded, to the left of the Conservatives, who are in effect a free enterprise party although they have taken on many elements of the welfare state.

In between, the Liberal party seeks to make the best of both ends of the party spectrum. They hold only seven seats today in the 630-member House of Commons, but they have emerged as a possible third force menacing the two-party system's tidy frontiers.

Voting in the first 10 electoral districts contested this year produced these results (figures rounded):

Voting Labor—41 per cent, compared with 46.

Voting Liberal — 32 per cent, against 9.

The trend suggests a revived liberalism luring about two Tories to every Labor eloper.

It also points to disenchantment with Macmillan policies and with the feuding Socialists. But the Socialists still remain strong on the broad shoulders of the giant labor unions.

If this pattern repeats in the next general election—due by 1964—the Tories will be out and the Laborites in. The Liberals may find themselves exercising a power - balance role. Britain's electoral system is so delicately poised a mere 3 per cent swing toward Labor could soak up the present Tory margin of about 100 seats in the Commons.

Midterm voting, however, rarely is a safe guide to general elections. Macmillan can choose his own good time in the next two years to take to the hustings.

Part of the prime minister's time is mortgaged to the outcome of Britain's negotiations to join the Common Market. He is captive of those negotiations until he knows the result.

If Britain's bid succeeds, Macmillan can represent the linkup with Europe as the start of a new era of prosperity.

If it fails he can put out a resounding call for a closing of national ranks to meet grave crisis ahead.

Neither Laborities nor Liberals oppose entry into Europe's trade group. The Laborites wait to see what sort of agreement emerges. They will attack if it seems Britain gets a poor deal.

Labor last ruled in the six postwar years ending in 1951.

If the party led by Hugh Gaitskell regains power it will be free from the austerity policies that slowed it in the aftermath of war. It also will be free from most of its electoral pledges to nationalize certain basic industries. The coal mines, railroads, public utilities, airlines and the Bank of England and health services were taken over when Clement (now Lord) Attlee was prime minister.

Britain's Socialists today are more reformers than radicals. Against left-wing protest they are trying under Gaitskell's leadership to present an image of moderation. They hope to appeal to the new middle class and to the postwar generation which has no knowledge of the workless, grim, strike-filled '20s and '30s.

Gaitskell's men are pledged officially to work toward these foreign policy goals:

1. A radical settlement of the cold war in Europe—leaving all Germany neutral and very nearly disarmed. It would set up a huge atom-free zone covering all Germany and part of Red Europe.

2. A far-reaching settlement in the Middle East—neutralizing and disarming that region in agreement with Russia.

3. A Far Eastern settlement that could change the power balance and place Formosa under the United Nations.

4. Application of the one man-one vote principle in African territories still ruled by Britain.

5. Renunciation of Britain's nuclear deterrent—as a first step toward the formation of a nonnuclear club of countries shunning all but classical weapons.

PLACE OF DOOM

City Of Algiers Is Facing Ruin

By ANDREW BOROWIEC

ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — This was the city known to generations of Frenchmen as Alger la Blanche, Algiers the White, because of its clean white buildings.

Last week it seemed to be moving methodically toward its doom. Many buildings were in ruins, and piles of refuse were burning in the streets.

Almost like a condemned criminal, it was counting the days till July 1, when a self-determination vote will chart Algeria's future. There is no doubt the future will belong mainly to Arab and Berber, not Frenchman. Whether they will look to the East or to the West for their best friends—that is a big question.

It is a place where hundreds have died violent deaths in recent months.

BATS STALK

Rats now stalk the garbage-cluttered streets.

Most restaurants had closed down. One by one stores and commercial establishments stopped functioning.

Officials stopped publishing statistics. A majority of school buildings had been damaged by arson commandos of the Secret Army Organization, pursuing their scorched earth campaign.

An average of 4,000 Europeans were fleeing the city daily by boat and plane. The number was expected to increase as July 1 grew near with its possibility of more bloodshed.

The European population of Algiers was 300,000 before the exodus started. No one was capable of estimating what it is now.

The main hospital ordered its doors closed. Moslem patients were long ago transferred to nationalist clinics. The few remaining European wounded will be evacuated to France or to private clinics.

Most doctors have left.

Streets were jammed by cars of people trying to buy a ship or plane ticket and to wind up their affairs.

No more suitcases were for sale in the European city. Enterprising Moslem youths emerged from their squalid quarters to sell suitcases at three times the price.

"Bon voyage," they shouted to European buyers.

In fringe areas, Moslems invaded apartments abandoned by fleeing Europeans. "Soon all of the city will be ours," they were saying.

DAYS OF FEAR

Fear of days of reckoning was sweeping the European city. In Moslem areas children were taught to march in step for a giant victory parade.

Western diplomats were asking: "Will an independent Algeria be neutralist or will it become another Cuba at the southern gates of Europe?"

The program published by the Moslem National Liberation Front—FLN—presages sweeping Socialist-type reforms after the self-determination referendum.

At this stage no one can say definitely whether Algeria will remain with the West, become neutral or lean squarely toward the East.

European extremists who have vowed to destroy the city before it falls into the hands of the Moslems bitterly predict that Soviet influence eventually will take hold.

Moslem nationalists talk of cooperation with France but add "and with all other nations willing to help."

They realize that Algeria, for 132 years dependent on France, cannot suddenly cut those bonds, particularly since they are guaranteed in the Evian peace accords with resulting profit for the Algerian state.

They admit that the events are capable of leading to drastic changes in their original intentions.

The most pessimistic among Western observers of the Algerian scene believe this revolution will bring Algeria closer to East than West.

Andrew Borowiec has been chief AP correspondent in North Africa for several years. His news sources are on all sides of the long-simmering controversy over the future of Algeria.

IN SPAIN

Revolt Against Franco Possible

MADRID (AP) — A stocky, plainly dressed man slipped out of a crowded coffee shop in Barcelona, leaving behind a scattering of colored leaflets calling upon all Spaniards to rebel against Franco.

The main development affecting Franco's course was a meeting this month in Munich, Germany. Some of those who attended say this was a move to unify opposition against Franco. Even a segment of the Falange, which brought Franco to power, was represented.

NO KING

Spain has not had a king since Alfonso XIII abdicated in 1931. For 15 years, Franco has sponsored measures to restore the monarchy—under his terms. The pretender to the throne is Alfonso's son Juan but attention has focused mainly on a grandson, Juan Carlos, who recently married Princess Sophie of Greece.

Old-line monarchists linked with Juan deny the Munich meeting represented a move by monarchists to join forces with Socialists, leftists, and others just short of outright Communists, to speed up a possible takeover from Franco.

"We feel this meeting has done possibly irreparable damage to the cause of the monarchy in Spain," said one spokesman for this group.

"Earlier Gen. Franco endorsed the return of a king for Spain, providing the monarchy agreed to a continuation of his own type of regime. The move at Munich may well invalidate this endorsement. Where does that leave us now?"

"Most of us favor the seating of Don Juan on the Spanish throne, and in fact we regard him even today as our king," an old monarchist in Madrid observed. "But Franco seems to want Prince Juan Carlos as the next Spanish king, and now even the Falange seems to have entered the area with its own pet candidate — the Carlist pretender Xavier."

This was a reference to leaflets, attributed by many to the Falangists, endorsing Xavier Borbon, a descendant of the last Carlist king of Spain.

Men close to Franco believe, however, that he plans no abrupt change.

"Likely the caudillo will let those monarchists who played at politicians sweat a while," said one man who claims to know Franco's thinking. "Then he will give them a slap on the wrist and tell them to behave themselves if they ever want to have another Spanish king to bow down to."

Despite the spread of the representation at the Munich meeting, there is doubt it represented a serious threat to continuance of the regime Franco has headed for a quarter of a century. His government quickly issued a decree permitting the exile of participants, or assignment of them to certain areas.

DANGER

The Communists continue to operate despite 25 continuous years of suppression and prosecution. They get financial and political support outside Spain, especially from the parties in France and Italy. They presumably have bored into many labor and political groups, but they hesitate to act on their own for lack of support among even the poorest people.

AGAINST COMMUNISTS

E. German Revolt In 1953 Recalled

BERLIN (AP)—Horst Ballentin, 29, a West Berliner, well remembers the 17th of June nine years ago.

He was atop the Brandenburg Gate, hauling down the red flag of Communist dictatorship.

He tried to hoist the Berlin flag, with its black bear in the middle, but was driven back by bullets from a Soviet tank.

"Never mind, leave it at half-staff," his companions said. "There will be enough victims to mourn."

Germany mourns those victims again Sunday, anniversary of the abortive East German revolt of 1953.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is coming to the Communist-surrounded city for the ceremony in West Berlin. It is the "day of unity," when Germans turn their thoughts to reunification of their country.

NO TRAVEL

This year East Germans cannot come to West Berlin to listen to speeches and sing the national anthem. Since the last observance Communist leader Walter Ulbricht has built the Berlin wall and spattered it with the blood of people trying to escape from East Berlin.

When the Red army turned out its tanks to save Ulbricht, nine years ago, 120 persons were killed. Communist courts sent 1,600 people to jail, 13 for life. Firing squads shot 14 on the spot. Three others were executed after trial.

Still in jail are 75 men who took part in the revolt or an accompanying strike, according to the West Berlin association of former inmates of Communist prisons.

The revolt was sparked by a demonstration of East Berlin building workers against a 10 per cent increase in work norms. It mushroomed into a nationwide strike and uprising against communism.

Communist party offices were wrecked and burned. Political prisoners were turned loose. Communist leaders were humiliated. Throngs chanted demands for free elections. Men threw stones at Soviet tanks.

Then, as now, food was short. Again the East Germans are being told to work harder for the same money. Ulbricht has ordered them to stop grumbling, because their living standard is higher than that in the Soviet Union.

The ingredients to spark a revolt still are there.

The Red army also is still there—22 divisions.

THIS WAS the scene nine years ago as Horst Ballentin, a West Berliner now 29 years old, stood atop the Brandenburg Gate to haul down the Red Flag of Communist dictatorship and attempt to hoist the Berlin flag. Ballentin well remembers the day. He was driven back by Soviet tank fire. Over 100 persons were killed as Soviet forces fired on demonstrators. (AP Wirephoto)

Melodrama Relies On Shock Value

WELCOME TO THEBES. By Glendon Swarthout. Random House. $4.95.

A melodrama about a small town boy who comes back home and starts wrecking the lives of the town fathers, this novel is full of shock words, brutal situations and polluted people.

The town is Thebes, Mich., and the boy is Sewell Smith. In a series of jumbled episodes, the author first discloses to the reader Sewell's early involvement with rape, an act of vandalism, his mother's insanity, his father's mysterious death and finally an interlude in which Sewell is an heroic soldier.

After the war, Sewell writes a bitter novel that becomes a best seller, but he soon goes down the financial slide. So when he returns to Thebes he is secretly broke and trying to find material for another book.

Feeling that the town's leaders had betrayed his father, he sees an opportunity for revenge when he discovers that six of them have become lecherously involved with a 14-year-old girl.

Trying to blackmail them for large sums of money, he also plans to use them as material for a lurid book. But the closer the situation comes to a showdown, the less sure Sewell is about his course of action. The outcome is an unusual resolution of the plot.

There are strong does of evil in this book, without any contrasting relief. The writer's style is rather hard to follow and in some passages high-flown. Yet he can stir the reader powerfully.

All in all, it is a curious production that depends heavily on shock for its effect. For readers who like strong fare, there is plenty of it here.

Summer Of Crisis In Man's Life

THE HANDS OF ESAU. By Hiram Haydn. Harper. $7.50.

IS this a novel about Walton Herrick, a muddled, middle-aged man of affairs in a summer of crisis in his life? Or is it a huge panorama of our neurotic age? It could be both.

Here in 784 large pages is the full figure of Herrick, an executive in an educational foundation, and by the time the reader has reached the final page he has more information about the hero than a psychoanalyst would dig up in years of consultation.

The situation is this: In the summer of 1953 Herrick's third wife Julie has hied herself and their children off to her father's home, trying to make up her mind whether to leave Herrick for good. Furthermore, Herrick is in an awkward position at the foundation, entangled with the question of whether an appointment should go to a man who once lent his name to a pinkish organization.

And as a diversion, a political leader keeps asking Herrick whether he would be interested in running for governor of Connecticut.

The summer's events are told in several ingenuous ways — partly in straight narrative, partly in Herrick's own highly introspective journal, in an associate's manuscript, in letters and even in a silent inner voice.

Interspersed with these current themes are long, detailed chronicles of Herrick's ancestors, and an equally detailed history of his boyhood and growing years.

There had been some pretty distorted personalities on the family tree. On one side were the loving, optimistic "narcissis" people and on the other were the cold, cruel, pessimistic "demon" types.

GUIDES TO GOOD READING

Colonial Period Viewed In Book

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Inglis Fletcher is an outstanding author of books of historical fiction set in tidewater Virginia and North Carolina during the Colonial and Revolutionary period. "Wicked Lady" is the title of her latest book. It has its setting in Edenton, North Carolina during the struggle for independence on the part of the American colonies. The central character is Lady Anne Stuart, who dazzles the colonists, while she is playing the part of a traitor. It is a stirring story of adventure and intrigue and one which Mrs. Fletcher's devoted audience will enjoy. A book by Anne Morrow Lindbergh is an event in the publishing world. She is a beautiful writer, who makes every word she uses count. Her new book is a departure from her earlier books, which were in a measure autobiographical. This one is a novel and has the title "Dearly Beloved." It is concerned with a wedding ceremony and the thoughts which go through the minds of the friends and relatives as it is taking place. It is beautifully written and will have a wide appeal.

Out of his vast experience, Elliot Nugent has written a brilliant novel about a man deeply emeshed in the world of motion pictures and the Broadway theater. It is called "Cheat and Charmer." Elliott Nugent has proven many times, both as playwright & actor, that he possesses a very pretty wit and an uncanny ability to entertain. What he further proves in this fine novel is that he also has a deep insight into the depths of the dark forces that motivate man. Claude Mauriac, who is considered one of the outstanding modern French novelists, has a new book, "The Marquise Went Out at Five." It concerns the events in the life of a woman of fashion between the hours of five and six o'clock in the evening. This book will not appeal to every reader, but it will have some very devoted readers.

Readers of mystery stories will welcome three new titles: "First Come, First Kill," is another Captain Heimrick Mystery by Richard and Frances Lockridge. It has its setting in Westchester County, New York and will find a ready audience. "Prisoner's Friend," is a Harper Novel of suspense by Andrew Garve. It is skillfully done and has a very good plot. However, it has an English setting and there are some readers who will not read a mystery with an English setting. The third mystery is "The Well - Dressed Skeleton" by Brad Williams. This is one of the tougher mystery stories and the most interesting feature is it's location in Lower California, about which little has been written. "Give Father a Hard Knock" by Ben Kraft is a delightful family story, concerned with what happened to father, when he found that he no longer was absolute ruler in his household.

The field of non-fiction offers a variety of reading material. "Is Anybody Happy" by Norman M. Lobzsenz is a study of the American search for pleasure. Mr. Lobzsenz views with a keen eye all the changing facets of American society. His observations of the "Fun - loving American" are wise, witty and extremely enlightening. A most interesting and unusual book is "Nature on the Rampage" by Ann and Myron Sutton. This book discusses hurricanes, tornadoes, floods, meteors, deserts, volcanoes, lightning, landslides, earthquakes and kindred catastrophes.

Life Lines

By WILLIAM INABNET

As June is the month of brides, I felt it timely to discuss a subject in direct relationship. The following article by a Man of the cloth adequately expresses my feelings.

A Minister Talks About Marriage

"I am not an insurance man, but every time a young man comes before me at the marriage altar I feel like saying to him that he ought to give his bride a substantial insurance policy.

"You have no right to take a girl from a position where she may be earning her own living, and tie her up to you and later tie her down to a family of little children who make it difficult for her to make a living again—unless you give her some protection and security.

"Before you buy her a car, buy her an insurance policy — and after you buy the car you will need insurance all the more in these days of highway fatalities. Get her a policy before you get her a television set. Put first things first; let the other things come along as you can afford them.

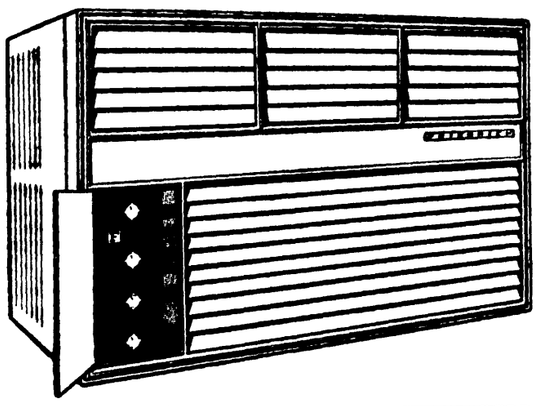

"If I could not be a minister, I would want to be in the life insurance business, from the standpoint of the good that I could do. The minister cannot always save the fatherless and the widow from loneliness and sorrow, but the life insurance man can rescue them from poverty and need and lift the fear from their hearts."

Revolt Against Franco Possible

MADRID (AP) — A stocky, plainly dressed man slipped out of a crowded coffee shop in Barcelona, leaving behind a scattering of colored leaflets calling upon all Spaniards to rebel against Franco.

The main development affecting Franco's course was a meeting this month in Munich, Germany. Some of those who attended say this was a move to unify opposition against Franco. Even a segment of the Falange, which brought Franco to power, was represented.

NO KING

Spain has not had a king since Alfonso XIII abdicated in 1931. For 15 years, Franco has sponsored measures to restore the monarchy—under his terms. The pretender to the throne is Alfonso's son Juan but attention has focused mainly on a grandson, Juan Carlos, who recently married Princess Sophie of Greece.

Old-line monarchists linked with Juan deny the Munich meeting represented a move by monarchists to join forces with Socialists, leftists, and others just short of outright Communists, to speed up a possible takeover from Franco.

"We feel this meeting has done possibly irreparable damage to the cause of the monarchy in Spain," said one spokesman for this group.

"Earlier Gen. Franco endorsed the return of a king for Spain, providing the monarchy agreed to a continuation of his own type of regime. The move at Munich may well invalidate this endorsement. Where does that leave us now?"

"Most of us favor the seating of Don Juan on the Spanish throne, and in fact we regard him even today as our king," an old monarchist in Madrid observed. "But Franco seems to want Prince Juan Carlos as the next Spanish king, and now even the Falange seems to have entered the area with its own pet candidate — the Carlist pretender Xavier."

This was a reference to leaflets, attributed by many to the Falangists, endorsing Xavier Borbon, a descendant of the last Carlist king of Spain.

Men close to Franco believe, however, that he plans no abrupt change.

"Likely the caudillo will let those monarchists who played at politicians sweat a while," said one man who claims to know Franco's thinking. "Then he will give them a slap on the wrist and tell them to behave themselves if they ever want to have another Spanish king to bow down to."

Despite the spread of the representation at the Munich meeting, there is doubt it represented a serious threat to continuance of the regime Franco has headed for a quarter of a century. His government quickly issued a decree permitting the exile of participants, or assignment of them to certain areas.

DANGER

The Communists continue to operate despite 25 continuous years of suppression and prosecution. They get financial and political support outside Spain, especially from the parties in France and Italy. They presumably have bored into many labor and political groups, but they hesitate to act on their own for lack of support among even the poorest people.

AGAINST COMMUNISTS

E. German Revolt In 1953 Recalled

BERLIN (AP)—Horst Ballentin, 29, a West Berliner, well remembers the 17th of June nine years ago.

He was atop the Brandenburg Gate, hauling down the red flag of Communist dictatorship.

He tried to hoist the Berlin flag, with its black bear in the middle, but was driven back by bullets from a Soviet tank.

"Never mind, leave it at half-staff," his companions said. "There will be enough victims to mourn."

Germany mourns those victims again Sunday, anniversary of the abortive East German revolt of 1953.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer is coming to the Communist-surrounded city for the ceremony in West Berlin. It is the "day of unity," when Germans turn their thoughts to reunification of their country.

NO TRAVEL

This year East Germans cannot come to West Berlin to listen to speeches and sing the national anthem. Since the last observance Communist leader Walter Ulbricht has built the Berlin wall and spattered it with the blood of people trying to escape from East Berlin.

When the Red army turned out its tanks to save Ulbricht, nine years ago, 120 persons were killed. Communist courts sent 1,600 people to jail, 13 for life. Firing squads shot 14 on the spot. Three others were executed after trial.

Still in jail are 75 men who took part in the revolt or an accompanying strike, according to the West Berlin association of former inmates of Communist prisons.

The revolt was sparked by a demonstration of East Berlin building workers against a 10 per cent increase in work norms. It mushroomed into a nationwide strike and uprising against communism.

Communist party offices were wrecked and burned. Political prisoners were turned loose. Communist leaders were humiliated. Throngs chanted demands for free elections. Men threw stones at Soviet tanks.

Then, as now, food was short. Again the East Germans are being told to work harder for the same money. Ulbricht has ordered them to stop grumbling, because their living standard is higher than that in the Soviet Union.

The ingredients to spark a revolt still are there.

The Red army also is still there —22 divisions.

THIS WAS the scene nine years ago as Horst Ballentin, a West Berliner now 29 years old, stood atop the Brandenburg Gate to haul down the Red Flag of Communist dictatorship and attempt to hoist the Berlin flag. Ballentin well remembers the day. He was driven back by Soviet tank fire. Over 100 persons were killed as Soviet forces fired on demonstrators. (AP Wirephoto)

Melodrama Relies On Shock Value

WELCOME TO THEBES. By Glendon Swarthout. Random House. $4.95.

A melodrama about a small town boy who comes back home and starts wrecking the lives of the town fathers, this novel is full of shock words, brutal situations and polluted people.

The town is Thebes, Mich., and the boy is Sewell Smith. In a series of jumbled episodes, the author first discloses to the reader Sewell's early involvement with rape, an act of vandalism, his mother's insanity, his father's mysterious death and finally an interlude in which Sewell is an heroic soldier.

After the war, Sewell writes a bitter novel that becomes a best seller, but he soon goes down the financial slide. So when he returns to Thebes he is secretly broke and trying to find material for another book.

Feeling that the town's leaders had betrayed his father, he sees an opportunity for revenge when he discovers that six of them have become lecherously involved with a 14-year-old girl.

Trying to blackmail them for large sums of money, he also plans to use them as material for a lurid book. But the closer the situation comes to a showdown, the less sure Sewell is about his course of action. The outcome is an unusual resolution of the plot.

There are strong does of evil in this book, without any contrasting relief. The writer's style is rather hard to follow and in some passages high-flown. Yet he can stir the reader powerfully.

All in all, it is a curious production that depends heavily on shock for its effect. For readers who like strong fare, there is plenty of it here.

Summer Of Crisis In Man's Life

THE HANDS OF ESAU. By Hiram Haydn. Harper. $7.50.

IS this a novel about Walton Herrick, a muddled, middle-aged man of affairs in a summer of crisis in his life? Or is it a huge panorama of our neurotic age? It could be both.

Here in 784 large pages is the full figure of Herrick, an executive in an educational foundation, and by the time the reader has reached the final page he has more information about the hero than a psychoanalyst would dig up in years of consultation.

The situation is this: In the summer of 1953 Herrick's third wife Julie has hied herself and their children off to her father's home, trying to make up her mind whether to leave Herrick for good. Furthermore, Herrick is in an awkward position at the foundation, entangled with the question of whether an appointment should go to a man who once lent his name to a pinkish organization.

And as a diversion, a political leader keeps asking Herrick whether he would be interested in running for governor of Connecticut.

The summer's events are told in several ingenuous ways — partly in straight narrative, partly in Herrick's own highly introspective journal, in an associate's manuscript, in letters and even in a silent inner voice.

Interspersed with these current themes are long, detailed chronicles of Herrick's ancestors, and an equally detailed history of his boyhood and growing years.

There had been some pretty distorted personalities on the family tree. On one side were the loving, optimistic "narcisisis" people and on the other were the cold, cruel, pessimistic "demon" types.

GUIDES TO GOOD READING

Colonial Period Viewed In Book

By FRANCES FLANDERS
Ouachita Parish Librarian

Inglis Fletcher is an outstanding author of books of historical fiction set in tidewater Virginia and North Carolina during the Colonial and Revolutionary period. "Wicked Lady" is the title of her latest book. It has its setting in Edenton, North Carolina during the struggle for independence on the part of the American colonies. The central character is Lady Anne Stuart, who dazzles the colonists, while she is playing the part of a traitor. It is a stirring story of adventure and intrigue and one which Mrs. Fletcher's devoted audience will enjoy. A book by Anne Morrow Lindbergh is an event in the publishing world. She is a beautiful writer, who makes every word she uses count. Her new book is a departure from her earlier books, which were in a measure autobiographical. This one is a novel and has the title "Dearly Beloved." It is concerned with a wedding ceremony and the thoughts which go through the minds of the friends and relatives as it is taking place. It is beautifully written and will have a wide appeal.

Out of his vast experience, Elliot Nugent has written a brilliant novel about a man deeply emeshed in the world of motion pictures and the Broadway theater. It is called "Cheat and Charmer." Elliott Nugent has proven many times, both as playwright & actor, that he possesses a very pretty wit and an uncanny ability to entertain. What he further proves in this fine novel is that he also has a deep insight into the depths of the dark forces that motivate man. Claude Mauriac, who is considered one of the outstanding modern French novelists, has a new book, "The Marquise Went Out at Five." It concerns the events in the life of a woman of fashion between the hours of five and six o'clock in the evening. This book will not appeal to every reader, but it will have some very devoted readers.

Readers of mystery stories will welcome three new titles: "First Come, First Kill," is another Captain Heimrick Mystery by Richard and Frances Lockridge. It has its setting in Westchester County, New York and will find a ready audience. "Prisoner's Friend," is a Harper Novel of suspense by Andrew Garve. It is skillfully done and has a very good plot. However, it has an English setting and there are some readers who will not read a mystery with an English setting. The third mystery is "The Well - Dressed Skeleton" by Brad Williams. This is one of the tougher mystery stories and the most interesting feature is it's location in Lower California, about which little has been written. "Give Father a Hard Knock" by Ben Kraft is a delightful family story, concerned with what happened to father, when he found that he no longer was absolute ruler in his household.

The field of non-fiction offers a variety of reading material. "Is Anybody Happy" by Norman M. Lobzsenz is a study of the American search for pleasure. Mr. Lobzsenz views with a keen eye all the changing facets of American society. His observations of the "Fun - loving American" are wise, witty and extremely enlightening. A most interesting and unusual book is "Nature on the Rampage" by Ann and Myron Sutton. This book discusses hurricanes, tornadoes, floods, meteors, deserts, volcanoes, lightning, landslides, earthquakes and kindred catastrophes.

Life Lines

By WILLIAM INABNET

As June is the month of brides, I felt it timely to discuss a subject in direct relationship. The following article by a Man of the cloth adequately expresses my feelings.

A Minister Talks About Marriage

"I am not an insurance man, but every time a young man comes before me at the marriage altar I feel like saying to him that he ought to give his bride a substantial insurance policy.

"You have no right to take a girl from a position where she may be earning her own living, and tie her up to you and later tie her down to a family of little children who make it difficult for her to make a living again—unless you give her some protection and security.

"Before you buy her a car, buy her an insurance policy — and after you buy the car you will need insurance all the more in these days of highway fatalities. Get her a policy before you get her a television set. Put first things first; let the other things come along as you can afford them.

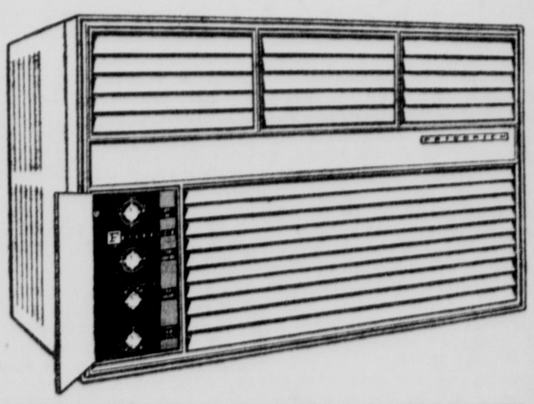

"If I could not be a minister, I would want to be in the life insurance business, from the standpoint of the good that I could do. The minister cannot always save the fatherless and the widow from loneliness and sorrow, but the life insurance man can rescue them from poverty and need and lift the fear from their hearts."

Stock Slump, Budget Deficit Take Spotlight During Week

Sunoco Plans New Oil Field In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Sun Oil Co. plans to complete the Arnouville No. 1, sec. 35-3n-9e, as a pumping well next week and open a new Pike County field.

The potential new field opener flowed about three barrels of oil per hour from perforations at 10,548-58 feet. Flowing pressure was low on initial tests with the operator planning to erect a pumping unit for official completion.

The wildcat is about 8 miles southeast of the Little Creek Field and 11 miles east of the McComb field near the Walthall County line.

Triad Oil and Gas Co. is reported to have resumed testing operations at the Frankl No. 1, Sec. 4-4n-8w, in Greene County to evaluate commercial worth of oil shows in sidewall cores.

The venture was drilled to 12,518 feet with production casing set to 8,488 feet to test shows logged below 8,000 feet.

Testing is continuing at Meyer and Meyer No. 1, Fernwood Industries-Busby unit sec. 21-4n-8W, located about a mile west of the Little Creek Field. The well is testing at 163 barrels of oil daily from 10,696-721 feet.

Wildcat activity near the Pickens Field of Yazoo County is continuing to increase due to the recent opening of a new producing segment for the 22-year-old field. Viking Oil Co. is reported drilling surface hole at the Stuart Bridgefore No. 1, Sec. 30-12n-3e, and Lee and Ladner are below 4,300 feet on the Dixon No. 1, sec. 7-11n-3e.

Also in Yazoo County north of the Bentonia oil field, Continental Oil Co. is below 10,200 feet in the wells No. 1, sec. 8-10n-1w, a 11,000 foot try.

Pure Oil Co. is below 13,600 feet in the Kemper County Henry No. 1, sec. 15-12n-15e, with no information being released. The well is scheduled to 15,000 feet, the deepest test yet in the hardrock country.

In Madison County, Tenneco Oil Co. is below 2,100 feet in the Greaves No. 1, sec. 8-8n-1e, located four miles southeast of the Flora Field. The test is scheduled to 11,000 feet.

At Dexter in Walthall County, Gulf Coast Drlg. and Exploration Co., filed the Sorrell No. 1, sec. 3-1n-12e, flowing 182 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 9,669-80 feet.

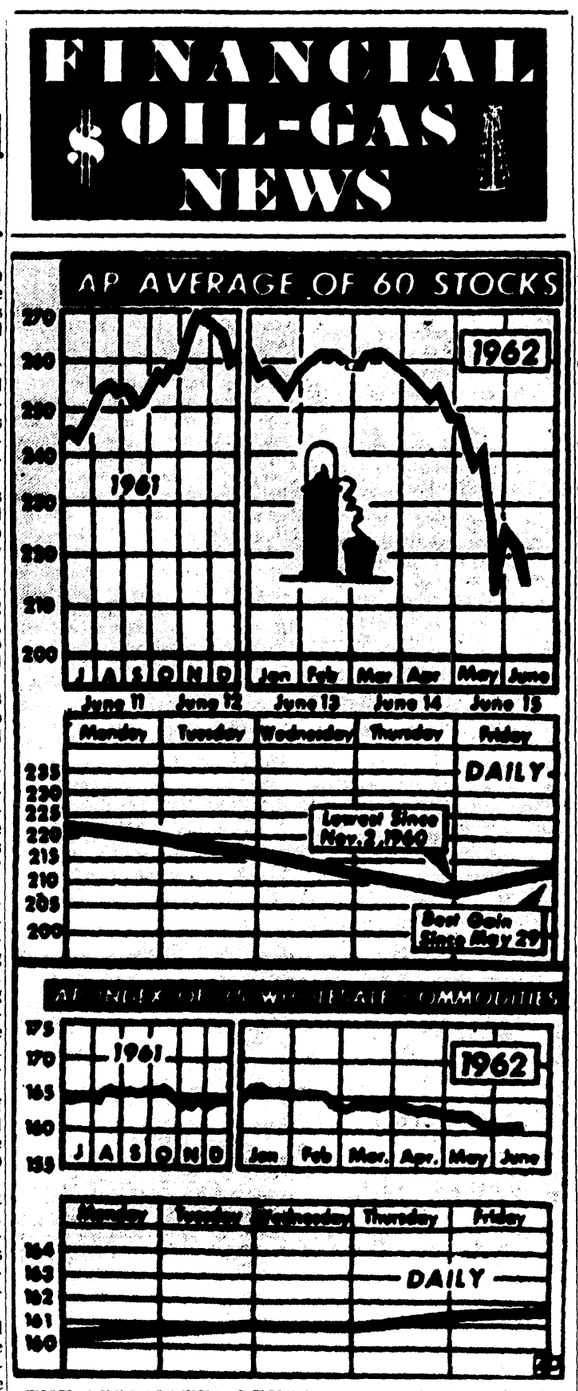

Humble Oil and Refining Co. complete the USA No. 1, sec. 13-9n-8w, as a triple oiler. S sand at 10,963-73 feet flowed 118 barrels of oil daily. The second zone at 9,744-52 feet flowed 95 barrels and the third zone at 7,618-22 feet flowed 215 barrels.

Grains' Futures End With Gains

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market lapsed into general weakness in late trading last week but finished with moderate to broad gains generally.

Nearby soybean and rye moths attracted an unusually large volume of speculative trade and led the advances on most days. Old crop soybeans posted gains on four of the five trading days on support described principally as short covering which was linked with reports that stocks in commercial positions were showing steady weekly declines.

Wheat closed 1⅛-2⅞ cent a bushel higher than a week ago, July $2.14-⅝; corn 1 cent higher to ¼ lower, July $1.11¼-⅛.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS average of 60 stocks declined sharply for the second straight week, closing Friday at 214.1 from 221.8 a week ago as shown in this chart. Led by livestock the commodity index moved higher this week to 161.7 from 160.3 in the preceding period. (AP Wirephoto)

PRICES SUFFER EARLIER

Stocks Close Week In Impressive Rally

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market took a monotonous pounding most of last week but ended with an impressive rally.

As declining prices did a turnabout midway through the final session, some brokerage houses sent out "buy flashes" to their customers.

Others reported that big institutional investors such as mutual funds were again buying stock.

Gloom had thickened as prices were battered down to severe losses Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday. Friday, they sank again after a brief morning rise — then made a strong advance, recovering roughly 40 per cent of the losses taken on the four previous days.

The technical features of this advance gave investment analysts something to go on—because prices had held above the lows reached in the middle of the May 29 session, when the market rebounded from "Black Monday" with the greatest rise since 1929.

Even so, the market statistics showed a big drop this week. The popular averages had their worst weekly loss since the week ended May 26, and that one was the sharpest on record for the Associated Press average, and the steepest since 1929 for the Dow Jones industrial average.

At their Thursday night readings, the Dow industrials were down to their lowest level since Dec. 12, 1958, and the AP average at its lowest since Nov. 2, 1960.

International Business Machines dropped to a low of 300—it was 607 last October—but in the closing session it rallied, along with many other battered "growth" stocks as well as blue chips.

With the ticker tape late repeatedly, volume for the week swelled to 26,770,865 shares from 21,041,630 the week before.

OIL COMPACT COMMISSION

Conservation Meet Set For Oil Report

By MAX B. SKELTON

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Early results of a compromise that eased a stormy controversy are to be placed before the Interstate Oil Compact Commission next week.

A statistical report on oil and gas reserves and production is to be submitted at Wednesday's final session of the mid-year meeting of the 33-state advisory body on oil and gas conservation.

Governors of six states are to participate in the three-day meeting starting Monday.

The reserve and production report is to list leading companies in the various states and give a breakdown for production by major and independent producers.

No recommendations will be included. Recommendations and suggestions were ruled out by the compromise that developed after heated debate at the commission's annual meeting at Denver in December. A subcommittee had spent its first year developing definitions and drafting objectives. But it prompted one of the few major controversies in the 27-year history of the compact.

The committee was dissolved amid charges some oil states were trying to tell other states how much oil they could produce. Gov. Jack R. Gage, D-Wyo., threatened to make Wyoming the first state ever to withdraw from the compact.

The special study was abandoned and a job of compiling a statistical report from the various states was turned over to an 11-member executive committee headed by Gov. J. Howard Edmondson, D-Okla., the 1962 compact chairman.

There was some speculation in December the sharply revised project would be permitted to die quietly. The executive committee authorized Edmondson in February, however, to mail questionnaires seeking voluntary information from the governors of the member states.

A preliminary report is to be made Wednesday. An annual report is planned for the December meeting at Miami Beach, Fla.

Congress authorized formation of the compact in 1935 to promote oil and gas conservation through established state agencies. Recommendations can be submitted to member states but the commission has no enforcment authority.

Committee sessions open the meeting Monday.

Kennedy Issues Bid Asking Cooperation

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Another sharp slump by the stock market, further bids by President Kennedy for business cooperation and the question of whether a federal budget deficit would benefit the economy held the spotlight during the week.

The market, pummeled by discouraged selling, sank through the bottom of the May 28 "Black Monday" level and to its lowest point since Nov. 2, 1960.

President Kennedy said in a speech at Yale University commencement exercises that it was a "false issue" to assume that "any and all unfavorable turns of the speculative wheel—however temporary and however plainly speculative in character—are the result of lack of confidence in an administration."

Later at his news conference, Kennedy said, in response to a question, that he couldn't believe that big business would want an economic slump just to get back at a president.

A newspaper column had indicated some businessmen hoped to take advantage of the market decline for that purpose.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon, testifying before the Senate Finance Committee, said some investment analysts believe that stock prices have fallen to about the right levels in relation to share earnings.

Kennedy used his Yale speech and his news conference to outline his views on government-business cooperation and the possible result of an unbalanced budget.

"The solid ground of mutual confidence is the necessary partnership with all the sectors of our society in the steady quest for economic progress," he said at Yale.

He called it a myth that "federal deficits create inflation and budget surpluses prevent it... persistent deficits for the last several years have not upset our basic price stability."

At his news conference he elaborated, saying that deficits are not necessarily harmful. He added that what the country must be concerned about is maintaining the vitality of the economy.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg told a convention of the Hatters Union in New York, "We are not antibusiness and it is nonsense to believe that a president of the United States committed to our institutions can be."

Newly reported business statistics painted a mixed picture.

Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges announced retail sales in May declined 1 per cent from April, corporate profits dropped in the first quarter and personal income showed a smaller-than-usual advance.

Even so, he said, over-all economic figures "still look awfully good." For the rest of the year he predicted good business but not full economic activity.

The Labor Department reported earnings of factory workers reached their highest peak in May and nonfarm employment was the greatest for the month.

However, indications were for an increase in unemployment in June and a poorer-than-expected job situation in construction and soft goods manufacturing.

William McChesney Martin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, said in an address to the Harvard Alumni Association that the United States needs to accelerate economic growth.

"Growth has now become the focal point of attention in economic affairs because," he said, "if we can increase the size of the pie speedily and steadily enough, everyone can have a slice or a still larger slice, and none will have to yield any of his present share to his neighbors."

Henry Ford II, chairman of Ford Motor Co., was quoted as saying he considered the market adjustment a short-term affair and that Ford spending plans are unchanged.

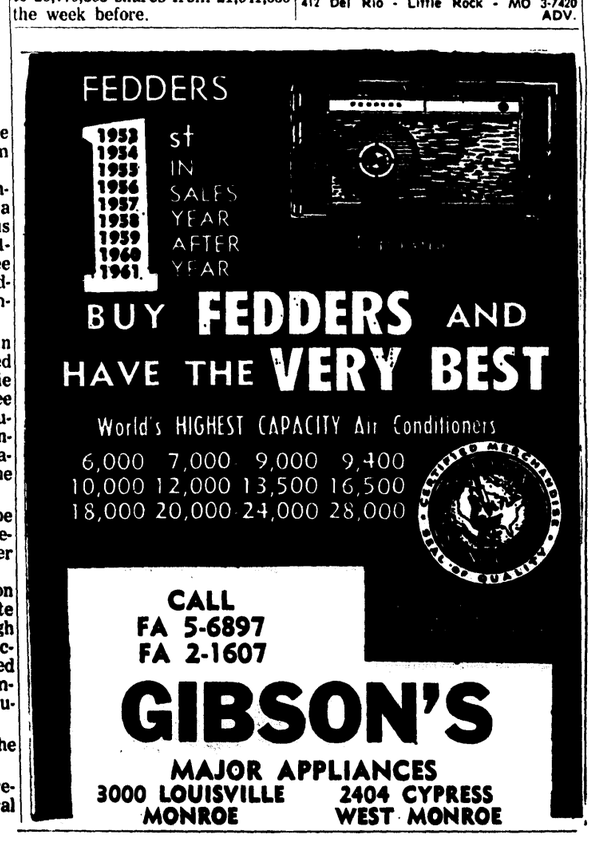

Ford also predicted good automobile sales for the rest of this year and at least the first part of 1963. Earlier he had forecast sales of 6.9 million to 7 million cars, which would make this year second only to 1955, when 7,169,908 were sold.

Sales in the first 10 days of June totaled 161,969, compared with 150,596 a year earlier. Production during the week fell off to an estimated 147,000 from 150,077 last week but was well ahead of the 129,274 of a year ago.

The situation in the steel industry continued discouraging with production down for the 10th consecutive week. Mills turned out 1.58 million tons of steel, off 0.4 per cent from the previous week and representing about 52.5 per cent of estimated capacity.

Producers said indications were that production will continue to decline for a while longer.

Oil Field Activity Leaps Ahead In Monroe Area

Better weather brought an apparent surge of new life last week over the 14-parish Monroe Oil and Gas District, when a total of 18 completions were recorded with Manager Duncan S. Cook. Sixteen of them came from Union Parish alone.

Applications for permit to drill were filed for 14 new locations—most of them, six, again in Union Parish, the Monroe Field. Other new sites were found at week's end, according to Cook, in Catahoula, Concordia, Franklin and Grant Parishes.

Fifteen wells were listed active, scattered in Catahoula, Concordia, LaSalle, Ouachita, Tensas and Union Parishes. Three were drilling or testing in Ouachita Parish, all in the Cheniere Field, as were four each in LaSalle and Tensas, two in Union and one each in Concordia and Catahoula Parishes.

The 16-completion surge in Union Parish, all in the Monroe Field, centered around 11 units of the J. C. Trahan Drilling Company. A completion was found in each of Richland and Tensas Parishes. Depths are shown below.

There were no recompletions. Three wells were plugged and abandoned and 93 wells were listed inactive. Locations numbered 62.

The weekly report on completions, new locations and active rigs looked like this:

Spot Cotton Up As Futures Fall

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures prices dropped on the domestic market but spot prices moved steadily upward and reached a high for the season last week.

At the close of trading Friday active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange were 65 cents a bale higher to $2.35 a bale lower than one week earlier.

Futures began the week holding to a narrow range that had persisted for several weeks. Trading was slow. Toward the close of the period nearby contacts became stronger.

WHOSE WOODS ARE THESE?

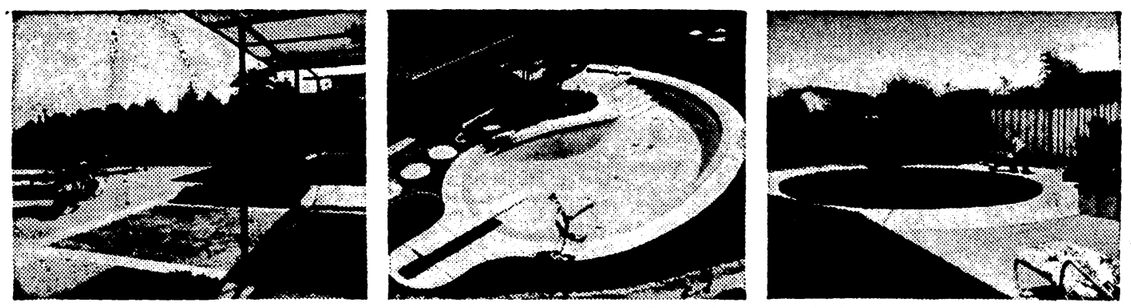

SMOKEY BEAR hopes you ask yourself this question the next time you go camping, or fishing, or driving through the woods.

Folks forget, sometimes, that they are guests when they visit the woods. Because they forget, they use a different set of rules than they use at home.

So, folks, won't you remember your woodland manners? Leave a clean camp or picnic spot. Use a litter bag in your car. Don't cut green trees. Be careful with matches, smokes, and open fires.

Remember—Only you can PREVENT FOREST FIRES!

Stock Slump, Budget Deficit Take Spotlight During Week

Sunoco Plans New Oil Field In Mississippi

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — Sun Oil Co. plans to complete the Arnouville No. 1, sec. 35-3n-9e, as a pumping well next week and open a new Pike County field.

The potential new field opener flowed about three barrels of oil per hour from perforations at 10,548-58 feet. Flowing pressure was low on initial tests with the operator planning to erect a pumping unit for official completion.

The wildcat is about 8 miles southeast of the Little Creek Field and 11 miles east of the McComb field near the Walthall County line.

Triad Oil and Gas Co. is reported to have resumed testing operations at the Frankl No. 1, Sec. 4-4n-8w, in Greene County to evaluate commercial worth of oil shows in sidewall cores.

The venture was drilled to 12,518 feet with production casing set to 8,488 feet to test shows logged below 8,000 feet.

Testing is continuing at Meyer and Meyer No. 1, Fernwood Industries-Busby unit sec. 21-4n-83, located about a mile west of the Little Creek Field. The well is testing at 163 barrels of oil daily from 10,696-721 feet.

Wildcat activity near the Pickens Field of Yazoo County is continuing to increase due to the recent opening of a new producing segment for the 22-year-old field. Viking Oil Co. is reported drilling surface hole at the Stuart Bridgefore No. 1, Sec. 30-12n-3e, and Lee and Ladner are below 4,300 feet on the Dixon No. 1, sec. 7-11n-3e.

Also in Yazoo County north of the Bentonia oil field, Continental Oil Co. is below 10,200 feet in the wells No. 1, sec. 8-10n-1w, a 11,000 foot try.

Pure Oil Co. is below 13,600 feet in the Kemper County Henry No. 1, sec. 15-12n-15e, with no information being released. The well is scheduled to 15,000 feet, the deepest test yet in the hardrock country.

In Madison County, Tenneco Oil Co. is below 2,100 feet in the Greaves No. 1, sec. 8-8n-1e, located four miles southeast of the Flora Field. The test is scheduled to 11,000 feet.

At Dexter in Walthall County, Gulf Coast Drlg. and Exploration Co., filed the Sorrell No. 1, sec. 3-1n-12e, flowing 182 barrels of oil daily from a sand at 9,669-80 feet.

Humble Oil and Refining Co. complete the USA No. 1, sec. 13-9n-8w, as a triple oiler. S sand at 10,963-73 feet flowed 118 barrels of oil daily. The second zone at 9,744-52 feet flowed 95 barrels and the third zone at 7,618-22 feet flowed 215 barrels.

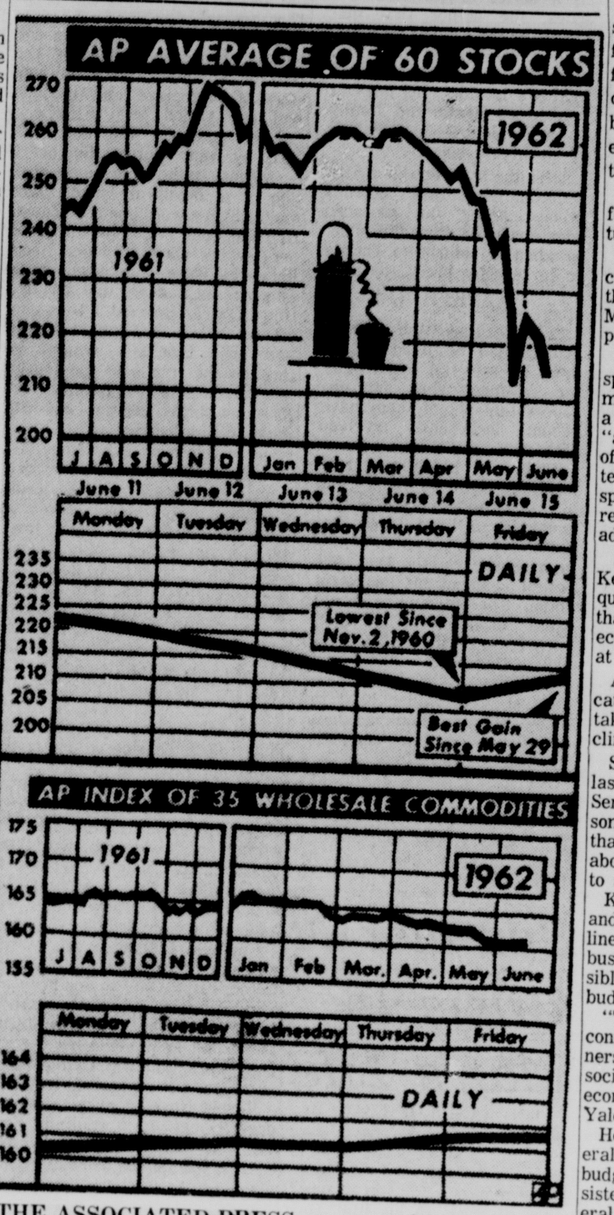

Grains' Futures End With Gains

CHICAGO (AP)—The grain futures market lapsed into general weakness in late trading last week but finished with moderate to broad gains generally.

Nearby soybean and rye moths attracted an unusually large volume of speculative trade and led the advances on most days. Old crop soybeans posted gains on four of the five trading days on support described principally as short covering which was linked with reports that stocks in commercial positions were showing steady weekly declines.

Wheat closed ⅛-2⅞ cent a bushel higher than a week ago, July $2.14-⅝; corn 1 cent higher to ¼ lower, July $1.11¼-⅛.

THE ASSOCIATED PRESS average of 60 stocks declined sharply for the second straight week, closing Friday at 214.1 from 221.8 a week ago as shown in this chart. Led by livestock the commodity index moved higher this week to 161.7 from 160.3 in the preceding period. (AP Wirephoto)

PRICES SUFFER EARLIER

Stocks Close Week In Impressive Rally

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market took a monotonous pounding most of last week but ended with an impressive rally.

As declining prices did a turnabout midway through the final session, some brokerage houses sent out "buy flashes" to their customers.

Others reported that big institutional investors such as mutual funds were again buying stock.

Gloom had thickened as prices were battered down to severe losses Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday. Friday, they sank again after a brief morning rise — then made a strong advance, recovering roughly 40 per cent of the losses taken on the four previous days.

The technical features of this advance gave investment analysts something to go on—because prices had held above the lows reached in the middle of the May 29 session, when the market rebounded from "Black Monday" with the greatest rise since 1929.

Even so, the market statistics showed a big drop this week. The popular averages had their worst weekly loss since the week ended May 26, and that one was the sharpest on record for the Associated Press average, and the steepest since 1929 for the Dow Jones industrial average.

The AP 60-stock average fell 7.70 to 214.10.

At their Thursday night readings, the Dow industrials were down to their lowest level since Dec. 12, 1958, and the AP average at its lowest since Nov. 2, 1960.

International Business Machines dropped to a low of 300—it was 607 last October—but in the closing session it rallied, along with many other battered "growth" stocks as well as blue chips.

With the ticker tape late repeatedly, volume for the week swelled to 26,770,865 shares from 21,041,630 the week before.

Kennedy Issues Bid Asking Cooperation

By JACK LEFLER
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Another sharp slump by the stock market, further bids by President Kennedy for business cooperation and the question of whether a federal budget deficit would benefit the economy held the spotlight during the week.

The market, pummeled by discouraged selling, sank through the bottom of the May 28 "Black Monday" level and to its lowest point since Nov. 2, 1960.

President Kennedy said in a speech at Yale University commencement exercises that it was a "false issue" to assume that "any and all unfavorable turns of the speculative wheel—however temporary and however plainly speculative in character—are the result of lack of confidence in an administration."

Later at his news conference, Kennedy said, in response to a question, that he couldn't believe that big business would want an economic slump just to get back at a president.

A newspaper column had indicated some businessmen hoped to take advantage of the market decline for that purpose.

Secretary of the Treasury Douglas Dillon, testifying before the Senate Finance Committee, said some investment analysts believe that stock prices have fallen to about the right levels in relation to share earnings.

Kennedy used his Yale speech and his news conference to outline his views on government-business cooperation and the possible result of an unbalanced budget.

"The solid ground of mutual confidence is the necessary partnership with all the sectors of our society in the steady quest for economic progress," he said at Yale.

He called it a myth that "federal deficits create inflation and budget surpluses prevent it... persistent deficits for the last several years have not upset our basic price stability."

At his news conference he elaborated, saying that deficits are not necessarily harmful. He added that what the country must be concerned about is maintaining the vitality of the economy.

Secretary of Labor Arthur J. Goldberg told a convention of the Hatters Union in New York, "We are not antibusiness and it is nonsense to believe that a president of the United States committed to our institutions can be."

Newly reported business statistics painted a mixed picture.

Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges announced retail sales in May declined 1 per cent from April, corporate profits dropped in the first quarter and personal income showed a smaller-than-usual advance.

Even so, he said, over-all economic figures "still look awfully good." For the rest of the year he predicted good business but not full economic activity.

The Labor Department reported earnings of factory workers reached their highest peak in May and nonfarm employment was the greatest for the month.

However, indications were for an increase in unemployment in June and a poorer-than-expected job situation in construction and soft goods manufacturing.

William McChesney Martin, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, said in an address to the Harvard Alumni Association that the United States needs to accelerate economic growth.

"Growth has now become the focal point of attention in economic affairs because," he said, "if we can increase the size of the pie speedily and steadily enough, everyone can have a slice or a still larger slice, and none will have to yield any of his present share to his neighbors."

Henry Ford II, chairman of Ford Motor Co., was quoted as saying he considered the market adjustment a short-term affair and that Ford spending plans are unchanged.

Ford also predicted good automobile sales for the rest of this year and at least the first part of 1963. Earlier he had forecast sales of 6.9 million to 7 million cars, which would make this year second only to 1955, when 7,169,908 were sold.

Sales in the first 10 days of June totaled 161,969, compared with 150,596 a year earlier. Production during the week fell off to an estimated 147,000 from 150,077 last week but was well ahead of the 129,274 of a year ago.

The situation in the steel industry continued discouraging with production down for the 10th consecutive week. Mills turned out 1.58 million tons of steel, off 0.4 per cent from the previous week and representing about 52.5 per cent of estimated capacity.

Producers said indications were that production will continue to decline for a while longer.

OIL COMPACT COMMISSION

Conservation Meet Set For Oil Report

By MAX B. SKELTON

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Early results of a compromise that eased a stormy controversy are to be placed before the Interstate Oil Compact Commission next week.

A statistical report on oil and gas reserves and production is to be submitted at Wednesday's final session of the mid-year meeting of the 33-state advisory body on oil and gas conservation.

Governors of six states are to participate in the three-day meeting starting Monday.

The reserve and production report is to list leading companies in the various states and give a breakdown for production by major and independent producers.

No recommendations will be included. Recommendations and suggestions were ruled out by the compromise that developed after heated debate at the commission's annual meeting at Denver in December. A subcommittee had spent its first year developing definitions and drafting objectives. But it prompted one of the few major controversies in the 27-year history of the compact.

The committee was dissolved amid charges some oil states were trying to tell other states how much oil they could produce. Gov. Jack R. Gage, D-Wyo., threatened to make Wyoming the first state ever to withdraw from the compact.

The special study was abandoned and a job of compiling a statistical report from the various states was turned over to an 11-member executive committee headed by Gov. J. Howard Edmondson, D-Okla., the 1962 compact chairman.

There was some speculation in December the sharply revised project would be permitted to die quietly. The executive committee authorized Edmondson in February, however, to mail questionnaires seeking voluntary information from the governors of the member states.

A preliminary report is to be made Wednesday. An annual report is planned for the December meeting at Miami Beach, Fla.

Congress authorized formation of the compact in 1935 to promote oil and gas conservation through established state agencies. Recommendations can be submitted to member states but the commission has no enforcment authority.

Committee sessions open the meeting Monday.

Oil Field Activity Leaps Ahead In Monroe Area

Better weather brought an apparent surge of new life last week over the 14-parish Monroe Oil and Gas District, when a total of 18 completions were recorded with Manager Duncan S. Cook. Sixteen of them came from Union Parish alone.

Applications for permit to drill were filed for 14 new locations—most of them, six, again in Union Parish, the Monroe Field. Other new sites were found at week's end, according to Cook, in Catahoula, Concordia, Franklin and Grant Parishes.

Fifteen wells were listed active, scattered in Catahoula, Concordia, LaSalle, Ouachita, Tensas and Union Parishes. Three were drilling or testing in Ouachita Parish, all in the Cheniere Field, as were four each in LaSalle and Tensas, two in Union and one each in Concordia and Catahoula Parishes.

The 16-completion surge in Union Parish, all in the Monroe Field, centered around 11 units of the J. C. Trahan Drilling Company. A completion was found in each of Richland and Tensas Parishes. Depths are shown below.

There were no recompletions. Three wells were plugged and abandoned and 93 wells were listed inactive. Locations numbered 62.

The weekly report on completions, new locations and active rigs looked like this:

Spot Cotton Up As Futures Fall

NEW YORK (AP) — Cotton futures prices dropped on the domestic market but spot prices moved steadily upward and reached a high for the season last week.

At the close of trading Friday active futures contracts on the New York Cotton Exchange were 65 cents a bale higher to $2.35 a bale lower than one week earlier.

Futures began the week holding to a narrow range that had persisted for several weeks. Trading was slow. Toward the close of the period nearby contacts became stronger.

WHOSE WOODS ARE THESE?

SMOKEY BEAR hopes you ask yourself this question the next time you go camping, or fishing, or driving through the woods.

Folks forget, sometimes, that they are guests when they visit the woods. Because they forget, they use a different set of rules than they use at home.

So, folks, won't you remember your woodland manners? Leave a clean camp or picnic spot. Use a litter bag in your car. Don't cut green trees. Be careful with matches, smokes, and open fires.

Remember—Only you can PREVENT FOREST FIRES!

From "pebbled" patios to custom-designed pools... concrete adds new glamour to outdoor living

When it comes to living on all of your property, nothing does more for you than concrete.

For example, a concrete patio for the whole family to enjoy, a reflecting pool, "stepping stones" for your garden, a decorative sight screen, or a safe play area for the children. These are just a few of the many ways in which versatile concrete can give you a new "outdoor living room"!

Ideas are practically endless. For concrete can be formed, colored, textured or polished to create just about any special effect you have in mind. Happily, you'll find the cost is moderate whether your concrete is cast in place, precast or in masonry units. And durable concrete is an improvement for lifetime enjoyment. Kindall Goes On Rampage To Lead Indians Over Yankees, 10-9

Jerry Blasts Homer In 9th To Win Game

CLEVELAND (AP) — Jerry Kindall, Cleveland's little man who gets hot against New York, cracked a dramatic two-run homer in the ninth inning to propel the Indians to a 10-9 victory over the Yankees Saturday.

Kindall had four hits in the game, giving him 18 hits in 40 trips against the Yanks this season, a .450 mark.

Cleveland jumped off to a 6-0 lead with three runs in each of the first two innings, but the Yanks battled back and went ahead in the eighth frame as the great Mickey Mantle marked his return to action for the first time since May 18 with a three-run homer that traveled 450 feet.

Mantle hit his homer in a pinch hitting role off Gary Bell to put the Yanks in front 9-7.

Jim Coates, the New Yorkers' seventh pitcher was on the mound in the ninth, trying to protect a 9-8 lead. He hit Woodie Held with a pitch to start the frame. He retired Bubba Phillips on a pop bunt but Kindall then blasted his fifth homer into the left field stands.

The crowd of 50,254—of whom 21,208 persons were listed as paid and the rest ladies and children—roared when Kindall's shot took off.

The defeat, the Yanks' fifth in their last six games, dropped them out of first place, as the Indians moved ahead of the world champions.

DICK FARRELL

Another Ex-Mate Defeats Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The National League-leading Los Angeles Dodgers were beaten by a former teammate for the second straight time Saturday night, losing 4-1 as right-hander Dick Farrell pitched a three-hitter for the Houston Colts before 51,530.

This was the third straight loss for the Dodgers and it left them only a game ahead of the second-place San Francisco Giants, who defeated St. Louis.

In their last five games, the Dodgers have scored only six runs.

They were shut out 2-0 Friday night by Jim Golden, who went from Los Angeles to Houston in the expansion draft last fall.

Farrell, also on the Dodger staff last year, struck out two, didn't walk a man and retired 13 batters in order in one stretch. This was his fifth victory in 11 decisions.

Pelican League

Brown - Rivers Scogin outlasted Peoples' Homestead, 2-1, in a continuation of a West Monroe Pelican League contest that went nine innings Saturday night at Confederate Park.

The game was rained out last Tuesday night in the bottom of the third.

Freddie Ragland went the distance for Peoples and was charged with the loss despite the fact that he hurled a five - hitter and walked only two. He also led his team in hitting with a double and single in four at-bats.

Wiggins started for B-R-S, but had to have help from Williams and Ashley, who took over in the seventh to get credit for the victory. Robinson, the winners' catcher, also went two for four.

Braves End Pittsburgh's Win Streak

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Roy McMillan drove in both Milwaukee runs and Lew Burdette scattered eight hits as the Braves ended the Pittsburgh Pirates seven-game winning streak Saturday night with a 2-1 victory.

McMillan opened the game with his seventh homer and broke a 1-1 tie in the seventh when he singled home Joe Adcock.

The Braves shortstop was also involved in the Pirates only run in the fifth inning when he and left fielder Lee Maye allowed Bill Virdon's short fly ball to drop for a double. Dick Groat followed with a single, scoring Virdon.

Burdette had a few uneasy moments, particularly in the second inning when the Pirates got a double by Smoky Burgess and a single by Bob Clemente, but failed to score.

Causey Masters Bastrop Juniors

By WAYNE KING
World Sports Writer

BASTROP (Special) — Southpaw Lynn Causey extended his scoreless inning streak to 14 with a sparkling one-hitter and enjoyed a perfect day at the plate as he carried Monroe to a 9-0 victory over Bastrop at Baron Park Saturday morning.

The Brown-Rivers-Scogin team now sets high atop the Fifth District standings with a perfect 7-0 record. Ruston is two games back with a 4-2 mark and Bastrop holds down the third position with a 3-3 standing. Bernice, 4-2, and Farmerville, 0-6, round out the loop.

Causey blanked Farmerville, 16-0, last Tuesday with another strong one-hitter in his only previous appearance in league play this season. In his first game the tall blond struck out 11 and walked only two.

In Saturday's contest the former Ouachita High ace fanned six, didn't issue a base on balls, and looked as strong at the end of the game as he did at the beginning despite thie steaming morning sun.

He also looked like a winner at the plate, pounding out four solid singles in as many tries and driving in single tallies with his first two safeties.

Coach Red Sims' defending state champs utilized the double steal to take a 1-0 advantage in the top of the first inning and that was all the lead that Causey needed. However, Monroe added three more runs in the second, two in the third and closed out with three in the sixth.

Bastrop staged a mild threat in the bottom of the initial frame, but Causey got out of it without any damage being done and was in complete command after that. The big curve-balling left retired the next 16 batters in order before the first man up in the bottom of the seventh reached first safely when shortstop Joe Canal booted a ground ball.

Causey promptly struck out the next two hitters and got pitcher James Florence to ground out to third for the final out to end the game.

Monroe broke on top in the first frame with their double steal. Leadoff batter Gary Futch drew a free pass, Canal lined a single to left, but was forced at second by Charlie Biggar's grounder to first, leaving runners on first and third with one away.

Before starter and loser Rickey Reynolds went into his stretch Biggar broke for second and was thrown out, but Futch had stolen home before the second baseman could recover and make a play at the plate.

With one out in the last of the first Richey Head was safe on a Monroe miscue and left-handed swinging James Chunn beat out a broken bat single that trinkled down the third base line. Head moved to third when Russell Montgomery forced Chunn at second, but Morris Funderburgh popped out to catcher Eddie Kincaid to end the threat.

It was 16 Bastrop batters later before the host team managed to get a runner on base.

Canal started the rally in the sixth with his third single to left. Roy Walton then drew a free pass and two outs and a wild pitch later Wayne Hardwick, who had taken over the first base duties for Guinn, drove both teammates in with a base rap to left. Hardwick continued to second on the throw in to the plate and scored from there on left fielder Zeke Zarro's hit.

Kindall Goes On Rampage To Lead Indians Over Yankees, 10-9

Jerry Blasts Homer In 9th To Win Game

CLEVELAND (AP) — Jerry Kindall, Cleveland's little man who gets hot against New York, cracked a dramatic two-run homer in the ninth inning to propel the Indians to a 10-9 victory over the Yankees Saturday.

Kindall had four hits in the game, giving him 18 hits in 40 trips against the Yanks this season, a .450 mark.

Cleveland jumped off to a 6-0 lead with three runs in each of the first two innings, but the Yanks battled back and went ahead in the eighth frame as the great Mickey Mantle marked his return to action for the first time since May 18 with a three-run homer that traveled 450 feet.

Mantle hit his homer in a pinch hitting role off Gary Bell to put the Yanks in front 9-7.

Jim Coates, the New Yorkers' seventh pitcher was on the mound in the ninth, trying to protect a 9-8 lead. He hit Woodie Held with a pitch to start the frame. He retired Bubba Phillips on a pop bunt but Kindall then blasted his fifth homer into the left field stands.

The crowd of 50,254—of whom 21,208 persons were listed as paid and the rest ladies and children—roared when Kindall's shot took off.

The defeat, the Yanks' fifth in their last six games, dropped them out of first place, as the Indians moved ahead of the world champions.

By WILL GRIMSLEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — Rookie Jack Nicklaus surged back with a final round 2-under-par 69 Saturday and tied heavily favored Arnold Palmer for the 62nd National Open Golf Championship with a 72-hole score of 283. They meet in an 18-hole playoff Sunday.

The fabulous Palmer, who has pulled a half-dozen titles out of the fire with miraculous finishes, came to the 462-yard 18th hole, needing to sink a 15-foot putt to take it all.

But this time his comeback magic failed him. He stroked the putt boldly and it spun past the cup, rolling three feet away on the lightning fast greens.

He could have missed it—under the most intense of pressures—but he didn't. The muscular masters champion from Latrobe, Pa., banged the ball into the back of the cup and he thus finished with an even par 71.

Thus, one of the open's oldest traditions was maintained, no man has ever come to the final hole, needing a putt to win and sunk it.

They've done it to tie, as Cary Middlecoff did in the last playoff in 1957 at Toledo's Inverness, where he lost to Dick Mayer. This is the 20th playoff in this aged event, dating back to 1895.

They tee off at 12:45 p.m., EST. Palmer defeated Gary Player and Dow Finsterwald in a playoff for the Masters championship last April.

Palmer will be favored over his 22-year-old rival, a pro less than a year, in the head-to-head duel, which could bring him the second leg in his bid for an unprecedented professional "grand slam."

Palmer is shooting for the Masters, U. S. and British Opens and U. S. PGA titles in a single year—a sweep which even the great Ben Hogan never achieved. Hogan won three of them in 1953, but failed to play in the PGA.

Palmer and Nicklaus, two of the biggest hitters and fiercest competitors in modern golf, were paired in the opening two rounds of the tournament. During this stretch, Palmer had an edge, shooting 71-68 to Nicklaus' 72-70.

The battle for the 62nd Open, played in sweltering heat over the Oakmont's awesome string of furrowed sand traps and rolling table-top greens, developed into a two-man battle in the afternoon after other challengers had fallen off the pace.

Phil Rodgers, the ruddy-faced ex-Marine and son of a San Diego, Calif., auto salesman, made a strong run for it, but took bogeys on the 69th and 70th holes for a 72 and 285. This tied him with Bobby Nichols, the handsome, 24-year-old Kentuckian, who shared the lead with Palmer at the 54-hole mark.

Nichols finished with a 73, after going over par on two of the last four holes.

An all-time record crowd of nearly 25,000, shouting encouragement to their neighborhood hero, Palmer, added to the intense pressure of the rigorous, excitement-loaded 36-hole windup.

"Come on, Arn, you can do it."

"We're with you, Arnie boy, go get 'em."

This was the baseball stadium atmosphere that prevailed on this 6,894-yard, par 71 course carved out of the hills of Western Pennsylvania.

Palmer tried to oblige, but it was an uncomfortable position for him. He was out in front. He likes it better when he is behind.

At one time during the afternoon round, he was 3-under-par for the tournament and had a three stroke lead over his nearest rivals.

Then he came to the 480-yard ninth hole, one of Oakmot's so-called "hell holes" which doesn't play too hard. After a booming drive, he hit a strong second shot but pushed it to the right of the green into the 3-inch rough.

He seemed to have an easy wedge shot at the flag, but he appeared to lose concentration. He scuffed the ball only a few feet, still short of the putting surface. His next chip also was weak — unlike Palmer — leaving him about 8 feet short.

Shaken by this strange series of mistakes, he muffed his putt and took a bogey after being in a good position for a birdie.

This plus a bogey at the 161-yard 13th where he drove into a deep trap cost him the championship—at least temporarily.

Coming into the finishing holes, with a television audience looking in, both Palmer and Nicklaus had to sink good-sized pressure putts.

On the 17th, where he had an 8-footer for a birdie, Palmer paused and turned around, asking for "quiet." Then he missed.

"I heard the television announcer summarizing my putt," he said.

The Latrobe pro said he could hear shutters clicking almost every time he bent over a putt and this affected his concentration.

Asked what he thought about playing Nicklaus Sunday, Palmer said in a post-tournament interview:

"I wish it were somebody else—that big strong dud. I thought I was through with him yesterday."

Then he closed the session with the plea:

"Are there any good putters in the crowd? He can give me a lesson tonight."

DICK FARRELL

Another Ex-Mate Defeats Dodgers

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The National League-leading Los Angeles Dodgers were beaten by a former teammate for the second straight time Saturday night, losing 4-1 as right-hander Dick Farrell pitched a three-hitter for the Houston Colts before 51,530.

This was the third straight loss for the Dodgers and it left them only a game ahead of the second-place San Francisco Giants, who defeated St. Louis.

In their last five games, the Dodgers have scored only six runs.

They were shut out 2-0 Friday night by Jim Golden, who went from Los Angeles to Houston in the expansion draft last fall.

Farrell, also on the Dodger staff last year, struck out two, didn't walk a man and retired 13 batters in order in one stretch. This was his fifth victory in 11 decisions.

Braves End Pittsburgh's Win Streak

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Roy McMillan drove in both Milwaukee runs and Lew Burdette scattered eight hits as the Braves ended the Pittsburgh Pirates seven-game winning streak Saturday night with a 2-1 victory.

McMillan opened the game with his seventh homer and broke a 1-1 tie in the seventh when he singled home Joe Adcock.

The Braves shortstop was also involved in the Pirates only run in the fifth inning when he and left fielder Lee Maye allowed Bill Virdon's short fly ball to drop for a double. Dick Groat followed with a single, scoring Virdon.

Burdette had a few uneasy moments, particularly in the second inning when the Pirates got a double by Smoky Burgess and a single by Bob Clemente, but failed to score.

Scott's Flower sprouted base hits all over the place to maul McLemore's, 33-4, in a game at Southside last night called in the top of the fourth. Dennis Miliam and Ricky Schoonover paced the winners with 4-5 each while Fred Wilhite hit 2-2 for the losers. Wren Stevenson and Schoonover won over Donald Floyd and Benny Fox.

Sanders Lumber beat American Oil, on the other hand, locked up in a pitchers' duel with Sanders winning, 2-1, behind the battery of Buck Price and Bill Foster, who also led the hitting with 2-2 apiece. Bill Fryant and James Arrant were the losers.

I. W. Wilson and Troy Nattier got 2-3 each to lead First National to a 12-0 win over Central in a battle of banks. Richard Martin pitched the shutout with Charles Lenard catching. Clint Jordan and Ken Wilkinson were the losers with Mike Clements going 2-4.

Pulp and Paper downed Bancroft 8-6 in the first tilt on the Northside. Huntsman and Shields were the winning battery. Cole and Rankin were the losers. Shields went three for three and both Huntsman and Kirby homered for the winning nine. Rankin went two for three for the losers.

Louisiana Power and Light topped Heard Oil 5-2 in the second game. Nelson and Smith both went two for three to lead the winning squad at the plate. Smith and Schaiffer were the winning battery. Ragland and Holstead took the loss. Payne and Rhodes each went two for two for the losers.

A & E Grocery defeated Foremost 19-8. Downs and Rowton were the winning battery and Butler and Watson the losers. Dowdy went two for four for the winners and Jones went two for three for the losers.

Pelican League

Brown - Rivers Scogin outlasted Peoples' Homestead, 2-1, in a continuation of a West Monroe Pelican League contest that went nine innings Saturday night at Confederate Park.

The game was rained out last Tuesday night in the bottom of the third.

Freddio Ragland went the distance for Peoples and was charged with the loss despite the fact that he hurled a five - hitter and walked only two. He also led his team in hitting with a double and single in four at-bats.

Wiggins started for B-R-S, but had to have help from Williams and Ashley, who took over in the seventh to get credit for the victory. Robinson, the winners' catcher, also went two for four.

B-R-S WINS

Causey Masters Bastrop Juniors

By WAYNE KING
World Sports Writer

BASTROP (Special) — Southpaw Lynn Causey extended his scoreless inning streak to 14 with a sparkling one-hitter and enjoyed a perfect day at the plate as he carried Monroe to a 9-0 victory over Bastrop at Baron Park Saturday morning.

The Brown-Rivers-Scogin team now sets high atop the Fifth District standings with a perfect 7-0 record. Ruston is two games back with a 4-2 mark and Bastrop holds down the third position with a 3-3 standing. Bernice, 4-2, and Farmerville, 0-6, round out the loop.

Causey blanked Farmerville, 16-0, last Tuesday with another strong one-hitter in his only previous appearance in league play this season. In his first game the tall blond struck out 11 and walked only two.

In Saturday's contest the former Ouachita High ace fanned six, didn't issue a base on balls, and looked as strong at the end of the game as he did at the beginning despite thie steaming morning sun.

He also looked like a winner at the plate, pounding out four solid singles in as many tries and driving in single tallies with his first two safeties.

Coach Red Sims' defending state champs utilized the double steal to take a 1-0 advantage in the top of the first inning and that was all the lead that Causey needed. However, Monroe added three more runs in the second, two in the third and closed out with three in the sixth.

Bastrop staged a mild threat in the bottom of the initial frame, but Causey got out of it without any damage being done and was in complete command after that. The big curve-balling left retired the next 16 batters in order before the first man up in the bottom of the seventh reached first safely when shortstop Joe Canal booted a ground ball.

Causey promptly struck out the next two hitters and got pitcher James Florence to ground out to third for the final out to end the game.

Monroe broke on top in the first frame with their double steal. Leadoff batter Gary Futch drew a free pass, Canal lined a single to left, but was forced at second by Charlie Biggar's grounder to first, leaving runners on first and third with one away.

Before starter and loser Rickey Reynolds went into his stretch Biggar broke for second and was thrown out, but Futch had stolen home before the second baseman could recover and make a play at the plate.

With one out in the last of the first Richey Head was safe on a Monroe miscue and left-handed swinging James Chunn beat out a broken bat single that trinkled down the third base line. Head moved to third when Russell Montgomery forced Chunn at second, but Morris Funderburgh popped out to catcher Eddie Kincaid to end the threat.

It was 16 Bastrop batters later before the host team managed to get a runner on base.

Canal started the rally in the sixth with his third single to left. Roy Walton then drew a free pass and two outs and a wild pitch later Wayne Hardwick, who had taken over the first base duties for Guinn, drove both teammates in with a base rap to left. Hardwick continued to second on the throw in to the plate and scored from there on left fielder Zeke Zarro's hit.

Tulane Signs 37 Grid Prospects

NEW ORLEANS, La. (Special) — Tulane's recruiting program in football has covered a total of 11 states and totals 37 players, according to the list of signees released by head coach Tommy O'Boyle.

Louisiana has supplied the largest number, with 15 boys being from the Pelican state. Texas is second with seven, followed by Mississippi with four, Alabama with three and Ohio with two.

GIANTS END STREAK

Marichal Blanks Cardinals, 5 To 0

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Juan Marichal shut out St. Louis 5-0 on two hits Saturday as the San Francisco Giants ended a three-game losing streak.

Felipe Alou's two-run first inning homer and Willie Mays' two-run fifth inning double were the Giant power.

Marichal, pitching his 10th triumph against four losses, allowed only one hit until Charley James doubled down the left field line opening the eighth. James reached third on an infield out but died there as Marichal put down pinch hitter Red Schoendienst and Curt Flood.

Larry Jackson, Cardinal right-hander lost his seventh against five victories. He was touched for two more runs in the fifth. Marichal reached first on a batting interference call against catcher Carl Sawatski.

Chuck Hiller singled off Ken Boyer's glove. Mays drove in Marichal and Hiller with a double to the left field corner.

Athletics Foil Twins' Bid For First With 6-2 Victory

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Diego Segui, Kansas City's ace relief pitcher, started his first game Saturday night, beat Minnesota 6-2 and foiled the Twins chance to take over the American League lead.

While Segui subdued the Twins' on seven hits, Dick Howser and Ed Charles led the A's bombardment against starter Joe Bonikowski and two relievers. Each hit a solo home run and each got three hits.

The Twins, who could have gone one percentage point ahead of first place Cleveland if they had won, started the scoring in the first inning. Vic Power singled, moved up to second as Dick Rollins walked, and scored on the front end of a double steal when catcher Joe Azcue's throw went awry at third base. But that was the last time the Twins were in the lead.

Howser beat out a bunt and scored as Jose Tartabull and Manny Jimenez followed with singles. Tartabull scored the A's second run when Norm Siebern forced Jimenez at second base.

The A's got another pair in the second inning on Segui's hit, Howser's triple and Tartabull's sacrifice fly.

Modified Stock Races Set Today At State Track

SHREVEPORT (Special)—Bobby Herrin, who set a new track record here two weeks ago is favored to take top honors in the modified and super - modified stock car races here today.

Herring, a native of Hattisburgh, Miss., set a new track record around the state Fair Speedway of :24.92 two weeks ago before the 30 car event was rained out.

Today's events will be divided into five classifications, Trophy Dash, Fast Heat, Slow Heat, Semi-feature and Feature events. The Mississippi favorite will be strong contender, driving a fuel injected engine, and is expected to take the trophy dash, a 30 lap contest between the eight fastest qualifiers, and the feature event.

Qualifing is slated to get underway at 12:30 p.m. with the first event to begin at 2 p.m.

A Texas entry, Wayne Niedicken, is expected to offer tough competition for the top spot. He has won the last five races he has entered.

EDDIE KINCAID

Star Neville Catcher Heads All-State Club

By BILL CARTER
Town Talk Sports Editor
(Written for La. Sports Writers Assn.)

Little Eddie Kincaid, whose booming bat and expert receiving carried Monroe Neville to the state baseball championship for two straight years, head the Class AA all-state team elected by the Louisiana Sports Writers Association.

Sam Scelfo of Abbeville, who turned a "junior varsity" team into a state finalist, was voted "coach-of-the-year." Scelfo's veteran battery, pitcher Gerald Hebert and catcher Kent Hungerford, also made the all-state squad.

Menard of Alexandria and Baton Rouge Lee where the only other teams with two players on the squad. Menard is represented by third baseman Ernie Knobloch and first baseman Marv Brossett. Lee landed shortstop Joe Moock and pitcher John Chadwick.

MAYEAUX AT SECOND

Paul Mayeaux, second baseman from Jesuit of Shreveport, rounds out the infield.

Jim McGill of Slidell, Harold Hood of Redemptorist and Tommy Robertson of North Caddo make up the outfield.

David Prewitt, Tioga handyman, earned the other utility position.

Kincaid, a little guy who makes a lot of noise with his bat, hit a lofty .424 and had numerous key hits, including home runs, in the clutch. He was a regular catcher for Neville for four straight years. He has signed with Northeast State College in his home town.

Knobloch, a repeater on the all-state team like Kincaid, boasts the best batting average on the squad. He not only clubbed the ball at a .475 clip during the regular season and hit two tremendous home runs out of his spacious home park, but also won all four of his pitching decisions, with a superb 0.77 ERA.

Another exceptionally outstanding member of the team is Moock. He played errorless ball all year, batted .450 and had four home runs, five triples and eight doubles.

SIX HOME RUNS

The blub's long ball hitter is McGill, who walloped six home runs and drove in 35 scores in 26 games with a .320 average.

The only other .400-hitters are Knobloch's junior teammate Brossett, who batted .404 and did a bank-up job at first base, and Prewitt, a shortstop who hit .422.

All of the pitchers lost at least one decision, but were engaged in top-flight competition.

Scelfo has guided his baseball team to district championships in each of his seven years at Abbeville. His 1961 team, which reached the semi-finals, was wrecked by graduation. Yet, he took a team made up of three freshmen, two sophomores and four seniors and went all the way to the finals before bowing to the slugging Neville team.

Pyle In Fold

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Colts of the National Football League announced Saturday the signing of Palmer Pyle for the 1962 football season. Pyle played tackle at Michigan State.

WONDERFUL — isn't it!

I'll Be A Healthier, Happier And More Productive Citizen Tomorrow Because Of Member-Owned Electric Cooperatives

June is Dairy Month

If not for electric co-ops furnishing low cost power to Louisiana dairies there wouldn't even be enough grade A milk for us wearers of three-cornered pants.

And our state's multi-million dollar dairy industry is only one product of the revolution in better living brought about by member-owned electric co-ops. Just think of the accelerated rural development, improved sanitation, more convenient home life, improved agricultural methods — only to name a few.

Rural electrification, directly or indirectly, has touched all our lives — city folks, as well as farm folks. Why, this year alone, it has been estimated that Louisiana co-op members will spend over $50 million just for appliances! This means more jobs, more money for all.

Contrary to what you may hear, electric co-ops are not federal agencies. They are non-profit businesses owned and controlled by your rural friends and neighbors who decided to give themselves the advantages their city cousins have enjoyed for years.

GIANTS END STREAK

Marichal Blanks Cardinals, 5 To 0

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Juan Marichal shut out St. Louis 5-0 on two hits Saturday as the San Francisco Giants ended a three-game losing streak.

Felipe Alou's two-run first inning homer and Willie Mays' two-run fifth inning double were the Giant power.

Marichal, pitching his 10th triumph against four losses, allowed only one hit until Charley James doubled down the left field line opening the eighth. James reached third on an infield out but died there as Marichal put down pinch hitter Red Schoendienst and Curt Flood.

Larry Jackson, Cardinal right-hander lost his seventh against five victories. He was touched for two more runs in the fifth. Marichal reached first on a batting interference call against catcher Carl Sawatski.

Chuck Hiller singled off Ken Boyer's glove. Mays drove in Marichal and Hiller with a double to the left field corner.

Star Neville Catcher Heads All-State Club

By BILL CARTER
Town Talk Sports Editor
(Written for La. Sports Writers Assn.)

Little Eddie Kincaid, whose booming bat and expert receiving carried Monroe Neville to the state baseball championship for two straight years, head the Class AA all-state team elected by the Louisiana Sports Writers Association.

Sam Scelfo of Abbeville, who turned a "junior varsity" team into a state finalist, was voted "coach-of-the-year." Scelfo's veteran battery, pitcher Gerald Hebert and catcher Kent Hungerford, also made the all-state squad.

Menard of Alexandria and Baton Rouge Lee where the only other teams with two players on the squad. Menard is represented by third baseman Ernie Knobloch and first baseman Marv Brossett. Lee landed shortstop Joe Moock and pitcher John Chadwick.

Other pitchers honored were Harry Stelly of Opelousas, Roland Tierney of Behrman and Mike Powell of Minden.

SIX HOME RUNS

The blub's long ball hitter is McGill, who walloped six home runs and drove in 35 scores in 26 games with a .320 average.

The only other .400-hitters are Knobloch's junior teammate Brossett, who batted .404 and did a bank-up job at first base, and Prewitt, a shortstop who hit .422.

All of the pitchers lost at least all year, batted .450 and had four home runs, five triples and eight doubles.

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Colts of the National Football League announced Saturday the signing of Palmer Pyle for the 1962 football season. Pyle played tackle at Michigan State.

SEGUI STARS

Athletics Foil Twins' Bid For First With 6-2 Victory

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Diego Segui, Kansas City's ace relief pitcher, started his first game Saturday night, beat Minnesota 6-2 and foiled the Twins chance to take over the American League lead.

While Segui subdued the Twins' on seven hits, Dick Howser and Ed Charles led the A's bombardment against starter Joe Bonikowski and two relievers. Each hit a solo home run and each got three hits.

The Twins, who could have gone one percentage point ahead of first place Cleveland if they had won, started the scoring in the first inning. Vic Power singled, moved up to second as Dick Rollins walked, and scored on the front end of a double steal when catcher Joe Azcue's throw went awry at third base. But that was the last time the Twins were in the lead.

Howser beat out a bunt and scored as Jose Tartabull and Manny Jimenez followed with singles. Tartabull scored the A's second run when Norm Siebern forced Jimenez at second base.

The A's got another pair in the second inning on Segui's hit, Howser's triple and Tartabull's sacrifice fly.

Modified Stock Races Set Today At State Track

SHREVEPORT (Special)—Bobby Herrin, who set a new track record here two weeks ago is favored to take top honors in the modified and super - modified stock car races here today.

Herring, a native of Hattisburgh, Miss., set a new track record around the state Fair Speedway of :24.92 two weeks ago before the 30 car event was rained out.

Today's events will be divided into five classifications, Trophy Dash, Fast Heat, Slow Heat, Semi-feature and Feature events. The Mississippi favorite will be strong contender, driving a fuel injected engine, and is expected to take the trophy dash, a 30 lap contest between the eight fastest qualifiers, and the feature event.

Qualifing is slated to get underway at 12:30 p.m. with the first event to begin at 2 p.m.

A Texas entry, Wayne Niedicken, is expected to offer tough competition for the top spot. He has won the last five races he has entered.

Delta League

McGuffee Construction of Monroe — Calhoun, behind the strong pitching of Jerry Lovett, continues its mastery of Delta League baseball play as the loop nears the mid-way point of the season.

Lovett has been the winning pitcher in all nine of McGuffee's victories. The league - leaders place their undefeated record on the line against Drew, which shares the No. 4 spot with Southside, both having 5-4 marks, in a contest slated for Rebel Stadium.

Chatham, 2½ games behind the pace setters, host Ouachita (1-7), while Swartz, in third place with a 5-3 record, intertains Southside.

Monroe (0-9) and West Monroe (3-5) clash on the West Monroe high school diamond.

WONDERFUL — isn't it!
I'll Be A Healthier, Happier And More Productive Citizen Tomorrow Because Of Member-Owned Electric Cooperatives
June is Dairy Month
GRADE A FOR BETTER HEALTH

If not for electric co-ops furnishing low cost power to Louisiana dairies there wouldn't even be enough grade A milk for us wearers of three-cornered pants.

And our state's multi-million dollar dairy industry is only one product of the revolution in better living brought about by member-owned electric co-ops. Just think of the accelerated rural development, improved sanitation, more convenient home life, improved agricultural methods — only to name a few.

Rural electrification, directly or indirectly, has touched all our lives — city folks, as well as farm folks. Why, this year alone, it has been estimated that Louisiana co-op members will spend over $50 million just for appliances! This means more jobs, more money for all.

Contrary to what you may hear, electric co-ops are not federal agencies. They are non-profit businesses owned and controlled by your rural friends and neighbors who decided to give themselves the advantages their city cousins have enjoyed for years.

Ducks And Arkansas

By NELSON COX
Director Arkansas Game And Fish Commission

Let's talk about ducks . . . wild ones . . . those that provide so much sport for Louisiana and Arkansas hunters. After all, our states are much alike in this respect—both highly favored as waterfowl wintering grounds.

In Arkansas, the same as Louisiana, ducks find what they want. Mild winters. Plenty of food, both natural and planted. And they have a choice of open water or flooded timber.

The principal river overflow bottoms in Arkansas are the White, Cahe, Black and Mississippi. Added to these are the Ouachita, L'Anguille, Red, Saline and St. Francis. They and numerous big bayous have for years furnished thousands of acres for duck hunting.

Since the thirties, however, drainage and timber clearing has cut heavily into this natural habitat, and, except for another kind of landscape change, Arkansas would have lost much of its appeal to ducks.

This change occurred with the start of rice culture in the Grand Prairie region. It has meant the construction of scores of reservoirs. These water impoundments are not only an integral part of rice farming but are also ideally suited fo ducks, especially mallards.

In addition, the development of many private hunting areas has provided large quantities of food, water and refuge for waterfowl.

In the late 1940s the Arkansas game and Fish Commission launched a land acquisition and development program that today is second to none in the outright ownership of public duck hunting grounds.

The commission now owns 15 areas comprising over 200,000 acres of wetlands. They range in size from 2,000 to 35,000 acres.

All of this emphasizes one point — Ducks and duck hunting are very important to Arkansas. Not only for the exciting sport, but to the state's economy. It amounts to millions of dollars annually.

Mallards are our most important species. They make up approximately 85 per cent of our total duck population and 92 per cent of the kill in Arkansas.

But the mallard population in the past five years has constantly declined. And, as every duck hunter knows, it has brought a reduction in hunting days and bag limits.

Here are the mallard midwinter inventory figures in Arkansas for that period. 1958-1,417,000; 1959-1,285,000; 1960-1,121,000; 1961-1,023,000 and 1962-784,000.

And what about the future?

The duck population (decrease or increase) is directly related to breeding ground conditions. In recent years these conditions have been bad. Since 1958 Canada and the northern tier of United States have been hit by severe drouths. And although we have returned a good supply of brood stock from the Mississippi fly-way, the number of young ducks has been below normal.

The short term picture then looks something like this. The drouth cycle will have to break before we can expect an upward trend in the number of birds. This will take at least two wet years. But the present cycle should be near its end.

Breeding ground conditions at this time, in fact, are better than in several years. Not as good as we would like them, but, according to Canadian authorities, better than this time a year ago and better than 1960. The 1962 winter snow cover was favorable. If we can get a quick melting runoff and an average rainfall, the pot hole areas should be in fairly good condition this summer.

The long range outlook boils down to one question. Can we halt drainage and other habitat destructing before it is too late? I believe we can. And I believe we will.

The United States government, every state conservation agency and more recently the Canadian government are now urging every influence toward some workable solution to this major wildlife problem.

The United States congress last year appropriated 105 million dollars for the acquisition of wet lands, to be spent primarily in the breeding grounds of our northern states. The effects of this program will begin to show in a few years. In addition, we now seem to have a closer relation between agriculture and wildlife interests than ever before.

Just a few weeks ago, officials of the Canadian government reported that steps are now being taken there toward the establishment of a program, whereby the Canadian farmers will be induced to preserve wet land areas in the interest of both agriculture and waterfowl.

Too, representatives of the two nations have met several times in recent months for the sole purpose of trying to find an answer to the migratory waterfowl problem.

All of this is encouraging. But it should not cause any of us to relax our interest. The long range objective is a big one and it will take the efforts of all to get the job done.

In the meantime, let's not panic because of a reduced season and bag limit. The situation should improve soon, perhaps this year, but it is almost entirely up to nature.

One thing hunters can be certain of — The Louisiana and Arkansas Game and Fish Department will be doing all they can to get the longest season and the largest bag limit possible, without doing damage to our basic brood stock of ducks.

Ducks And Arkansas

By NELSON COX
Director Arkansas Game And Fish Commission

Let's talk about ducks . . . wild ones . . . those that provide so much sport for Louisiana and Arkansas hunters. After all, our states are much alike in this respect—both highly favored as waterfowl wintering grounds.

In Arkansas, the same as Louisiana, ducks find what they want. Mild winters. Plenty of food, both natural and planted. And they have a choice of open water or flooded timber.

The principal river overflow bottoms in Arkansas are the White, Cahe, Black and Mississippi. Added to these are the Ouachita, L'Anguille, Red, Saline and St. Francis. They and numerous big bayous have for years furnished thousands of acres for duck hunting.

Since the thirties, however, drainage and timber clearing has cut heavily into this natural habitat, and, except for another kind of landscape change, Arkansas would have lost much of its appeal to ducks.

This change occurred with the start of rice culture in the Grand Prairie region. It has meant the construction of scores of reservoirs. These water impoundments are not only an integral part of rice farming but are also ideally suited fo ducks, especially mallards.

In addition, the development of many private hunting areas has provided large quantities of food, water and refuge for waterfowl.

In the late 1940s the Arkansas game and Fish Commission launched a land acquisition and development program that today is second to none in the outright ownership of public duck hunting grounds.

The commission now owns 15 areas comprising over 200,000 acres of wetlands. They range in size from 2,000 to 35,000 acres.

All of this emphasizes one point — Ducks and duck hunting are very important to Arkansas. Not only for the exciting sport, but to the state's economy. It amounts to millions of dollars annually.

Mallards are our most important species. They make up approximately 85 per cent of our total duck population and 92 per cent of the kill in Arkansas.

But the mallard population in the past five years has constantly declined. And, as every duck hunter knows, it has brought a reduction in hunting days and bag limits.

Here are the mallard midwinter inventory figures in Arkansas for that period. 1958-1,417,000; 1959-1,285,000; 1960-1,121,000; 1961-1,023,000 and 1962-784,000.

And what about the future?

The duck population (decrease or increase) is directly related to breeding ground conditions. In recent years these conditions have been bad. Since 1958 Canada and the northern tier of United States have been hit by severe drouths. And although we have returned a good supply of brood stock from the Mississippi fly-way, the number of young ducks has been below normal.

The short term picture then looks something like this. The drouth cycle will have to break before we can expect an upward trend in the number of birds. This will take at least two wet years. But the present cycle should be near its end.

Breeding ground conditions at this time, in fact, are better than in several years. Not as good as we would like them, but, according to Canadian authorities, better than this time a year ago and better than 1960. The 1962 winter snow cover was favorable. If we can get a quick melting runoff and an average rainfall, the pot hole areas should be in fairly good condition this summer.

The long range outlook boils down to one question. Can we halt drainage and other habitat destructing before it is too late? I believe we can. And I believe we will.

The United States government, every state conservation agency and more recently the Canadian government are now urging every influence toward some workable solution to this major wildlife problem.

The United States congress last year appropriated 105 million dollars for the acquisition of wet lands, to be spent primarily in the breeding grounds of our northern states. The effects of this program will begin to show in a few years. In addition, we now seem to have a closer relation between agriculture and wildlife interests than ever before.

Just a few weeks ago, officials of the Canadian government reported that steps are now being taken there toward the establishment of a program, whereby the Canadian farmers will be induced to preserve wet land areas in the interest of both agriculture and waterfowl.

Too, representatives of the two nations have met several times in recent months for the sole purpose of trying to find an answer to the migratory waterfowl problem.

All of this is encouraging. But it should not cause any of us to relax our interest. The long range objective is a big one and it will take the efforts of all to get the job done.

In the meantime, let's not panic because of a reduced season and bag limit. The situation should improve soon, perhaps this year, but it is almost entirely up to nature.

One thing hunters can be certain of — The Louisiana and Arkansas Game and Fish Department will be doing all they can to get the longest season and the largest bag limit possible, without doing damage to our basic brood stock of ducks.

Trap Designed To Foil Thieves Fatal For Man

LEXINGTON, Ga. (AP) — A trap designed to foil suspected pantry raiders is believed by officers to have claimed the life of its designer.

Sheriff W. T. Howard said an investigation indicated that Frank Hubbard, 57, who lived alone in an isolated rural home, bled to death from a leg wound inflicted by a single barrel shotgun he rigged inside a pantry door. A string was tied to the door so that anyone opening it would trigger the gun.

Hubbard's body was found Thursday by a neighbor in the hallway of his home. His left leg was nearly severed by the shotgun blast.

Dynamite Purchased By Air Disaster Victim

WASHINGTON (AP) — A troubled man who had talked of suicide bought a supply of dynamite shortly before boarding a plane which crashed and killed 45 persons, an FBI investigation has disclosed.

The FBI declined all comment on its report, but from other sources it was learned that findings of the investigation tended to confirm earlier reports that the plane was blasted out of the air by a passenger.

The Continental Airlines 707 jetliner fell in pieces over a wide area around Unionville, Mo., on May 22.

Thomas G. Doty, 34, of Kansas City, took out more than $300,000 of insurance payable to his wife before boarding the flight. He was described as despondent and as having told acquaintances a few days before the flight that he was planning to take his life rather than face criminal charges.

The FBI investigation also turned up a purchase of dynamite by Doty at a hardware store, and traces of dynamite were found by the FBI laboratory on parts of the crashed plane's tail section, it was reported.

Sources familiar with the FBI probe said no firm findings were made, but added that circumstancial evidence pointed strongly to both the means and the reasons for the crash. The FBI investigation was understood to be substantially complete.

Doty, a former divisional sales manager for a Kansas City cosmetics firm, was arrested in April on charges of armed robbery and carrying a concealed weapon. He reportedly had plans for a new business venture at the time of the crash.

Relatives said Doty and Mrs. Geneva Greenwood Fraley of Independence, Mo., were making the trip to Chicago in connection with a busines they planned to open.

Mrs. Fraley was reported planning to quit her job with a cosmetics concern to join Doty in an interior decorating and party goods firm. She was the only women passenger on the plane.

Monroe Morning World

Sunday, June 17

Solemnized Saturday, June 16 in Memorial Methodist church was the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Linda Kay Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Drew Anderson, 5601 DeSiard, and Roger Edward Reinhardt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Charles Reinhardt, 20 Deborah Drive. After a wedding trip to Colorado Springs, Colo., the couple will reside in Monroe.

In a setting of white stock and giant chrysanthemums against a background of cathedral tapers, Miss Sara Diane Ducote, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Landry Eustis Ducote, 2308 Jasmine, became the bride of Charles Robert Oster of New Orleans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milo Oster, Hobart, Okla., on Saturday, June 16 at 7 p.m. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. William Baldridge in Grace Episcopal Church.

Mrs. Thomas Edwin Davis, prior to her marriage Friday, June 15 in First Baptist Church of Monroe, was Miss Selma Sue Corbin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Allan Corbin, 3405 Richmond St., Monroe. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Elmon Davis, 305 Arlington Place, West Monroe. The couple is presently attending Northeast Louisiana State College and will reside in West Monroe.

MRS. THOMAS BUCKNER GUILBERT JR.

Guilbert-Crawford Vows Read In Baptist Church

First Baptist Church of Monroe, was scene of the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Carol Ann Crawford and Thomas Buckner Guilbert Jr., both of West Monroe, on Saturday, June 9 at 3 p.m. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. James Carroll Crawford, 404 North 7th, West Monroe, and Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Buckner Guilbert of Vicksburg, Miss.

An arch of greenery flanked by baskets of gladioli and fern and seven branched candelabra holding white tapers, formed a setting for the double ring vows read by Dr. James T. Horton.

Mrs. Jack White, organist, accompanied Mrs. Bobby O'Connor, as she sang "I Love Thee," "Song of Ruth," and "Wedding Prayer," and played traditional wedding marches.

BRIDE'S GOWN

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a full length gown of white silk organza, styled with chapel train and embellished with Alencon lace, around the short sleeves and scoop neckline. A large inverted pleat in front and back was accented by a bow. A queen's crown of pearls, featuring a drop pearl in each point held her elbow length veil of French silk illusion. She wore white wrist length gloves and carried a crescent bouquet of white roses.

Miss Sandra Simpson, maid of honor, wore a gown of seafoam aqua silk organza over taffeta, styled with cowl neckline, fitted bodice and full skirt, accented by a cummerbund in deep aqua shade. Her headdress was a matching tiara crown of pearls with a nose veil and she wore satin pumps to match and wrist length white gloves. Bridesmaids, Mrs. James W. Crawford, sister-in-law of the bride and Mrs. Gerald M. Critelli, sister of the bridegroom, and junior bridesmaids, Miss Kathie Guilbert, sister of the groom and Miss Susie Golson, cousin of the bride, were dressed identically to the honor attendant. All carried bouquets of pink roses in crescent design.

Donnie Barnes of Vicksburg, served as best man and grooms men-ushers were John Boa, Vicksburg; Phares Corder, Monroe, James W. Crawford, brother of the bride and Eddie Williams, Jackson, Miss.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony a reception was held in the church social room. Pink roses centered the bride's table with the tiered wedding cake and cut glass punch bowl at opposite ends. The bride's bouquet graced a white satin-covered table on which the bride's book was placed.

After a brief wedding trip the couple is at home at 405 Gulpha Drive in West Monroe. Mrs. Guilbert graduated from Neville high school and attended Mississippi Southern College and Northeast Louisiana State College. She was a member of Delta Beta Sigma. He is a member of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia honorary music fraternity.

MRS. WILLIAM RICHARD SMITH

Vows uniting Miss Artie May Wimberley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank F. Wimberley, 4422 Cypress, West Monroe, and William Richard Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Smith, 211 Hilton, West Monroe, were solemnized June 3 at 2 p.m. in Claiborne Methodist Church. Rev. T. A. Brown performed the ceremony.

A program of nuptial music was rendered by James G. Smith, soloist and John Ennis, organist, both with the music department of Louisiana Tech in Ruston.

The bride wore a floor length gown of white silk organza, fashioned with sweetheart neckline of Chantilly lace and billowing skirt extending into a chapel train. Appliques of lace followed a silk velvet band across the skirt coming to a low point in back with a bow. Her brief veil of illusion was held in place by a crown of blossoms and seed pearls. She carried a cascade bouquet of white roses. Mr. Wimberley gave his daughter in marriage.

Miss Billie Joiner, West Monroe, served as maid of honor and bridesmaids were Miss Linda Joiner, West Monroe and Miss Marilyn Robertson, Washington, D. C. They wore frocks of ice blue silk organza with blue satin trim and tiny satin bows on the bell shaped skirts and brief sleeves. Their headdresses were of blue satin and tulle and they carried cascade bouquets of blue fuji chrysanthemums.

Candles were lighted by Timmie Dodson, Shreveport and Billy Wimberley, West Monroe.

Steve Rodakis, Shreveport, attended Mr. Smith as best man and groomsmen were Gene Hilburn, Jackson, Miss., and Jack J. Smith, West Monroe, brother of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother wore a printed silk ensemble with corsage of roses and carnations and the bridegroom's mother wore a beige embroidered linen dress and a corsage of carnations.

A reception was held in the social hall of the church where the table was covered with a floor length white cloth and centered with an arrangement of gardenias and blue forget-me-nots, flanked by white tapers. Mrs. Lester Hammons and Mrs. A. A. Wallace served the cake and presiding at the punch bowl were Misses Chiri Crawford, Marilyn Frantom, Marilyn Roark and Debba Dodson.

For a wedding trip to Hot Springs, Ark., the bride changed into a green linen suit with white accessories and a corsage of white roses from her bouquet. Upon their return the couple will be at home in New Orleans, where Mr. Smith will enter L. S. U. Medical School in the fall.

Diane Ducote, Mr. Oster Exchange Wedding Vows

In a candlelight ceremony Saturday, June 16 in Grace Episcopal Church, Miss Sara Diane Ducote, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Landry Eustis Ducote, 2308 Jasmine, became the bride of Charles Robert Oster, of New Orleans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Milo Oster of Hobart, Oklahoma.

The Rev. William Baldridge performed the double ring vows at 7 p.m. in the presence of family members and close friends. Two massive arrangements of white stock and giant chrysanthemums against a background of tall brass candelabra holding cathedral tapers, formed a setting at the altar.

A concert of nuptial music was rendered by Allison Salley, organist and candles were lighted by Frederick Lutz, cousin of the bride.

BRIDE ENTERS

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father, who gave her in marriage. Her gown of silk organza over taffeta, was fashioned with taut bodice featuring short sleeves and scoop neckline appliqued in Point De Lyen lace embroidered in pearls and sequins. The applique motifs were repeated on the full skirt which swept into a chapel train. Her fingertip veil of illusion was held in place by a coronet of pearls and she carried a white prayer book covered with antique lace on which were white roses and stephanotis, showered with ribbon streamers.

Mrs. Stephen Nichols was matron of honor and only attendant for her sister. She wore a short gown of white organza over frothy pink taffeta, styled with fitted bodice, scoop neckline and belled skirt, accented by rows of embroidered beading threaded with pink ribbon. Completing her costume were a pink bandeau with brief veil and pink shoes and she carried a cascade of rose elf roses and miniature ivy.

Serving Mr. Oster as best man was Ronald Danos of New Orleans and usher was Rudolph Becker, New Orleans.

Mrs. Ducote chose for her daughter's wedding a pink starched lace sheath over taffeta with scalloped overblouse, matching shoes and bag and small pink veiled hat. Her corsage was of white orchids. Mrs. Oster, mother of the groom, wore a mauve lace sheath with matching jacket, small flower hat, bone accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Following the ceremony the bride's parents were hosts at a reception in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Allen, 2310 Jasmine. The bride's table was centered with a tiered wedding cake, adorned with yellow flowers and foliage and based with miniature ivy, white satin ribbon and maline. A five branch antique silver candelabra, garlanded with ivy was placed at one side of the cake. A massive arrangement of white Killian daisies in a cut glass bowl was used on the buffet.

Members of the house party for the reception were Mrs. W. J. Riley, Mrs. Louis Peters, Mrs. John Kelso and Mrs. Rudolph Becker. Misses Landrea Lee, Sharon Martin and Laura Allen passed rice bags.

For a wedding trip to Point Clear, Alabama, the bride was wearing an emerald green silk shantung dress and jacket with white and emerald accessories and an orchid corsage. The couple will reside at 2403 Camp Street in New Orleans.

MRS. JAMES THOMAS BAILEY

Bailey-Bird Vows Read In Candlelight Setting

Massive fan - shaped arrangements of white gladioli and myriad tapers banked the altar of the First Baptist Church in West Monroe, for the wedding Saturday, June 16 of Miss Linda Kay Bird and James Thomas Bailey. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bird Sr., of West Monroe and Mr. and Mrs. James A. Bailey of Monroe. English ivy garlanded the chancel rail to complete the setting for the double ring vows at 6 p.m. read by Rev. A. L. New.

Sandy Lawn, organist, presented a program of nuptial music and accompanied W. J. Denton as he sang "Because" and "Wedding Prayer." Candles were lighted by Ricky Bird, brother of the bride and Allan Harrison.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of imported white silk organza over taffeta. The Sabrina neckline was embellished with appliques of rosepoint reembroidered Alencon lace, which outlined the bodice and continued on the skirt. Long sleeves tapered to lily points over the hands, and soft pleats fell from back of the gown into a chapel train. A coronet of seed pearls and iridescents held her short bouffant tulle veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis and white feathered chrysanthemums.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Gail Dyer was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Misses Donna Moore, Charlotte Shaver, Betty Swink and Judy Cathey. Miss Dyer wore cornflower blue and the bridesmaids were in powder blue frocks of silk organza over taffeta, styled with sweetheart necklines, fitted bodices and full skirts. Their headpieces were of blue leaf applique and seed pearls with back veils and they wore slippers of matching blue silk shantung and single strands of pearls with matching earrings, gift of the bride. They carried cascade arrangements of blue pompom chrysantheumums, stephanotis and blue satin ribbons.

Flower girls, Miss Jamie Simpson and Miss Sandra Hendry also wore blue ensembles and carried miniature bouquets identical to those of the bridesmaids, further carrying out the blue theme of the wedding. Randy Bird, brother of the bride, served as ring bearer.

Duke Hart attended the bridegroom as best man and groomsmen were Raymond Agnew, Robert Calvert, Thomas Kirkham and Richard Whitehead with Royce Bird Jr., as junior groomsman.

Mrs. Bird wore a beige lace sheath, small beige straw and tulle cloche and an orchid corsage. The groom's mother wore a misty turquoise model of lace and peau de soie, small hat of turquoise blossoms, and an orchid corsage.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony the bride's parents were hosts at a reception at the Highland Park Country Club. The bride's table covered in white floor length net, held a tiered wedding cake, trimmed with pale blue forget-me-nots, opposite the crystal punch service. A massive arrangement of white stock and pompons centered the table flanked by tall, slender white tapers.

Members of the house party were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bird, Mr. and Mrs. Royce Bird, Mr. and Mrs. Glendon A. Bryan, aunts and uncles of the bride and groom; and Mrs. Eva Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Roy B. Bird, grandparents of the bride and Mrs. T. J. Oakley, grandmother of the groom.

Miss Pat Fulton and Miss Judy Roth alternated at the punch service and the cake was served by Miss Charlotte Overton and Miss Hazel Hoben. Tea girls were Misses Marilyn Roark, Janet Gorley, Ann Reinhardt and Beth Bradshaw. Mrs. Ronald Bennett presided at the bride's book at a table graced with a bridal candle, encircled with white pompoms and wedding bells.

When the couple left for a wedding trip the bride was wearing a blue silk linen dress, white organza cloche and blue shoes and bag with the corsage from her bouquet. Upon their return the couple will be at home on Lakeshore Drive in Monroe. Mrs. Bailey is a graduate of West Monroe high school and is employed in Monroe. Mr. Bailey, a graduate of Neville high school, is a senior at Northeast Louisiana State College, where he is a member of Phi Sigma Epsilon.

"Black Diamonds"

When the word "Perigueux" appears on a French menu, it means the dish is prepared with truffles. These "black diamonds" of the fungus family grow wild in France, under oak trees. Canned French truffles are now available in all fancy food shops.

Miss Anderson Becomes Bride Of Roger Reinhardt

In a candlelight ceremony Saturday, June 16 in Memorial Methodist Church, Miss Linda Kay Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Drew Anderson, 5601 DeSiard, became the bride of Roger Edward Reinhardt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Reinhardt, 20 Deborah Drive.

Rev. Loyd Williams performed the nuptials at 7:30 p.m. in a setting of English ivy and palms, flanked by massive arrangements of white gladioli, iris, stock and daisies. Candelabra and candle trees holding white tapers and prie dieu completed the scene.

Mrs. Irene Nelson, organist, accompanied Mrs. Joe Caskey, as she sang "The Lord's Prayer," "O Promise Me," "At Dawning," and "Be Now Mine Own."

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a floor length gown of white silk peau de soie. The empire bodice, appliqued in rosepoint reembroidered Alencon lace, was fashioned with scalloped Sabrina neckline and brief sleeves. Gathered at the side of a draped bias midriff were box pleats which formed a semi - belled skirt. An obi sash encircled the waist caught at the back with a Bagoda rose from which four streamers fell into a chapel train. Her bouffant fingertip veil of imported silk illusion was attached to a small pill box of Alencon lace, embroidered with pearls and iridesdent sequins. She carried a white cattleya orchid in a nosegay of white bridal roses, fleur d'amour, stephanotis and white satin streamers. She wore pearl earrings and a double strand of pearls belonging to her maternal grandmother.

ATTENDANTS

Mrs. Keith Amos, sister of the bridegroom, served as matron of honor. She wore a gown of turquoise silk organza, fashioned with a semi - belled skirt. The fitted bodice with scalloped neckline and brief sleeves was overlaid with reembroidered Alencon lace. She wore matching satin slippers and her headpiece was a single turquoise organza rose encircled by petals of Alencon lace and organza. Dressed identically to the honor attendant in three shades of turquoise were the bridesmaids Miss Marretta Heidenreich, Miss Pat Bassett, Miss Jody Biedenharn, Miss Carol Jean Cahn and Miss Judy Fairchild. They all carried nosegays of petal pink roses and white pompons.

Candelighters were Miss Joy Humble and Miss Joan Humble cousins of the bride, who wore identical dresses of petal pink silk organza with voile lace boleros. Streamers from a crushed cummerbund fell to the hem of the semi - belled skirts. Their wrist corsages were of petal pink roses and white carnations.

Serving as best man was Keith Amos. Groomsmen - ushers were Dick Ethridge, E. Guy Coats, Dix Johnson Hank Biedenharn and Taylor Heard.

The church social room was scene of the reception which followed. The serving table, covered with an organdy cloth held a central arrangement of white gladioli, daisies and stock, flanked by silver candelabra. Silver punch bowls at either end were presided over by Mrs. J. Parker Humble Sr. and Mrs. L. J. Bower, aunts of the bride. The bride's table, overlaid with a cloth of organdy and net, held the tiered wedding cake, encircled with the bridesmaids' bouquets. Serving cake were Mrs. Woodrow Hathorn and Mrs. Victor Boyd. Mrs. Julius Haddad Jr., presided at the guest book on a table graced with a memory candle. Others assisting were Mrs. George D. Mullins, Miss Doll Burgoyne, Miss Dee Chapman, Miss Judy Cobb and Miss Molly Shelton. Rice bags were distributed on silver trays by Miss Sharon Boyd.

For a wedding trip to Colorado Springs, Colo., the bride traveled in a turquoise raw silk walking suit with white leather accessories, white pillbox and white orchid corsage. They will be at home in Monroe where both will attend Northeast Louisiana State College.

MRS. BOBBY RAY MARTIN

Martin-Milby Nuptials Read By Candlelight

Miss Dixie Nel Milby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. D. Milby, Rayville, became the bride of Bobby Ray Martin, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. O. Martin, Rayville, in a double ring ceremony performed June 8 at 7:30 p.m. in East Side Baptist Church.

Rev. Leslie Farrar officiated in a background of greenery flanked by candelabra holding white tapers and baskets of white gladioli. Miss Ellanor Parker, organist, accompanied Richard Rockett, who sang "O Promise Me" and "The Lord's Prayer."

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a floor length gown of white silk organza. The fitted bodice with scalloped neckline was overlaid with Chantilly lace, embellished with crystals and pearls, and long sleeves of organza formed points over the wrists. Chantilly lace banded the bouffant skirt which ended in a chapel train. Her veil of illusion cascaded from a queen's crown of crystals and pearls and she carried a white orchid, encircled by stephanotis atop a white Bible.

Miss Polly Burroughs, maid of honor, wore a Nile green dress of slipper satin with jacket of Chantilly lace. Her headdress was a shoulder length prayer veil and she carried a bouquet of pale yellow feathered carnations and English ivy. Miss Sheila Stevenson and Miss Patsy Martin, bridesmaids, were dressed identically to the honor attendant.

Serving as best man was Ray Dannehl and ushers were Donald Milby and Delwyn Peters.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. D. C. Abrams. Mrs. Louis Richardson and Miss Evon Egans served the cake and Miss Ann Owens presided at the punch bowl. Mrs. Percell Green Jr. had charge of the guest book.

MRS. JAMES THOMAS BAILEY

Bailey-Bird Vows Read In Candlelight Setting

Massive fan - shaped arrangements of white gladioli and myriad tapers banked the altar of the First Baptist Church in West Monroe, for the wedding Saturday, June 16 of Miss Linda Kay Bird and James Thomas Bailey. Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Bird Sr., of West Monroe and Mr. and Mrs. James A. Bailey of Monroe. English ivy garlanded the chancel rail to complete the setting for the double ring vows at 6 p.m. read by Rev. A. L. New.

Sandy Lawn, organist, presented a program of nuptial music and accompanied W. J. Denton as he sang "Because" and "Wedding Prayer." Candles were lighted by Ricky Bird, brother of the bride and Allan Harrison.

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a gown of imported white silk organza over taffeta. The Sabrina neckline was embellished with appliques of rosepoint reembroidered Alencon lace, which outlined the bodice and continued on the skirt. Long sleeves tapered to lily points over the hands, and soft pleats fell from back of the gown into a chapel train. A coronet of seed pearls and iridescents held her short bouffant tulle veil and she carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis and white feathered chrysanthemums.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Gail Dyer was maid of honor and bridesmaids were Misses Donna Moore, Charlotte Shaver, Betty Swink and Judy Cathey. Miss Dyer wore cornflower blue and the bridesmaids were in powder blue frocks of silk organza over taffeta, styled with sweetheart necklines, fitted bodices and full skirts. Their headpieces were of blue leaf applique and seed pearls with back veils and they wore slippers of matching blue silk shantung and single strands of pearls with matching earrings, gift of the bride. They carried cascade arrangements of blue pompom chrysantheumums, stephanotis and blue satin ribbons.

Flower girls, Miss Jamie Simpson and Miss Sandra Hendry also wore blue ensembles and carried miniature bouquets identical to those of the bridesmaids, further carrying out the blue theme of the wedding. Randy Bird, brother of the bride, served as ring bearer.

Duke Hart attended the bridegroom as best man and groomsmen were Raymond Agnew, Robert Calvert, Thomas Kirkham and Richard Whitehead with Royce Bird Jr., as junior groomsman.

Mrs. Bird wore a beige lace sheath, small beige straw and tulle cloche and an orchid corsage. The groom's mother wore a misty turquoise model of lace and peau de soie, small hat of turquoise blossoms, and an orchid corsage.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony the bride's parents were hosts at a reception at the Highland Park Country Club. The bride's table covered in white floor length net, held a tiered wedding cake, trimmed with pale blue forget-me-nots, opposite the crystal punch service. A massive arrangement of white stock and pompons centered the table flanked by tall, slender white tapers.

Members of the house party were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Bird, Mr. and Mrs. Royce Bird, Mr. and Mrs. Glendon A. Bryan, aunts and uncles of the bride and groom; and Mrs. Eva Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Roy B. Bird, grandparents of the bride and Mrs. T. J. Oakley, grandmother of the groom.

Miss Pat Fulton and Miss Judy Roth alternated at the punch service and the cake was served by Miss Charlotte Overton and Miss Hazel Hoben. Tea girls were Misses Marilyn Roark, Janet Gorley, Ann Reinhardt and Beth Bradshaw. Mrs. Ronald Bennett presided at the bride's book at a table graced with a bridal candle, encircled with white pompoms and wedding bells.

When the couple left for a wedding trip the bride was wearing a blue silk linen dress, white organza cloche and blue shoes and bag with the corsage from her bouquet. Upon their return the couple will be at home on Lakeshore Drive in Monroe. Mrs. Bailey is a graduate of West Monroe high school and is employed in Monroe. Mr. Bailey, a graduate of Neville high school, is a senior at Northeast Louisiana State College, where he is a member of Phi Sigma Epsilon.

"Black Diamonds"

When the word "Perigueux" appears on a French menu, it means the dish is prepared with truffles. These "black diamonds" of the fungus family grow wild in France, under oak trees. Canned French truffles are now available in all fancy food shops.

Miss Anderson Becomes Bride Of Roger Reinhardt

In a candlelight ceremony Saturday, June 16 in Memorial Methodist Church, Miss Linda Kay Anderson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Drew Anderson, 5601 DeSiard, became the bride of Roger Edward Reinhardt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Reinhardt, 20 Deborah Drive.

Rev. Loyd Williams performed the nuptials at 7:30 p.m. in a setting of English ivy and palms, flanked by massive arrangements of white gladioli, iris, stock and daisies. Candelabra and candle trees holding white tapers and prie dieu completed the scene.

Mrs. Irene Nelson, organist, accompanied Mrs. Joe Caskey, as she sang "The Lord's Prayer," "O Promise Me," "At Dawning," and "Be Now Mine Own."

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a floor length gown of white silk peau de soie. The empire bodice, appliqued in rosepoint reembroidered Alencon lace, was fashioned with scalloped Sabrina neckline and brief sleeves. Gathered at the side of a draped bias midriff were box pleats which formed a semi - belled skirt. An obi sash encircled the waist caught at the back with a Bagoda rose from which four streamers fell into a chapel train. Her bouffant fingertip veil of imported silk illusion was attached to a small pill box of Alencon lace, embroidered with pearls and iridesdent sequins. She carried a white cattleya orchid in a nosegay of white bridal roses, fleur d'amour, stephanotis and white satin streamers. She wore pearl earrings and a double strand of pearls belonging to her maternal grandmother.

ATTENDANTS

Mrs. Keith Amos, sister of the bridegroom, served as matron of honor. She wore a gown of turquoise silk organza, fashioned with a semi - belled skirt. The fitted bodice with scalloped neckline and brief sleeves was overlaid with reembroidered Alencon lace. She wore matching satin slippers and her headpiece was a single turquoise organza rose encircled by petals of Alencon lace and organza. Dressed identically to the honor attendant in three shades of turquoise were the bridesmaids Miss Marretta Heidenreich, Miss Pat Bassett, Miss Jody Biedenharn, Miss Carol Jean Cahn and Miss Judy Fairchild. They all carried nosegays of petal pink roses and white pompons.

Candelighters were Miss Joy Humble and Miss Joan Humble cousins of the bride, who wore identical dresses of petal pink silk organza with voile lace boleros. Streamers from a crushed cummerbund fell to the hem of the semi - belled skirts. Their wrist corsages were of petal pink roses and white carnations.

Serving as best man was Keith Amos. Groomsmen - ushers were Dick Ethridge, E. Guy Coats, Dix Johnson Hank Biedenharn and Taylor Heard.

Gloria Cummings Weds Billy Hearne Saturday

Solemnized Saturday, June 17 in Stone Avenue Methodist Church was the wedding of Miss Gloria Jannette Cummings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Cummings Sr., 311 Holly St., to Billy Morris Hearne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris B. Hearne, 1607 College Ave. Rev. Isaac A. Patton performed the double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m.

Miss Rosemary Sones, organist, accompanied Mrs. P. L. Foreman, as she sang "The Twelfth of Never," and "The Lord's Prayer," and played traditional wedding selections.

BRIDE'S GOWN

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a waltz length gown of white silk organza over taffeta, with bodice of Chantilly lace styled with scalloped neckline outlined with seed pearls and sequins. Appliques of the lace embellished the skirt and her veil of illusion was attached to a lace crown, embossed with seed pearls. White lace mitts completed her ensemble.

Miss Shirley Ann Gordy, who served as maid of honor, wore a pink cotton satin dress with overskirt of silk organza. Her accessories were white and she carried a crescent bouquet of white gladioli florets.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the home of Mrs. Earl Price, 3801 Lee Avenue, where spring flowers decorated the reception area. The table which held the tiered wedding cake and punch bowl was covered with an ecru lace cloth. Mrs. C. L. Hinton Jr. served the cake and Mrs. George Douglas presided at the punch bowl. Miss Karen Donaldson presided at the bride's book on a table graced with a memory candle.

For a wedding trip to Hot Springs, Ark., the bride was wearing a trousseau model embroidered sheath with bone accessories and an orchid corsage. Upon their return the couple will be at home in West Monroe. Both are graduates of Ouachita Parish high school and Mr. Hearne will graduate in August from Northeast Louisiana State College.

Pyramid Plants For Patio Decor

For patio decoration, try gay plants in clay pots arranged in pyramid fashion.

Start with a large dracaena in a 12-inch clay pot and surround it with vivid lantana in 6-inch pots, placing them in a circle around the large pot—or, if your decoration is to be used to enhance a wall, in a semicircle.

Gloria Cummings Weds Billy Hearne Saturday

Solemnized Saturday, June 17 in Stone Avenue Methodist Church was the wedding of Miss Gloria Jannette Cummings, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. F. Cummings Sr., 311 Holly St., to Billy Morris Hearne, son of Mr. and Mrs. Morris B. Hearne, 1607 College Ave. Rev. Isaac A. Patton performed the double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m.

Miss Rosemary Sones, organist, accompanied Mrs. P. L. Foreman, as she sang "The Twelfth of Never," and "The Lord's Prayer," and played traditional wedding selections.

BRIDE'S GOWN

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a waltz length gown of white silk organza over taffeta, with bodice of Chantilly lace styled with scalloped neckline outlined with seed pearls and sequins. Appliques of the lace embellished the skirt and her veil of illusion was attached to a lace crown, embossed with seed pearls. White lace mitts completed her ensemble.

Miss Shirley Ann Gordy, who served as maid of honor, wore a pink cotton satin dress with overskirt of silk organza. Her accessories were white and she carried a crescent bouquet of white gladioli florets.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the home of Mrs. Earl Price, 3801 Lee Avenue, where spring flowers decorated the reception area. The table which held the tiered wedding cake and punch bowl was covered with an ecru lace cloth. Mrs. C. L. Hinton Jr. served the cake and Mrs. George Douglas presided at the punch bowl. Miss Karen Donaldson presided at the bride's book on a table graced with a memory candle.

For a wedding trip to Hot Springs, Ark., the bride was wearing a trousseau model embroidered sheath with bone accessories and an orchid corsage. Upon their return the couple will be at home in West Monroe. Both are graduates of Ouachita Parish high school and Mr. Hearne will graduate in August from Northeast Louisiana State College.

Pyramid Plants For Patio Decor

For patio decoration, try gay plants in clay pots arranged in pyramid fashion.

Start with a large dracaena in a 12-inch clay pot and surround it with vivid lantana in 6-inch pots, placing them in a circle around the large pot—or, if your decoration is to be used to enhance a wall, in a semicircle.

Next, place another circle or semicircle of 4-inch pots holding white alyssum around the pots of lantana.

MRS. JAMES CARROLL FOURMY, whose marriage to the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Underwood Fourmy, Monroe, was solemnized Monday, June 4 in Crossett, Ark., is the former Miss Sandra Clifteen Lee, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Turner Clifton Lee of West Monroe. Vows were read by Rev. C. M. Atchley in the First Methodist Church of Crossett.

MRS. JERRY VANCE ROCKETT

Miss Haughton Becomes Bride Of Jerry V. Rockett

Miss Sandra Rochelle Haughton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Haughton, El Dorado, Arkansas, became the bride of Jerry Vance Rockett, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Rockett of Farmerville, on June 2 at 7 p.m. in East Main Baptist Church at El Dorado.

Rev. Rhine McMurry performed the ceremony before the altar which was banked with baskets of white gladioli, two 10-branched candelabra and greenry around a white prayer bench.

Mrs. Tom Bowman, pianist and Miss Phyllis Marie Owen, soloist, presented a program of nuptial music including "Because," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballerina length gown of white lace, with tiny seed pearls outlining the scalloped neckline. The bouffant skirt with scalloped hemline featured insert panels of net. Her brief veil of illusion was attached to a pearl crown and she carried a bouquet of white orchids and white carnations. For ornament she wore a strand of pearls, a gift of the bridegroom.

Miss Wilma Shockley, maid of honor, wore a short dress of pink polished cotton with matching organdy overskirt, and a hat in veiled effect and matching gloves. Completing her costume were pink slippers and a pearl necklace, a gift of the bride. She carried a crescent bouquet of pink carnations and white gladioli. Bridesmaids were Miss Martha Ann Cottrell and Miss Evelyn Dearman, who wore dresses identical to that of the honor attendant in lighter shade of pink.

Kenneth Wayne Rockett, attended his brother as best man and ushers were James Pepper and Don Appel, cousin of the bridegroom, from Monroe. Candles were lighted by Larry Pattings.

The bride's mother wore a beige lace dress with matching accessories and a white carnation corsage. The mother of the bridegroom wore a blue eyelet dress, white accessories and a corsage of pink carnations.

A reception followed in the church social rooms where the bride's table was covered with a white organdy cloth over pink linen, centered with silver candelabra and white tapers. The silver punch bowl and tiered wedding cake were served from opposite ends.

Mr. Rockett graduated from Louisiana Polytechnic Institute May 28 with a B. S. degree in Forestry. He is employed by U. S. Forest Service, Southern Division, with field of operation to be in North Carolina. The couple plans to visit points of interest enroute to New Bern, N. C. where they will reside. For travel the bride wore an olive green tweed suit dress, white accessories and a white orchid corsage.

Chiffon Returns To Fashion Fore

Need the mother of the bride (or groom) be confined to the lace dress in perennial powder blue or pink? Not if she's willing to look a little further for chiffon.

The return of chiffon to fashion has brought out many pretty print in styles suitable not only for the wedding but for other dress-up occasions. Nor need the chiffon be confined to summer. Chiffon is now an all-year fabric, even in bright floral prints.

The softness of chiffon makes it ideal for mature figures, which ought not to be over emphasized by the sharp lines of sheaths. Gored, pleated or gently flared skirts look best.

Choose the chiffon with sleeves and fairly high or collared V-neckline.

Jesus The Good Shepherd Church Scene Of Wedding

Jesuss the Good Shepherd Church was scene of the ceremony Saturday, June 16 at 11 a.m. which united in marriage Miss Cora Ann Theriot and Airman First Class Arnold Oland Worster. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Albert C. Theriot, 2510 Chaucer, Monroe, and Mr. Worster is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Francis Kimball of Lincoln Center, Maine.

The Rev. Dave Dabria officiated at the double ring vows. On the main altar were two large arrangements of white gladioli and Shasta daisies.

Mrs. Sam Lasuzzo, organist and Charles Hiller of Opelousas, presented a program of nuptial music including "Mother Beloved," and "Panis Angelicus."

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a long sheath dress of peau de soie with full cathedral train, outlined with scalloped appliqued lace, encrusted with sequins and crystals. The bodice with sweetheart neckline was also appliqued with lace and her veil of illusion was held by a small pillbox hat of lace, sequins and crystal beads. She carried a single white orchid on her lace - covered prayer book.

Miss Ronnie Hervey, maid of honor; Mrs. Albert Roy Theriot, matron of honor and bridesmaids, Miss Charlene Shanas, Miss Fay Faraci and Miss Anita Moore, wore mint green sheaths of brocade taffeta with matching pillbox hats and white accessories. They carried crescent bouquets of white daisies with green ribbons.

Serving as best man was Albert Roy Theriot and groomsmen included Freddie Theriot, Sam Lasuzzo III, Earl Theriot and Hubert Briley.

RECEPTION

Following the ceremony a reception was held in Good Shepherd school cafeteria. A round table, overlaid with a mint green cloth and net held the tiered wedding cake. The refreshment table was also covered in green and centered with an arrangement of white roses and stock. At either end were crystal punch bowls presided over by Mrs. Mary Hervey and Mrs. Theo Herr. Mrs. Paul Goldman and Mrs. Leo Hidalgo served the cake and Miss Barbara Hiller presided at the guest book. Others assisting in serving were Mrs. Charles Hiller, Mrs. Louis Elias and Mrs. James Kirby.

For travel when the couple left on a short wedding trip the bride wore a green silk linen ensemble with white accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. Airman Worster will be on temporary duty at Goodfellow Air Force Base, San Angelo, Texas and after September they will be stationed at Taipei, Formosa for a period of 15 months.

Double Ring Vows Unite Sue Corbin, Mr. Davis

Miss Selma Sue Corbin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Allan Corbin, 3405 Richmand St., Monroe, became the bride of Thomas Edwin Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Elmon Davis, 305 Arlington Place, West Monroe, Friday, June 15. The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. James T. Horton in First Baptist Church of Monroe, at 7 p.m.

English ivy and palms, flanked by arrangements of white gladioli were banked above the chancel and formed a background for the vows. Myriad tapers in spiral candelabra were placed among the greenery.

Mrs. Cora Lee White, organist, accompanied Miss Mary Coon as she sang "Because," and "Wedding Prayer," and played traditional wedding selections.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown of antique taffeta which featured a sculptured neckline and basque bodice fell into a bouffant bell silhouette, with the skirt extending into a modified cathedral train. It was embellished with peau d'ange lace and two large white roses added back interest. Long sleeves came to petal points over the hands. Her tiered veil of silk illusion fell fingertip length from a large white rose of taffeta and sprays of lily of the valley. She carried a bouquet of white fleur d'amour centered with a white orchid, atop a white Bible.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Marilyn Ann Corbin, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a gown of tangerine iridescent taffeta, styled with fitted bodice featuring a scoop neckline and brief sleeves with a full gathered skirt. Two hand - rolled roses of self - material with a brief face veil formed her headdress and she wore matching short white gloves. She wore a drop pearl necklace, a gift from the bride and carried two long stemmed talisman roses. Bridesmaids, Mrs. James Roan, Bastrop, cousin of the bride, Miss Katherine McNeer, Miss Patsy Williams and Miss Julia Ann Reagan, Monroe, were dressed identical to the honor attendant with headdresses of a single rose and each carried one long stemmed talisman rose.

Miss Debra Newkirk, flower girl, was also dressed like the other attendants. Candlelighters were Charles Hill and Donald Crawford Corbin, brother of the bride.

RECEPTION

The tables in the reception room were covered in floor length white satin cloths. An arrangement of white stock, gladioli and carnation centered the punch table and the bride's bouquet was placed on the round table which held the wedding cake. Mrs. George Smith presided at the guest book table graced with a memory candle. Mrs. A. W. Newkirk and Mrs. C. A. Hill served the wedding cake and Mrs. Warren Barr and Mrs. Jacob Norman Coon Jr. presided at the punch bowls. Tea girls were Misses Dot Rambin, Mary Louise Tolar and Carol McKeithen and rice bags were distributed by Miss Susan Soureal.

For a wedding trip to Hot Springs, Ark., the bride changed into a coral linen jacket ensemble with white accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. Upon their return the couple will be at home in West Monroe. Both are graduates of Ouachita Parish High School and are presently attending Northeast Lousiana Louisiana State College.

Exciting Fashion

Predictions for fashion excitement are centered on the use of flattering jabots, ruffles down the front of dresses, ruffles at sleeve edgings, in the discreet yet exhilarating use of beads, glitter and trims on daytime as well as date-time fashions.

This week's calendar has been filled with parties for guests from out of town. Former Monroyans "back home" for a visit always inspire a whirl of gaiety. One of the lovliest of summer morning parties was given last Friday in the home of DOROTHY SHOLARS, honoring her granddaughters, SATCHIE COOPER (MRS. C. M.) DOLAN of Eagle Pass, Texas; and CHARLOTTE COOPER (MRS. JAMES P.) WOOD of Troy, Alabama. SATCHIE NAIDEN was co - hostess.

A pyramid of blue and green hydrangeas centered the dining table, where MARGERY NICHOL of Ruston and MARY DURRETT offered guests a choice of iced tea or cola drinks. ANNIE LAURIE BREARD assisted with the courtesies. Goodies included cucumber and chicken salad sandwiches, sand tarts, fudge or lemon squares, and caramel kisses.

Daisies and yellow day lilies were used in a copper bowl on a table in the sitting room overlooking the patio. Sliding glass doors opened onto a brick terrace, festive with hydrangeas on white wrought iron stands. Weather prohibited use of the garden, but 'twas a feast for the eyes nevertheless.

Satchie and Charlotte have been honored at a number of informal parties this week. On Tuesday, DOROTHEA GARRETT and BENNIE ABELL were hostesses for luncheon in the Garrett home. Yellow and white flowers, including Shasta daisies, daylilies, and yellow chrysanthemums were used throughout the reception suite. Guests were seated at two tables for six. The menu included shrimp salad in avocado, and for dessert, homemade cookies with ice cream and a choice of homemade sauces.

On Wednesday, KATIE MAE THORNHILL was hostess for lunch, and on Thursday, the visitors spent the day in Ruston . . . Friday afternoon, about twenty old friends of the guests were invited for an afternoon in the country, at the home of POLLY MILNER. VYVIAN FRAZIER was co - hostess. 'Twas a sit-and-chat party affording an opportunity for a visit with Satchie and Charlotte. Refreshments including punch and assorted dainties were served from a summery table decorated with daisies and daylilies.

Another guest who has been the inspiration for several parties this week has been BABS ERICKSON of Window Rock, Arizona. A former resident of this area, Babs was the housegueast of the THOMAS LEIGHS from Sunday until Thursday. On Monday at noon, CLARISSA SHERROUSE was hostess at luncheon honoring Babs and MRS. A. E. ELLIOTT of New Orleans.

Nine guests gathered in the Riverside Drive home of HILDA M'DONALD for luncheon with Babs on Tuesday. The hostess centered her table with brass scales holding magnolias and daylilies. The menu included such unusual delights as home-stuffed crab, avocado - cucumber mousse, and tomatoes filled with ham. Dessert was strawberry pie.

On Monday evening, CHICK and BUD LEWIS entertained at a dinner party for Babs. . . . LOUISE THEUS was hostess for a small luncheon at Bayou DeSiard Country Club on Wednesday . . . That afternoon, Babs and Louise and a few friends called at the home of MARY BUCKNER for a conversational hour . . . the TOMMY FRAZIERS and the HILLYER PARKERS were hosts for dinner that evening . . . Babs left for Arizona on Thursday.

ANN (MRS. JOHN) NOEL was in town this week visiting her mother SARA SHAFTO and grandmother, MRS. E. L. NEVILLE. Ann was en route from Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, where the Noels have been living, to her new home in Houston, Texas.

Honoring DIANE DUCOTE, whose marriage to CHARLES OSTER was last night, LYDIA NICHOLS and her daughter, AMALIE GAINES, entertained with a dessert bridge at Bayou DeSiard Country Club last Friday afternoon. At one end of the private dining room, a white wicker arbor wreathed with Fuji mums and fern stood on a small table. Wedding bells swung in the arch, with miniature bride and groom figures standing below. Coffee pie was served to sixteen guests before the bridge games.

Off to Europe is LEIGH RUSSELL, who leaves the first of the week for New York. She will sail June 21 on the Sylvania, going first to the British Isles, and then on a tour of the Continent. She plans to end her trip abroad with a visit to relatives in Germany, and will be home in September.

Popular bride - elect MALISE MAPP, whose marriage to ED RUSSELL will be a social event in July, was named guest of honor at a luncheon party given Wednesday by KITTY TALBOT. A pink theme was carried out in decorations in the private dining room at Bayou DeSiard Country Club. Pink gladioli and vermelia centered the pink - covered table. Place cards decorated with wedding rings tied with lilies of the valley marked places for ten guests.

Just a week after they moved into their new home on Pargoud boulevard, the HEWITT JOHNSONS were surprised with a housewarming last Friday night. Elder son DON talked his parents into going out for dinner, leaving the coast clear for a group of friends to gather and await their return. These "guests" brought a complete party, with refreshments of sandwiches, dips, iced cakes; and house gifts including luau torches to light the garden.

Terrazzo floors the family room, which is panelled with walnut on three walls. The fourth wall is of glass panels and sliding doors overlooking the patio and bayou bank beyond. Draperies of rough weave natural linen draw across the entire wall. A pair of turquoise blue sofas face this lovely view. Behind the sofas, and built into the panelling are cabinets for television, stereo, books, and a built in desk. . . . The kitchen beyond is separated from the family room by a peninsula of cabinets, also in walnut, with folding shutters above. White Formica counters and brown fixtures are used with the walnut . . . In an angle formed by the kitchen and carport is the utility area, including a complete bath with outside entrance so that swimmers and water skiiers may change without tracking through the house.

In the bedroom wing, the master bedroom at the front of the house is done entirely in bone white, with silk draperies etched with sprays of Oriental flowers. There are three double - doored closets in this room. The aqua and white tiled bath doubles as a dressing room with dozens of built-in drawers and a wall of mirror.

Three large closets (two of cedar) line the bedroom hall. Son NEAL'S room, used vivid red spreads and draperies with flag blue geometric print on white. Don's room, with its view of the bayou and door opening onto the patio, has white draperies printed in shades of blues and aqua. Each boy's room has an entire wall filled with closet, drawers to the ceiling, and a built-in desk.

At this time of year, family thoughts turn to a picnic. And here is Ethel Jacobson's description of "Beach Picnic":

The outing was really
A lulu, a dilly.
The fog was dense
And dank and chilly
But everyone tanned—
To third-degree burns—
And the kiddies fell over
The cliff by turns.

The hampers were bulging,
The menu faultless,
Though salads were sandy
And sandwiches saltless

Some cutup went swimming
With Mother's new hat on.
And Gladys was nipped
By a crab that she sat on.

And then when the rains came—
They're sudden, you know—
We found all our things
As we started to go
Except Grandma's teeth,
Bill's swimming fins,
The keys to the car
And one of the twins.

MR. AND MRS. RONALD LEE WYATT

Miss McAllister Is Bride Of Ronald Wyatt

Baskets of white gladioli adorned the altar of Jackson Street Church of Christ for the wedding of Miss Ida Nell McAllister and Ronald Lee Wyatt, which was solemnized June 2 at 2 p.m., with E. C. McKenzie, pastor, officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. P. McAllister of Swartz and Mr. Wyatt is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Wyatt of Monroe.

Given in marriage by her brother, G. P. McAllister Jr., the bride wore a gown of white silk organza, accented with lace and pearl trim. A pearl tiara held her shoulder length veil and she carried a bouquet of white carnations atop a white Bible.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. W. D. Kuhn and Mrs. G. O. Wyatt, who wore mint green embroidered dresses with mint green chiffon overskirts, and headdresses to match. They carried bouquets of white carnations with yellow and white streamers.

Serving as best man was G. O. Wyatt and ushers were W. D. Kuhn and Richard Strother.

The bride's mother wore an aqua blue silk organza dress with black patent accessories and a white carnation corsage. The groom's mother chose a beige eyelet embroidered dress with bone accessories and yellow carnation corsage.

A reception was held in the church following the ceremony with the green and white theme carried out. White carnations centered the lace-covered bride's table from which mint green punch and the wedding cake were served.

For a wedding trip to Rockaway Beach, Missouri, the bride was wearing a yellow and white ensemble and a white carnation corsage. The couple will make their home in Swartz. Both are graduates of Ouachita Parish High School and attended Northeast Louisiana State College.

Sport Coats Lead Varied Fashion Life

The sport coat has become almost a summer uniform to millions of men and this broad acceptance has brought about some radical changes in sport coat styling.

Originally the sport coat was a casual garment worn only on the most informal occasions. Today sport coats and slacks are worn for almost any occasion short of business and formal events and are styled in a wide range of colors, patterns, fabrics and weights for all occasions, designers point out.

Double Ring Vows Unite Sue Corbin, Mr. Davis

Miss Selma Sue Corbin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Allan Corbin, 3405 Richmand St., Monroe, became the bride of Thomas Edwin Davis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Elmon Davis, 305 Arlington Place, West Monroe, Friday, June 15, The double ring ceremony was performed by Rev. James T. Horton in First Baptist Church of Monroe, at 7 p.m.

English ivy and palms, flanked by arrangements of white gladioli were banked above the chancel and formed a background for the vows. Myriad tapers in spiral candelabra were placed among the greenery.

Mrs. Cora Lee White, organist, accompanied Miss Mary Coon as she sang "Because," and "Wedding Prayer," and played traditional wedding selections.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown of antique taffeta which featured a sculptured neckline and basque bodice fell into a bouffant bell silhouette, with the skirt extending into a modified cathedral train. It was embellished with peau d'ange lace and two large white roses added back interest. Long sleeves came to petal points over the hands. Her tiered veil of silk illusion fell fingertip length from a large white rose of taffeta and sprays of lily of the valley. She carried a bouquet of white fleur d'amour centered with a white orchid, atop a white Bible.

ATTENDANTS

Miss Marilyn Ann Corbin, sister of the bride, was maid of honor and wore a gown of tangerine iridescent taffeta, styled with fitted bodice featuring a scoop neckline and brief sleeves with a full gathered skirt. Two-hand - rolled roses of self - material with a brief face veil formed her headdress and she wore matching short white gloves. She wore a drop pearl necklace, a gift from the bride and carried two long stemmed talisman roses. Bridesmaids, Mrs. James Roan, Bastrop, cousin of the bride, Miss Katherine McNeer, Miss Patsy Williams and Miss Julia Ann Reagan, Monroe, were dressed identical to the honor attendant with headdresses of a single rose and each carried one long stemmed talisman rose.

Miss Debra Newkirk, flower girl, was also dressed like the other attendants. Candlelighters were Charles Hill and Donald Crawford Corbin, brother of the bride.

RECEPTION

The tables in the reception room were covered in floor length white satin cloths. An arrangement of white stock, gladioli and carnation centered the punch table and the bride's bouquet was placed on the round table which held the wedding cake. Mrs. George Smith presided at the guest book table graced with a memory candle. Mrs. A. W. Newkirk and Mrs. C. A. Hill served the wedding cake and Mrs. Warren Barr and Mrs. Jacob Norman Coon Jr. presided at the punch bowls. Tea girls were Misses Dot Rambin, Mary Louise Tolar and Carol McKeithen and rice bags were distributed by Miss Susan Soureal.

For a wedding trip to Hot Springs, Ark., the bride changed into a coral linen jacket ensemble with white accessories and the orchid from her bouquet. Upon their return the couple will be at home in West Monroe. Both are graduates of Ouachita Parish High School and are presently attending Northeast Lousiana Louisiana State College.

Exciting Fashion

Predictions for fashion excitement are centered on the use of flattering jabots, ruffles down the front of dresses, ruffles at sleeve edgings, in the discreet yet exhilarating use of beads, glitter and trims on daytime as well as date-time fashions.

by Denise

This week's calendar has been filled with parties for guests from out of town. Former Monroyans "back home" for a visit always inspire a whirl of gaiety. One of the lovliest of summer morning parties was given last Friday in the home of DOROTHY SHOLARS, honoring her granddaughters, SATCHIE COOPER (MRS. C. M.) DOLAN of Eagle Pass, Texas; and CHARLOTTE COOPER (MRS. JAMES P.) WOOD of Troy, Alabama. SATCHIE NAIDEN was co - hostess.

A mass arrangement of oakleaf hydrangea stood on a table near the entrance, where arriving guests were greeted by the hostesses, honorees, and their cousin, DOT CLINTON of Ruston. Magnolias used with their own foliage decorated a side table, while on the mantel was a bowl filled with daisies and feverfew.

A pyramid of blue and green hydrangeas centered the dining table, where MARGERY NICHOL of Ruston and MARY DURRETT offered guests a choice of iced tea or cola drinks. ANNIE LAURIE BREARD assisted with the courtesies. Goodies included cucumber and chicken salad sandwiches, sand tarts, fudge or lemon squares, and caramel kisses.

Daisies and yellow day lilies were used in a copper bowl on a table in the sitting room overlooking the patio. Sliding glass doors opened onto a brick terrace, festive with hydrangeas on white wrought iron stands. Weather prohibited use of the garden, but 'twas a feast for the eyes nevertheless.

Satchie and Charlotte have been honored at a number of informal parties this week. On Tuesday, DOROTHEA GARRETT and BENNIE ABELL were hostesses for luncheon in the Garrett home. Yellow and white flowers, including Shasta daisies, daylilies, and yellow chrysanthemums were used throughout the reception suite. Guests were seated at two tables for six. The menu included shrimp salad in avocado, and for dessert, homemade cookies with ice cream and a choice of homemade sauces.

On Wednesday, KATIE MAE THORNHILL was hostess for lunch, and on Thursday, the visitors spent the day in Ruston . . . Friday afternoon, about twenty old friends of the guests were invited for an afternoon in the country, at the home of POLLY MILNER. VYVIAN FRAZIER was co - hostess. 'Twas a sit-and-chat party affording an opportunity for a visit with Satchie and Charlotte. Refreshments including punch and assorted dainties were served from a summery table decorated with daisies and daylilies.

Another guest who has been the inspiration for several parties this week has been BABS ERICKSON of Window Rock, Arizona. A former resident of this area, Babs was the housegueast of the THOMAS LEIGHS from Sunday until Thursday. On Monday at noon, CLARISSA SHERROUSE was hostess at luncheon honoring Babs and MRS. A. E. ELLIOTT of New Orleans.

Nine guests gathered in the Riverside Drive home of HILDA M'DONALD for luncheon with Babs on Tuesday. The hostess centered her table with brass scales holding magnolias and daylilies. The menu included such unusual delights as home-stuffed crab, avocado - cucumber mousse, and tomatoes filled with ham. Dessert was strawberry pie.

On Monday evening, CHICK and BUD LEWIS entertained at a dinner party for Babs. . . . LOUISE THEUS was hostess for a small luncheon at Bayou DeSiard Country Club on Wednesday . . . That afternoon, Babs and Louise and a few friends called at the home of MARY BUCKNER for a conversational hour . . . the TOMMY FRAZIERS and the HILLYER PARKERS were hosts for dinner that evening . . . Babs left for Arizona on Thursday.

ANN (MRS. JOHN) NOEL was in town this week visiting her mother SARA SHAFTO and grandmother, MRS. E. L. NEVILLE. Ann was en route from Pittsburg, Pennsylvania, where the Noels have been living, to her new home in Houston, Texas.

Honoring DIANE DUCOTE, whose marriage to CHARLES OSTER was last night, LYDIA NICHOLS and her daughter, AMALIE GAINES, entertained with a dessert bridge at Bayou DeSiard Country Club last Friday afternoon. At one end of the private dining room, a white wicker arbor wreathed with Fuji mums and fern stood on a small table. Wedding bells swung in the arch, with miniature bride and groom figures standing below. Coffee pie was served to sixteen guests before the bridge games.

Off to Europe is LEIGH RUSSELL, who leaves the first of the week for New York. She will sail June 21 on the Sylvania, going first to the British Isles, and then on a tour of the Continent. She plans to end her trip abroad with a visit to relatives in Germany, and will be home in September.

Popular bride - elect MALISE MAPP, whose marriage to ED RUSSELL will be a social event in July, was named guest of honor at a luncheon party given Wednesday by KITTY TALBOT. A pink theme was carried out in decorations in the private dining room at Bayou DeSiard Country Club. Pink gladioli and vermelia centered the pink - covered table. Place cards decorated with wedding rings tied with lilies of the valley marked places for ten guests.

Just a week after they moved into their new home on Pargoud boulevard, the HEWITT JOHNSONS were surprised with a housewarming last Friday night. Elder son DON talked his parents into going out for dinner, leaving the coast clear for a group of friends to gather and await their return. These "guests" brought a complete party, with refreshments of sandwiches, dips, iced cakes; and house gifts including luau torches to light the garden.

Terrazzo floors the family room, which is panelled with walnut on three walls. The fourth wall is of glass panels and sliding doors overlooking the patio and bayou bank beyond. Draperies of rough weave natural linen draw across the entire wall. A pair of turquoise blue sofas face this lovely view. Behind the sofas, and built into the panelling are cabinets for television, stereo, books, and a built in desk. . . . The kitchen beyond is separated from the family room by a peninsula of cabinets, also in walnut, with folding shutters above. White Formica counters and brown fixtures are used with the walnut . . . In an angle formed by the kitchen and carport is the utility area, including a complete bath with outside entrance so that swimmers and water skiiers may change without tracking through the house.

In the bedroom wing, the master bedroom at the front of the house is done entirely in bone white, with silk draperies etched with sprays of Oriental flowers. There are three double - doored closets in this room. The aqua and white tiled bath doubles as a dressing room with dozens of built-in drawers and a wall of mirror.

Three large closets (two of cedar) line the bedroom hall. Son NEAL's room, used vivid red spreads and draperies with flag blue geometric print on white. Don's room, with its view of the bayou and door opening onto the patio, has white draperies printed in shades of blues and aqua. Each boy's room has an entire wall filled with closet, drawers to the ceiling, and a built-in desk.

At this time of year, family thoughts turn to a picnic. And here is Ethel Jacobson's description of "Beach Picnic":

The outing was really
A lulu, a dilly.
The fog was dense
And dank and chilly
But everyone tanned—
To third-degree burns—
And the kiddies fell over
The cliff by turns.

The hampers were bulging,
The menu faultless,
Though salads were sandy
And sandwiches saltless

Some cutup went swimming
With Mother's new hat on,
And Gladys was nipped
By a crab that she sat on.

And then when the rains came—
They're sudden, you know—

Fair Committee Is Named By Progressive HD

Progressive Home Demonstration club met Tuesday, June 12 in the home of Mrs. James Fletcher with Mrs. Robert Fowler, co-hostess.

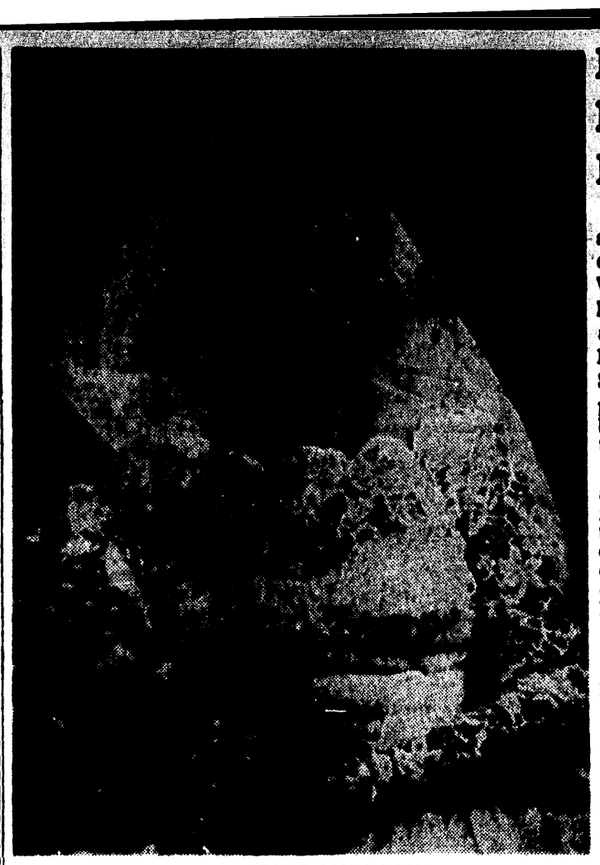

Mrs. Roy Simmons presided over the business session, announcing a silver tea, sponsored by the Home Demonstration Council, to be held Sunday, June 17 from 2 until 6 p.m. at Cooley Sanitarium for retarded children. All members were urged to attend.

In connection with the retarded children, members of Progressive club voted as a community project to furnish one room at Cooley with curtains and bedspreads.

Mrs. Lillian Ford was appointed chairman of the Fair Booth committee with Mrs. Charles Guraedy, Mrs. S. B. Harrellson and Mrs. Roy Simmons, assistants.

Mrs. Gil Guillory gave a report on Civil Defense and Mrs. Hollis May on consumer education. Mrs. E. Hargrove gave a demonstration on "The care of New Fabrics."

After the social hour the hostesses served luncheon to Miss Linda Fletcher, a guest; and Mrs. Mildred Chapman, Mrs. P. E. Rodgers, Mrs. W. L. Ewing, Mrs. Otha Sims, Mrs. James White, Mrs. Rowe Harrell, Mrs. Guillory, Mrs. Simmons, Mrs. Guraedy, Mrs. May and Mrs. Hargrove.

MRS. ROBERT MARSHMAN

Nuptials Unite Miss Walters, Mr. Marshman

McGuire Methodist Church was scene of the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Glenda Joe Walters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Walters, West Monroe, and Robert Marshman, son of Mr. and Mr. W. L. Marshman, of St. Francisville, on June 2 at 3 p.m. Rev. Don Wineinger assisted by Rev. Bob Tatum, performed the double ring vows.

Arrangements of yellow gladioli and white candles against a background of greenery formed a setting for the ceremony. Miss Biddy Dupree, organist, accompanied Burt Boone, as he sang "Forever Yours," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown, fashioned with bodice of Chantilly lace over taffeta and bouffant skirt of silk organza which terminated in a chapel train. Her veil of silk illusion attached to a headdress of illusion petals, outlined in pearls and her bouquet was of lily of the valley and stephanotis centered with a white orchid.

Miss Vickie Caldwell, maid of honor and the bridesmaids, Miss Sue Taylor and Miss Bonnie Wineinger, wore identical frocks of yellow silk organza over cotton satin with veiled bandeaux of yellow flowers for headdresses. They carried bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums. Carolyn Thomason, cousin of the bride, was flower girl and also wore yellow silk organza with headband of tiny yellow flowers. Candles were lighted by Pamela Marshamn, niece of the groom, also wearing yellow.

A reception was held in the church social hall where the yellow and white theme was carried out in central decor for the bride's table. Mrs J. L. Walters served the cake, assisted by Miss Martha Geyer. Miss Sondra Folse and Miss Brenda Bridges alternated at the punch service, assisted by Miss Carolyn Morgan and Mrs. Burt Boone registered guests. Tea girls were Martha Ellen and Carolyn Thomason.

They will be at home in St. Francisville until fall when both will return to Northwestern College at Natchitoches. The bride is a member of Purple Jacket club, Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority and the "Miss Potpourri Court." Mr. Marshman is a member of Blue Key, national honor fraternity and of "N" Athletic Club.

Progressive Home Demonstration club met Tuesday, June 12 in the home of Mrs. James Fletcher with Mrs. Robert Fowler, co-hostess.

Mrs. Roy Simmons presided over the business session, announcing a silver tea, sponsored by the Home Demonstration Council, to be held Sunday, June 17 from 2 until 6 p.m. at Cooley Sanitarium for retarded children. All members were urged to attend.

In connection with the retarded children, members of Progressive club voted as a community project to furnish one room at Cooley with curtains and bedspreads.

Mrs. Lillian Ford was appointed chairman of the Fair Booth committee with Mrs. Charles Guraedy, Mrs. S. B. Harrellson and Mrs. Roy Simmons, assistants.

Mrs. Gil Guillory gave a report on Civil Defense and Mrs. Hollis May on consumer education. Mrs. E. Hargrove gave a demonstration on "The care of New Fabrics."

After the social hour the hostesses served luncheon to Miss Linda Fletcher, a guest; and Mrs. Mildred Chapman, Mrs. P. E. Rodgers, Mrs. W. L. Ewing, Mrs. Otha Sims, Mrs. James White, Mrs. Rowe Harrell, Mrs. Guillory, Mrs. Simmons, Mrs. Guraedy, Mrs. May and Mrs. Hargrove.

MRS. ROBERT MARSHMAN

Nuptials Unite Miss Walters, Mr. Marshman

McGuire Methodist Church was scene of the ceremony which united in marriage Miss Glenda Joe Walters, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. B. Walters, West Monroe, and Robert Marshman, son of Mr. and Mr. W. L. Marshman, of St. Francisville, on June 2 at 3 p.m. Rev. Don Wineinger assisted by Rev. Bob Tatum, performed the double ring vows.

Arrangements of yellow gladioli and white candles against a background of greenery formed a setting for the ceremony. Miss Biddy Dupree, organist, accompanied Burt Boone, as he sang "Forever Yours," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a gown, fashioned with bodice of Chantilly lace over taffeta and bouffant skirt of silk organza which terminated in a chapel train. Her veil of silk illusion attached to a headdress of illusion petals, outlined in pearls and her bouquet was of lily of the valley and stephanotis centered with a white orchid.

Miss Vickie Caldwell, maid of honor and the bridesmaids, Miss Sue Taylor and Miss Bonnie Wineinger, wore identical frocks of yellow silk organza over cotton satin with veiled bandeaux of yellow flowers for headdresses. They carried bouquets of yellow chrysanthemums. Carolyn Thomason, cousin of the bride, was flower girl and also wore yellow silk organza with headband of tiny yellow flowers. Candles were lighted by Pamela Marshamn, niece of the groom, also wearing yellow.

A reception was held in the church social hall where the yellow and white theme was carried out in central decor for the bride's table. Mrs J. L. Walters served the cake, assisted by Miss Martha Geyer. Miss Sondra Folse and Miss Brenda Bridges alternated at the punch service, assisted by Miss Carolyn Morgan and Mrs. Burt Boone registered guests. Tea girls were Martha Ellen and Carolyn Thomason.

They will be at home in St. Francisville until fall when both will return to Northwestern College at Natchitoches. The bride is a member of Purple Jacket club, Alpha Sigma Alpha sorority and the "Miss Potpourri Court." Mr. Marshman is a member of Blue Key, national honor fraternity and of "N" Athletic Club.

Look For...

. . . longer suit jackets, semifitted, neatly collared, double-breasted, with eased straight skirts or panel - front skirts, sleek and chic.

. . . the muffled neckline for fall, by way of convertible collars that stand up to the chin, or big scarves of wool or fur.

. . . the little extra jacket for summer, often reversible, as in a check to solid cotton, bright silk in a print and solid, cotton brocade.

. . . the chiffon scarf as summer's favorite head covering, long enough to encircle the throat and tie behind, in orange, turquoise, white.

. . . return of classic looks of the late Thirties, such as the gray flannel tailored suit, the camels-hair coat, the plaid dreamer coat.

Dan Blocker Not Planning On Reducing

None of that safflower oil and gluten bread for Dan. Why should he ruin his mealticket?

Yet when I met up with the towering Texan, he was lunching on cottage cheese salad and gelatine. "Picked up eight pounds on P.A.'s," he explained, referring to personal appearances, any television star's bread and butter.

"Trouble with those tours is everybody wants to feed you. They give you a big breakfast and a big lunch and then a big dinner, thinking they're doing you a favor. You feel like a heel not to eat."

Dan admitted he would probably take off 50 pounds if he gave up the beer and booze. But he hasn't yet found enough reason. And he'd be in danger of destroying the image of the big, blustery Hoss Cartwright on NBC's Sunday night Western.

Health problems? He's got none. Even got a top rating in an insurance physical exam recently.

"Can hardly remember when I didn't weigh at least 200 pounds," he said. "Never worried me, though my folks thought about it, I guess. Once when I was about and weighed 200, they put me in the car and took me to a pediatrician in Lubbock, Texas.

"He examined me and said, 'There's nothing wrong with this boy; he's just going to be a big son of a gun.'"

The Army gave him the same bill of health, even though at 310 pounds he was well over the usual limit. "We'll make an exception in your case," said the doctor, and Dan replied, "thanks a bunch."

Dan got out of the army at 280, now tries to maintain the 260. It isn't easy, what with all the free chow. And his memories are still vivid that the meals weren't so easy to come by.

"You're talking to a guy who picked a lot of cotton in his day," he said. "I was 16 before I found out you were supposed to walk on your feet instead of your knees."

"Bonanza" is now ending its third and best season, and the company is already grinding out a fourth. Dan figures it could go another year, perhaps two at the most.

U.S. Reports Soviet Airlift Laos Aid Drops

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Department officials said Saturday Soviet airlift operations in support of Communist and pro-Communist forces in Laos had dropped off slightly during the past month.

This was the response at the State Department to inquiries about reports from Laos that there had been a substantial increase in Soviet deliveries of arms and supplies to the Reds, more or less coincidentally with the formation of a coalition government committed to a policy of neutrality.

Officials at the State Department said the airlift certainly is continuing and that Soviet planes can land at any of 15 or 20 places in Communist-held territory. Reports to Washington show, they said, that the number of flights has dropped slightly in the last month.

New Civitan Club Founded

BASTROP (Special) — A Civitan Club has been formed at Bastrop, according to Western Grizzard, field secretary of Civitan International.

The new officers are Ed Head, president; Fenner Hale, vice president; W. W. Blacett Jr., secretary - treasurer; Ted Wright, Dr. E. D. Baker, J. W. Myers, John Tully and Harold Courtney, directors; and Charles Sisk, sergeant-at-arms.

Ball Is Named Area Director

RUSTON (Special) — James M. Ball, former Choudrant resident, has been employed as the new Lincoln Parish Civil Defense director by the Lincoln Parish Police Jury.

Ball, a graduate of Choudrant High School and Louisiana Tech, will assume his duties July 1, replacing W. E. Vining, who has resigned.

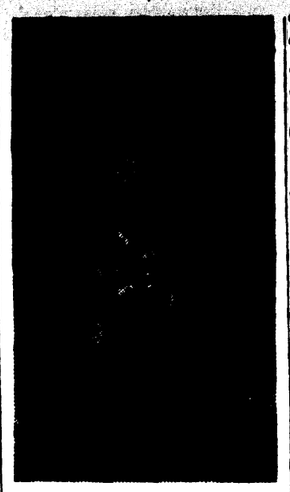

Station Operators To Assist Police

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago police department has enlisted 2,400 private eyes—4,800 if you count two orbs per volunteer.

They are gas station operators who have joined forces with the police to help spot stolen cars. They received their first hot-sheets—lists of stolen auto license numbers—in Saturday's mail. Also issued: the police emergency phone number for quick reporting.

Anti-Castro Group Says Blow Is Due

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — "A hard blow that will have enormous international repercussions is being prepared against the Communist government," says a report from the anti-Castro underground received Saturday from Cuba.

"Operation Aurora is being prepared with much rapidity, and we consider it can be carried out before the selected date if things are continuing as up to now."

The report, prepared by Havana headquarters of the 30th of November Movement, did not say what the operation was.

"Groups throughout the island are carrying on their work of killing militiamen and informers, attacking small barracks, ambushing, destroying crops, equipment and machinery, and collecting arms."

The communication, addressed to "Brother Atilano," appealed for shipments of arms and dynamite. Atilano is the underground name of Carlos Rodriguez Quesada, director in exile of the anti-Castro organization.

"If the Americans refuse, negotiate with Romulo Betancourt, Ydigoras Fuentes or others," Betancourt is president of Venezuela, Ydigoras of Guatemala.

"The general situation in the labor movement is propitious for a general strike because of discontent and hatred among the workers," the report continued. "We shall launch it at the opportune times."

Murder-Suicide Ruled In Death Of Man, Wife

TUPELO, Miss. (AP) — A popular restaurant operator was found dead in his home Saturday, lying beside the body of his wife. A coroner's inquest ruled murder and suicide.

Lee County Sheriff Frank Carter and Police Chief Monaghan said Virgil Monaghan apparently shot his wife with a 12-gauge shotgun as she sat on the side of a bed, then telephoned his brother about the incident before shooting himself.

Vernon Monaghan told officers he received a phone call at 8:25 a.m. from his brother who said, "I killed my wife. What am I going to do?"

The brother said he told him to "hold everything until I can get over there" and then picked up another brother, Randall, and rushed to the house. They forced through a locked door to find the bodies.

The couple is survived by two children, Judy, 15, and John Virgil, 10, who were spending the night at the home of grand parents.

Funeral services were scheduled for 2 p.m. Sunday.

Chuck Connors Slated In Film

Chuck Connors, popular star of motion pictures and television, will be seen in the title role of "Geronimo," in the United Artists release in Panavision and Technicolor, coming next Sunday to the Paramount Theatre.

Connors, who is now appearing in his fourth year as TV's "Rifleman," keeps to the western locale for "Geronimo."

Dan Blocker Not Planning On Reducing

None of that safflower oil and gluten bread for Dan. Why should he ruin his mealticket?

Yet when I met up with the towering Texan, he was lunching on cottage cheese salad and gelatine. "Picked up eight pounds on P.A.'s," he explained, referring to personal appearances, any television star's bread and butter.

"Trouble with those tours is everybody wants to feed you. They give you a big breakfast and a big lunch and then a big dinner, thinking they're doing you a favor. You feel like a heel not to eat."

Dan admitted he would probably take off 50 pounds if he gave up the beer and booze. But he hasn't yet found enough reason. And he'd be in danger of destroying the image of the big, blustery Hoss Cartwright on NBC's Sunday night Western.

Health problems? He's got none. Even got a top rating in an insurance physical exam recently.

"Can hardly remember when I didn't weigh at least 200 pounds," he said. "Never worried me, though my folks thought about it, I guess. Once when I was about and weighed 200, they put me in the car and took me to a pediatrician in Lubbock, Texas.

"He examined me and said, 'There's nothing wrong with this boy; he's just going to be a big son of a gun.'"

The Army gave him the same bill of health, even though at 310 pounds he was well over the usual limit. "We'll make an exception in your case," said the doctor, and Dan replied, "thanks a bunch."

Dan got out of the army at 280, now tries to maintain the 260. It isn't easy, what with all the free chow. And his memories are still vivid that the meals weren't so easy to come by.

"You're talking to a guy who picked a lot of cotton in his day," he said. "I was 16 before I found out you were supposed to walk on your feet instead of your knees."

"Bonanza" is now ending its third and best season, and the company is already grinding out a fourth. Dan figures it could go another year, perhaps two at the most.

U.S. Reports Soviet Airlift Laos Aid Drops

WASHINGTON (AP)—State Department officials said Saturday Soviet airlift operations in support of Communist and pro-Communist forces in Laos had dropped off slightly during the past month.

This was the response at the State Department to inquiries about reports from Laos that there had been a substantial increase in Soviet deliveries of arms and supplies to the Reds, more or less coincidentally with the formation of a coalition government committed to a policy of neutrality.

Officials at the State Department said the airlift certainly is continuing and that Soviet planes can land at any of 15 or 20 places in Communist-held territory. Reports to Washington show, they said, that the number of flights has dropped slightly in the last month.

New Civitan Club Founded

BASTROP (Special) — A Civitan Club has been formed at Bastrop, according to Western Grizzard, field secretary of Civitan International.

The new officers are Ed Head, president; Fenner Hale, vice president; W. W. Blacett Jr., secretary - treasurer; Ted Wright, Dr. E. D. Baker, J. W. Myers, John Tully and Harold Courtney, directors; and Charles Sisk, sergeant-at-arms.

Ball Is Named Area Director

RUSTON (Special) — James M. Ball, former Choudrant resident, has been employed as the new Lincoln Parish Civil Defense director by the Lincoln Parish Police Jury.

Ball, a graduate of Choudrant High School and Louisiana Tech, will assume his duties July 1, replacing W. E. Vining, who has resigned.

Station Operators To Assist Police

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago police department has enlisted 2,400 private eyes—4,800 if you count two orbs per volunteer.

They are gas station operators who have joined forces with the police to help spot stolen cars. They received their first hot-sheets—lists of stolen auto license numbers—in Saturday's mail. Also issued: the police emergency phone number for quick reporting.

Anti-Castro Group Says Blow Is Due

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — "A hard blow that will have enormous international repercussions is being prepared against the Communist government," says a report from the anti-Castro underground received Saturday from Cuba.

"Operation Aurora is being prepared with much rapidity, and we consider it can be carried out before the selected date if things are continuing as up to now."

The report, prepared by Havana headquarters of the 30th of November Movement, did not say what the operation was.

"Groups throughout the island are carrying on their work of killing militiamen and informers, attacking small barracks, ambushing, destroying crops, equipment and machinery, and collecting arms."

The communication, addressed to "Brother Atilano," appealed for shipments of arms and dynamite. Atilano is the underground name of Carlos Rodriguez Quesada, director in exile of the anti-Castro organization.

"If the Americans refuse, negotiate with Romulo Betancourt, Ydigoras Fuentes or others," Betancourt is president of Venezuela, Ydigoras of Guatemala.

"The general situation in the labor movement is propitious for a general strike because of discontent and hatred among the workers," the report continued. "We shall launch it at the opportune times."

Murder-Suicide Ruled In Death Of Man, Wife

TUPELO, Miss. (AP) — A popular restaurant operator was found dead in his home Saturday, lying beside the body of his wife. A coroner's inquest ruled murder and suicide.

Lee County Sheriff Frank Carter and Police Chief Monaghan said Virgil Monaghan apparently shot his wife with a 12-gauge shotgun as she sat on the side of a bed, then telephoned his brother about the incident before shooting himself.

Vernon Monaghan told officers he received a phone call at 5:15 a.m. from his brother who said, "I killed my wife. What am I going to do?"

The brother said he told him to "hold everything until I can get over there" and then picked up another brother, Randall, and rushed to the house. They forced through a locked door to find the bodies.

The couple is survived by two children, Judy, 15, and John Virgil, 10, who were spending the night at the home of grand parents.

Funeral services were scheduled for 2 p.m. Sunday.

Onions Tasty And Pretty

By WILLIAM LANIER HUNT

The "onion family" provides us with some of the best flavors in our food. Back in the Middle Ages, before the days of rapid transportation and refrigeration, the flavors of garlic, onion and chives redeemed a great many drab and tasteless foods and disguised unwanted odors and flavors in others. Onions, leeks and other plants of their kinship have been eaten since man learned to eat vegetables, and the habit of eating wild ramps in the Southern mountains each year goes back to no one knows when in the Northern countries of Europe.

There are over 280 species of alliums or onions, spread around the world. In such a large group, it is not surprising that some of these plants have flowers beautiful enough to be grown in flower gardens. Even the flowers of some kinds of vegetable garden onions are beautiful. As a matter of fact, some of us have taken leeks out of the vegetable garden and grow them in the flower garden. The large heads of lavender flowers on tall wands three feet long are graceful and interesting in spring gardens right now.

The most spectacular of the tall kinds of flowering onions is Allium giganteum from Central Asia. The huge balls of brilliant violet are in bloom for a month about the time of Louisiana irises, foxgloves, peonies and roses. In late winter, the huge leaves make a rosette on the ground that is ornamental in itself, and from the center of these leaves the naked stems arise. There are two other tall alliums in flower with this one: leeks and the deep violet Yortown onion which many Southern gardens have given each other from Baltimore to San Antonio.

Ordinary chives make a pretty border in the flower garden, "Chinese chives" (Allium tuberosum) or "Oriental garlic" makes a good showing of white flowers in late summer. All through the winter, you can pick a few leaves for a subtle chives flavor in your salads. Since this species is a little tender to our cold winters, be sure to plant it in a warmish protected spot. It lasts about ten years in your columnist's test garden and then gets killed, but the little plants are cheap and worth replacing.

Two alliums that bloom in early summer and make a pretty color combination are the yellow Allium Moly and the blue A. azureum. Some gardeners succeed with these, and some do not keep them very long, but they are worth trying.

There are many beautiful alliums in the catalogues of the American bulb dealers these days. Not many of them have been grown to any extent, so you are on your own in trying them out. The bulbs are inexpensive for all but the big "giganteum" we discussed first. Most alliums are very drought and heat resistant, a characteristic that makes them good for us here in the South.

SEW SIMPLE
By Eunice Farmer

For her fine help for putting in an invisible hem by machine, Mrs. Geo. M. Allen, Worcester, N. Y., has been awarded a Tailor Trix pressing board this week.

"A simple way to put in an invisible hem by machine. Measure depth of hem as usual and turn raw edge over one-fourth inch and stitch close to edge. Pin hem to dress ½" below stitched edge. Turn dress inside out.

"With wrong side of hem touching plate of machine, fold hem back and take about 4 stitches on the edge that was previously stitched. Next, take one stitch in the fold of the dress, and continue around the entire hem in this manner. This is a neat hem, saves time, and is much stronger for children's clothes than hand hemming."

SEWING CLASSES

Dear Fans:

In answer to the teen-age girls who want to know how to sew but aren't offered such courses in school, I have had many replies. There are 4-H clubs in every state and they will be glad to help organize a group under the guidance of the extension home economist in their county. Sewing instructions are supplemented by excellent pamphlets from the State Agricultural Extension Service.

If any mothers or grandmothers are experienced seamstresses and would serve as a club leader, please offer your services to your 4-H club. The joy of teaching these eager children will more than reward you for your time and effort.

"Dear Eunice Farmer:

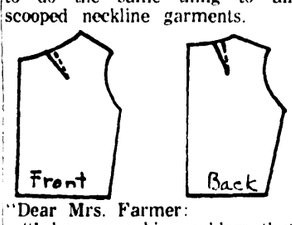

"Would you be kind enough to repeat your answer to the problem of fixing gapping necklines?"

Mrs. W. W A..

MUSLIN PATTERN

Dear Mrs. W. W. A.:

There isn't much that can be done after the garment has been made. You must make your changes before cutting. I would suggest you make a pattern in muslin first. Cut the seam allowance off your muslin pattern in order to see exactly how the neck will fit. If it appears to be too-full, take a tiny tuck or dart in the neckline as illustrated. This should be at an angle and taper to nothing about 3" below the neckline seam.

The dart is usually no more than one-fourth inch wide and is placed between the center front and the shoulder. It may be necessary to make this dart in the front and back or both. Whatever you do to the muslin bodice to make it fit properly, you must now do the same to your pattern.

In this way, the extra fabric will not be cut into your garment. Do the same with your facings before cutting. If you have to change the neckline on one dress, you will probably have to do the same thing to all scooped neckline garments.

"Dear Mrs. Farmer:

"I have one big problem that remains unanswered. How do you adjust a pattern with a bat-wing sleeve? The 'wing' seems too deep and gives too much fullness through the bust."

Mrs. R. B.

Dear Mrs. R. B.:

This type of sleeve usually begins near the waistline and comes out gradually through the underarm section to the end of the sleeve. The style of it would naturally make a great deal of fullness at the bustline.

It would be better if you chose a pattern with a raglan sleeve, this would have a much closer fit. A "raglan" sleeve with a gusset fits still closer. In fact, this last type of sleeve resembles the fit of a set-in-sleeve more than any other type. It would be almost impossible to change the cut of a bat-wing sleeve to a closer fitting sleeve without changing the design of the dress.

BEACH COATS

"Dear Eunice:

"Thanks for your inspiring column and for treating sewing as an 'art' rather than a drudgery. You have no idea how you boost the morale of us 'would-be' seamstresses.

"It is also fun to read the tips sent to you from women who live from coast to coast and to find out that we all have the same problems and all enjoy the new ideas. I have an idea I would like to pass on to others and I think it is especially valuable at this time of the year.

"For the 'swim season,' make little beach coats, jackets, and robes out of worn out chenille bed spreads. They are as absorbent as terry cloth, easily laundered, and a good way to get something for nothing."

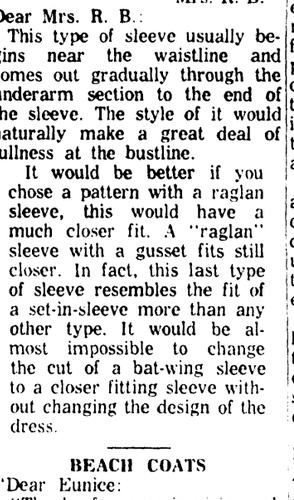

Mrs. S. A. H.

If you're a new reader of Eunice Farmer's sewing column, you would enjoy her 25-cent booklet reprinting the 20 most frequently asked questions. Obtain it by sending a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope and 25 cents with your request to Eunice Farmer, in care of Monroe Morning World.

Stamp News

Tunisia has issued a new stamp commemorating its "Fete Nationale," reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency. This national celebration is a seven - year tradition going back to June 1, 1955, when successful negotiations between France and Tunisia led to the release of the leader of the Tunisia Independent Movement, Habib Bourguiba, from a French prison and his return to Tunisia. The 20 millimes stamp depicts a graceful allegorical figure representing a liberated Tunisia.

As previously reported in this column, Australia will definitely issue a new 5 pence stamp commemorating the centennary of the Crossing of Australia from south to north by John McDouall Stewart. The new stamp will be of the same size as those of the current Flora series and will portray a likeness of the noted explorer.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

Dr. John Wright, horticulture professor from La. Tech, gave us another one of his wonderful programs on Flower - Arranging and Demonstrations this week on the T. V. and Garden Center Show. Dr. Wright had made the six arrangements beforehand to show and describe. They were displayed at the Garden Center the rest of this week. An abundance of materials of all kinds were used — from Dr. Wright's own garden and greenhouse.

The first arrangement contained an abundance of multicolored Dahlias — the bedding type—reds predominated. These formed the focal area in the pyramid design which was formed by plume-type Celosia-colors of rose into yellow. Golden privet was used as a filler. The container was a low white ceramic urn. The back of the arrangement was finished with lovely caladium leaves in shades of white into greens.

A pillar vase of unusual shade of sorghum red was used to hold the vertical design made of yellow Tritomia. Complementing color of red-orange dahlias were were used to fill in this line and accent the focal. Golden privet gave the finishing touch as a filler. Very colorful design.

A very unusual tall black oriental-type container inspired Dr. Wright to make an oriental design—the Nigarie or thrown-in type design. This requires very little material. The primary vertical line is very low—balancing the weight and height of the container by the horizontal line used. Pink - lavender colored Celosia formed the short vertical line, while a heavier horizontal line of Dahlias of the same shake pink—lavender were used with the buds. Small green and white caladium leaves were used in the focal area as a filler. This as a most striking design in the oriental manner.

A very gay arrangement of yellow dahlias placed in a tall yellow cylinder-type container etched in white formed a massed vertical design. Castor bean foliage trimmed with scissors to form a round leaf was used as the main line. The Dahlias were used within this line and one was placed to hang low at the lip of the container — thus cutting the height of the container. The Golden privet was used as a filler in this design — blending perfectly with the Dahlias and container. Lovely to welcome your guests with an arrangement of this type—used in the hall.

A very unusual all-foliage arrangement of young Castor Bean leaves and red into green Caladium leaves formed the next arrangement. The container was a low milk glass serving dish. This would be most attractive on the dining room buffet.

A vertical line made of sugar cane stalk was placed in a tall brown cylinder vase. Three very unusual rolled-edged leaves of deep red-into green caladium leaves completed the simple, but, lovely design. This would be ideal for a long-lasting arrangement for the den or living room.

Dr. Wright always gives us such a treat whenever he comes. We will be looking forward to seeing his next show. He is so full of good information about flower arranging and shares it with us so willingly. Isn't it nice to have him in our 5th district.

Dr. Wright gave me some valuable information on The Peaches and Posies Flower Show that I thought should be passed on to you at this time. June 21 will bring the annual peaches and posies flower show at the La. Tech Student Center in Ruston. Time is 3:00 to 9:00 p.m. Admission is free. Since this is an area project, it has a wider interest than a one-club flower show. It is sponsored by the Lincoln Garden Council, and involves all the member clubs of that council and offers opportunity to all who are interested in participating. The deadline has passed for entering the design division, but, anyone can enter horticulture specimens on the day of the show.

Camera Notes

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Electric eye or automatic cameras, both movie and still types, normally have a blind spot when faced with a particular exposure problem. It occurs when the camera is in bright sunlight and the subject being photographed is in shadow or, in reverse, when the camera is in a shaded area and the subject is in sunshine.

When the camera is strictly automatic and has no manual control, the photographer should change his position so as to shoot under the same light condition as the subject in order to get proper exposure.

If he can't change his position, he might compensate by shifting the film speed setting. If the camera "thinks" it has a faster or slower film, it would close down or open the lens a bit more.

Thus, with the camera in sunlight and subject in shadow, the ASA film speed setting should be reduced if possible, at least half. And with the camera in shadow and subject in sunlight, the ASA film speed setting should be increased to double, if possible.

Fortunately, the newest cameras feature manual control along with electric eye automation. To prove the point, I tested a new still and a new movie camera under difficult backlight illumination. It showed, as always, that human judgment is needed along with the electric eye.

For stills I used the Rollei Magic II, a new model of the first electric eye automatic 2¼ by 2¼ twin - lens reflex camera. It features an easier - to - see exposure value pointer and an easier-to handle manual control. For movies, I used the new Revere Reflex Power Zoom 8mm camera. It features through - the-lens viewing and focusing, automatic and manual f-stop visibility in viewfinder and power zoom. It also has a unqiue backlight stop which is a built-in effort to compensate for shooting in the direction of the sun by opening the lens more than the normal electric eye setting. It is certainly a step in the right direction but doesn't go far enough.

I found it necessary in both cases to step into the shadow area and take a close - up electric eye reading of a face. Then I switched to manual control on both cameras with the exposure set for the shadows. The results were what I wanted: detail in the faces.

With normal lighting situations, I turned back to automatic control and effortless shooting.

Trim Back Plants For Second Bloom

By AUDREY H. DAWSON
GARDENING

Be sure to cut back your larkspur, stock and dahlias which have finished blooming and they will put out new growth for a second flowering.

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, want cut flowers to last longer follow some of these tips: Try to cut the flowers early in the morning, before sunup. Late afternoon cutting is alright, too. You may not be able to cut all stems with a slant when gathering them, but you can cut them slanted before placing the stems in water or your favorite conditioning solution. The flowers will absorb more if cut on a slant. For instance marigolds will remain fresher in a sugar, salt and water solution. Make the solution using: 2 tablespoons of sugar, one tablespoon of salt and 1 quart of water. A solution for dahlias can be made by using 2 quarts of iced water and 5 tablespoons of alcohol. First burn the ends of dahlia stems. Eight drops of oil of peppermint in a quart of water will make diaisies last longer. You can condition roses in two tablespoons powdered alum or table salt in quart of water. The flowers should be conditioned in about two hours.

NEW WINDOW SHADES

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, are interested in shades for your windows, you will be interested in the new white translucent window shades made of cloth. "Tontine" batiste shade cloth is made of a finely woven lightweight fabric of "Dacron" polyester fiber and cotton. It has the same long wearing washable coating that is applied to regular "Tontine" shade cloth. There are three designes now on the market: Locitte, a floral design; coins, stylized coins and simplex, a modern design in a geometric motif. The clearly defined patterns are visible both day and night in a soft tone which blends effectively with wall and window treatments. The new shade cloth is 42 inches wide and the cost is comparable to that of other decorated window shade materials. For those who would like to coordinate the shade cloth with the window treatment the same patterns in uncoated casement cloth of Dacron and cotton are available.

WEDDING DRESS

June - the month of weddings—here's a few hints on the dress. Actually the choice of the wedding dress sets the style, standard and degree of formality for the rest of the wedding. For a large formal wedding in a church, a hotel or at home, a white or off white floor length wedding dress with a train or sweep at the back is best. The veil may be long or short. A very long train and veil is only for a cathedral wedding.

For a less formal church, hotel or home wedding, the floor length or street length wedding dress of very light color with short veil is correct.

HOSIERY TIPS

Hosiery, an important part of woman's fashion today may make up as much as one third of your total look. Style plays a fashion role here too. The three main types are: full fashioned, seamless and stretch. Fashion shades look best if they create a pleasing blend between the shoe and skirt. For color, dark shades make heavy legs look smaller.

English IRONSTONE
by Wm. Adams & Sons from England
Adams IRONSTONE is noted for its strength, durability and whiteness. The addition of Scoria to its body and the high temperature to which it is fired gives it strength and durability over earthenware. Its whiteness re-creates the color of the IRONSTONE first made early in the last century. The genuine IRONSTONE is truly a joy to own, a gift to be appreciated

Since this species is a little tender to our cold winters, be sure to plant it in a warmish protected spot. It lasts about ten years in your columnist's test garden and then gets killed, but the little plants are cheap and worth replacing.

Two alliums that bloom in early summer and make a pretty color combination are the yellow Allium Moly and the blue A. azureum. Some gardeners succeed with these, and some do not keep them very long, but they are worth trying.

There are many beautiful alliums in the catalogues of the American bulb dealers these days. Not many of them have been grown to any extent, so you are on your own in trying them out. The bulbs are inexpensive for all but the big "giganteum" we discussed first. Most alliums are very drought and heat resistant, a characteristic that makes them good for us here in the South.

GARDEN CENTER NOTES

By MRS. JOHN TOLAR

Dr. John Wright, horticulture professor from La. Tech, gave us another one of his wonderful programs on Flower - Arranging and Demonstrations this week on the T. V. and Garden Center Show. Dr. Wright had made the six arrangements beforehand to show and describe. They were displayed at the Garden Center the rest of this week. An abundance of materials of all kinds were used — from Dr. Wright's own garden and greenhouse.

The first arrangement contained an abundance of multicolored Dahlias — the bedding type—reds predominated. These formed the focal area in the pyramid design which was formed by plume-type Celosia-colors of rose into yellow. Golden privet was used as a filler. The container was a low white ceramic urn. The back of the arrangement was finished with lovely caladium leaves in shades of white into greens.

A pillar vase of unusual shade of sorghum red was used to hold the vertical design made of yellow Tritomia. Complementing color of red-orange dahlias were were used to fill in this line and accent the focal. Golden privet gave the finishing touch as a filler. Very colorful design.

A very unusual tall black oriental-type container inspired Dr. Wright to make an oriental design—the Nigarie or thrown-in type design. This requires very little material. The primary vertical line is very low—balancing the weight and height of the container by the horizontal line used. Pink - lavender colored Celosia formed the short vertical line, while a heavier horizontal line of Dahlias of the same shake pink —lavender were used with the buds. Small green and white caladium leaves were used in the focal area as a filler. This as a most striking design in the oriental manner.

A very gay arrangement of yellow dahlias placed in a tall yellow cylinder-type container etched in white formed a massed vertical design. Castor bean foliage trimmed with scissors to form a round leaf was used as the main line. The Dahlias were used within this line and one was placed to hang low at the lip of the container — thus cutting the height of the container. The Golden privet was used as a filler in this design — blending perfectly with the Dahlias and container. Lovely to welcome your guests with an arrangement of this type—used in the hall.

A very unusual all-foliage arrangement of young Castor Bean leaves and red into green Caladium leaves formed the next arrangement. The container was a low milk glass serving dish. This would be most attractive on the dining room buffet.

A vertical line made of sugar cane stalk was placed in a tall brown cylinder vase. Three very unusual rolled-edged leaves of deep red-into green caladium leaves completed the simple, but, lovely design. This would be ideal for a long-lasting arrangement for the den or living room.

Dr. Wright always gives us such a treat whenever he comes. We will be looking forward to seeing his next show. He is so full of good information about flower arranging and shares it with us so willingly. Isn't it nice to have him in our 5th district.

Dr. Wright gave me some valuable information on The Peaches and Posies Flower Show that I thought should be passed on to you at this time. June 21 will bring the annual peaches and posies flower show at the La. Tech Student Center in Ruston. Time is 3:00 to 9:00 p.m. Admission is free. Since this is an area project, it has a wider interest than a one-club flower show. It is sponsored by the Lincoln Garden Council, and involves all the member clubs of that council and offers opportunity to all who are interested in participating. The deadline has passed for entering the design division, but, anyone can enter horticulture specimens on the day of the show.

Trim Back Plants For Second Bloom

By AUDREY H. DAWSON
GARDENING

Be sure to cut back your larkspur, stock and dahlias which have finished blooming and they will put out new growth for a second flowering.

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, want cut flowers to last longer follow some of these tips: Try to cut the flowers early in the morning, before sunup. Late afternoon cutting is alright, too. You may not be able to cut all stems with a slant when gathering them, but you can cut them slanted before placing the stems in water or your favorite conditioning solution. The flowers will absorb more if cut on a slant. For instance marigolds will remain fresher in a sugar, salt and water solution. Make the solution using: 2 tablespoons of sugar, one tablespoon of salt and 1 quart of water. A solution for dahlias can be made by using 2 quarts of iced water and 5 tablespoons of alcohol. First burn the ends of dahlia stems. Eight drops of oil of peppermint in a quart of water will make diaisies last longer. You can condition roses in two tablespoons powdered alum or table salt in quart of water. The flowers should be conditioned in about two hours.

NEW WINDOW SHADES

If you, Mrs. Homemaker, are interested in shades for your windows, you will be interested in the new white translucent window shades made of cloth. "Tontine" batiste shade cloth is made of a finely woven lightweight fabric of "Dacron" polyester fiber and cotton. It has the same long wearing washable coating that is applied to regular "Tontine" shade cloth. There are three designes now on the market: Locitte, a floral design; coins, stylized coins and simplex, a modern design in a geometric motif. The clearly defined patterns are visible both day and night in a soft tone which blends effectively with wall and window treatments. The new shade cloth is 42 inches wide and the cost is comparable to that of other decorated window shade materials. For those who would like to coordinate the shade cloth with the window treatment the same patterns in uncoated casement cloth of Dacron and cotton are available.

WEDDING DRESS

June - the month of weddings—here's a few hints on the dress. Actually the choice of the wedding dress sets the style, standard and degree of formality for the rest of the wedding. For a large formal wedding in a church, a hotel or at home, a white or off white floor length wedding dress with a train or sweep at the back is best. The veil may be long or short. A very long train and veil is only for a cathedral wedding.

For a less formal church, hotel or home wedding, the floor length or street length wedding dress of very light color with short veil is correct.

For an informal chapel, hotel or home wedding, choose a delicate pastel or white dress with a small headdress or wreath.

HOSIERY TIPS

Hosiery, an important part of woman's fashion today may make up as much as one third of your total look. Style plays a fashion role here too. The three main types are: full fashioned, seamless and stretch. Fashion shades look best if they create a pleasing blend between the shoe and skirt. For color, dark shades make heavy legs look smaller.

English IRONSTONE
by Wm. Adams & Sons from England
Adams IRONSTONE is noted for its strength, durability and whiteness. The addition of Scoria to its body and the high temperature to which it is fired gives it strength and durability over earthenware. Its whiteness re-creates the color of the IRONSTONE first made early in the last century. The genuine IRONSTONE is truly a joy to own, a gift to be appreciated.

SEW SIMPLE
By Eunice Farmer

For her fine help for putting in an invisible hem by machine, Mrs. Geo. M. Allen, Worcester, N. Y., has been awarded a Tailor Trix pressing board this week.

"A simple way to put in an invisible hem by machine. Measure depth of hem as usual and turn raw edge over one-fourth inch and stitch close to edge. Pin hem to dress ½" below stitched edge. Turn dress inside out.

"With wrong side of hem touching plate of machine, fold hem back and take about 4 stitches on the edge that was previously stitched. Next, take one stitch in the fold of the dress, and continue around the entire hem in this manner. This is a neat hem, saves time, and is much stronger for children's clothes than hand hemming."

SEWING CLASSES

Dear Fans:

In answer to the teen-age girls who want to know how to sew but aren't offered such courses in school, I have had many replies. There are 4-H clubs in every state and they will be glad to help organize a group under the guidance of the extension home economist in their county. Sewing instructions are supplemented by excellent pamphlets from the State Agricultural Extension Service.

If any mothers or grandmothers are experienced seamstresses and would serve as a club leader, please offer your services to your 4-H club. The joy of teaching these eager children will more than reward you for your time and effort.

"Dear Eunice Farmer:

"Would you be kind enough to repeat your answer to the problem of fixing gapping necklines?"

Mrs. W. W A..

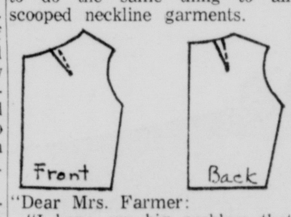

MUSLIN PATTERN

Dear Mrs. W. W. A.:

There isn't much that can be done after the garment has been made. You must make your changes before cutting. I would suggest you make a pattern in muslin first. Cut the seam allowance off your muslin pattern in order to see exactly how the neck will fit. If it appears to be too-full, take a tiny tuck or dart in the neckline as illustrated. This should be at an angle and taper to nothing about 3" below the neckline seam.

The dart is usually no more than one-fourth inch wide and is placed between the center front and the shoulder. It may be necessary to make this dart in the front and back or both.Whatever you do to the muslin bodice to make it fit properly, you must now do the same to your pattern.

In this way, the extra fabric will not be cut into your garment. Do the same with your facings before cutting. If you have to change the neckline on one dress, you will probably have to do the same thing to all scooped neckline garments.

"Dear Mrs. Farmer:

"I have one big problem that remains unanswered. How do you adjust a pattern with a bat-wing sleeve? The 'wing' seems too deep and gives too much fullness through the bust."

Mrs. R. B.

Dear Mrs. R. B.:

This type of sleeve usually begins near the waistline and comes out gradually through the underarm section to the end of the sleeve. The style of it would naturally make a great deal of fullness at the bustline.

It would be better if you chose a pattern with a raglan sleeve, this would have a much closer fit. A "raglan" sleeve with a gusset fits still closer. In fact, this last type of sleeve resembles the fit of a set-in-sleeve more than any other type. It would be almost impossible to change the cut of a bat-wing sleeve to a closer fitting sleeve without changing the design of the dress.

BEACH COATS

"Dear Eunice:

"Thanks for your inspiring column and for treating sewing as an 'art' rather than a drudgery. You have no idea how you boost the morale of us 'would-be' seamstresses.

"It is also fun to read the tips sent to you from women who live from coast to coast and to find out that we all have the same problems and all enjoy the new ideas. I have an idea I would like to pass on to others and I think it is especially valuable at this time of the year.

"For the 'swim season,' make little beach coats, jackets, and robes out of worn out chenille bed spreads. They are as absorbent as terry cloth, easily laundered, and a good way to get something for nothing."

Mrs. S. A. H.

Camera Notes

By IRVING DESFOR
AP Newsfeatures

Electric eye or automatic cameras, both movie and still types, normally have a blind spot when faced with a particular exposure problem. It occurs when the camera is in bright sunlight and the subject being photographed is in shadow or, in reverse, when the camera is in a shaded area and the subject is in sunshine.

When the camera is strictly automatic and has no manual control, the photographer should change his position so as to shoot under the same light condition as the subject in order to get proper exposure.

If he can't change his position, he might compensate by shifting the film speed setting. If the camera "thinks" it has a faster or slower film, it would close down or open the lens a bit more.

Thus, with the camera in sunlight and subject in shadow, the ASA film speed setting should be reduced if possible, at least half. And with the camera in shadow and subject in sunlight, the ASA film speed setting should be increased to double, if possible.

Fortunately, the newest cameras feature manual control along with electric eye automation. To prove the point, I tested a new still and a new movie camera under difficult backlight illumination. It showed, as always, that human judgment is needed along with the electric eye.

For stills I used the Rollei Magic II, a new model of the first electric eye automatic 2¼ by 2¼ twin - lens reflex camera. It features an easier - to - see exposure value pointer and an easier-to handle manual control. For movies, I used the new Revere Reflex Power Zoom 8mm camera. It features through - the-lens viewing and focusing, automatic and manual f-stop visibility in viewfinder and power zoom. It also has a unqiue backlight stop which is a built-in effort to compensate for shooting in the direction of the sun by opening the lens more than the normal electric eye setting. It is certainly a step in the right direction but doesn't go far enough.

I found it necessary in both cases to step into the shadow area and take a close - up electric eye reading of a face. Then I switched to manual control on both cameras with the exposure set for the shadows. The results were what I wanted: detail in the faces.

With normal lighting situations, I turned back to automatic control and effortless shooting.

TALENT HUNT IN AFRICA

NEW YORK AP) — Katherine Dunham is on talent hunt in Africa for new performers to add to her dance troupe.

The noted choreographer is seeking a dozen experts in primitive terpsichore for a revue slated to start on national tour from Los Angeles in mid-August.

Stamp News

Tunisia has issued a new stamp commemorating its "Fete Nationale," reports the World Wide Philatelic Agency. This national celebration is a seven - year tradition going back to June 1, 1955, when successful negotiations between France and Tunisia led to the release of the leader of the Tunisia Independent Movement, Habib Bourguiba, from a French prison and his return to Tunisia. The 20 millimes stamp depicts a graceful allegorical figure representing a liberated Tunisia.

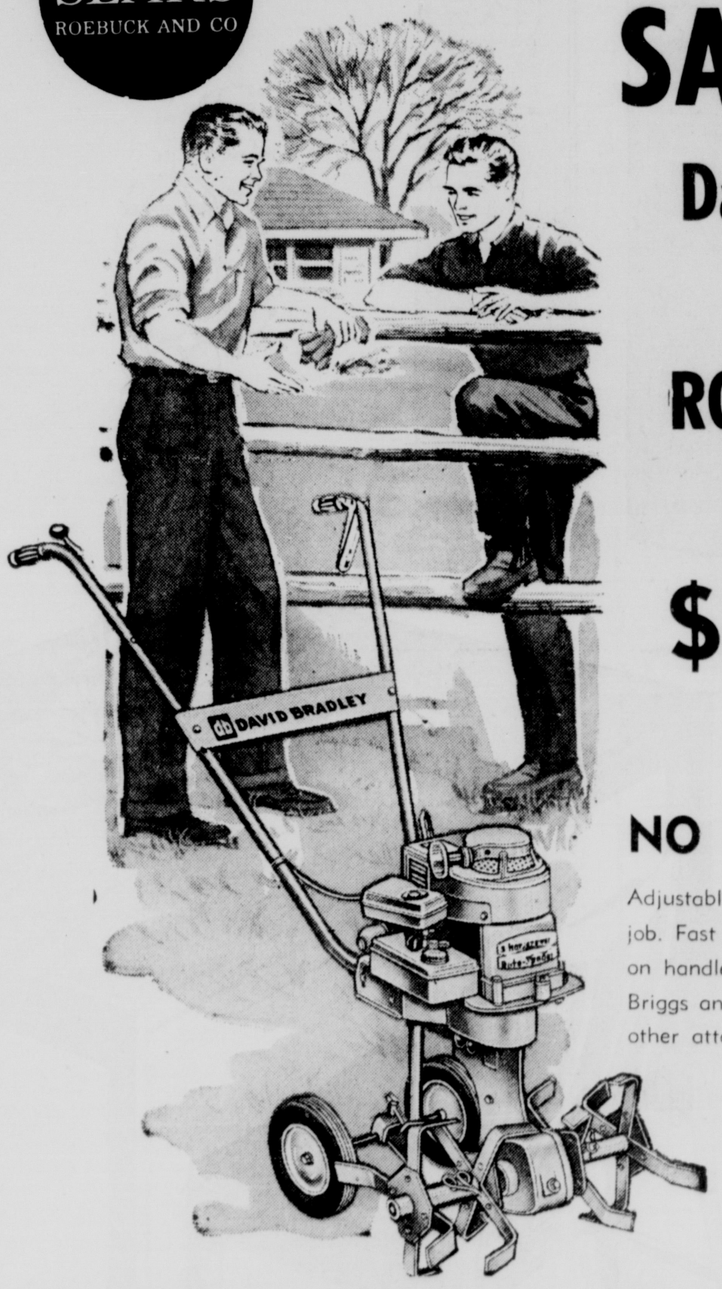

As previously reported in this column, Australia will definitely issue a new 5 pence stamp commemorating the centennary of the Crossing of Australia from south to north by John McDouall Stewart. The new stamp will be of the same size as those of the current Flora series and will portray a likeness of the noted explorer.

Berlin Anti-Red Rally Set

BERLIN (UPI)—West Berliners lighted bonfires along "the wall" and marched the streets with torches Saturday night in memory of the city's anti-Communist uprising nine years ago which had to be broken by Russian tanks.

A giant rally, expected to draw 100,000 to hear West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer, was set for Sunday in the square before the West Berlin city hall.

It was on June 17, 1953, that East Berlin workers revolted. Soviet guns killed 120 before order was restored.

Sunday's mass meeting will be the first since the Communists put up their barbed-wire and concrete wall through the city last Aug. 13. It was not expected the demonstration would boil over into any mass action. The city hall is two miles from the wall at the nearest point.

Adenauer and other members of the West German government were flying here in a U.S. military aircraft.

West Berlin newspapers Saturday called on the people to turn out for the demonstration to show the Communists the anniversary was not forgotten and that West Berliners are not resigned to the wall and the division of Germany.

West Berlin students planned a sit - down demonstration on the main station of the elevated railway in the Western sector to dissuade West Berliners from their customary Sunday outings to the Grunewald Woods and the Wannsea Lake.

The Communists themselves opened a so-called "National Congress" they hope will turn East German attention from the June 17th observances.

East German boss Walter Ulbricht opened an East Berlin meeting of 2,300 handpicked "delegates of work brigades, collective farms and local party organizations.

One of the first speakers told the delegates they will have to work harder for the same pay because of the country's economic troubles. A similar plea sparked the 1953 revolt.

Engineer, Son Killed In Crash Of Auto, Train

ROSEDALE, La. (AP) — A car-train collision killed William A. Hudel Jr, 35-year-old Baton Rouge chemical engineer, and his 8-year old son, Jimmy, Saturday.

State troopers said the car struck the train behind the engine when Hudel apparently was unable to stop in time.

The accident occurred at a Texas and Pacific Railway crossing on highway 76 two miles west of here. The nearby Ramah Pits are a favorite fishing spot.

Hudel leaves his wife and three daughters in Baton Rouge, and his parents in Port Arthur, Tex.

Rusk Will Fly To Europe For Talks

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk will fly to Europe Tuesday for a series of conferences aimed at forging closer U.S. ties with Western European nations themselves moving toward greater unity.

Rusk plans to tell Allied leaders that the United States is not opposed to close cooperation between West Germany and France so long as it develops without peril to the larger unity of the Atlantic Alliance.

The chief U.S. diplomat is expected to urge wide support among Allied governments for formation of a U.S.-supplied nuclear force under command of NATO instead of the development of national nuclear forces favored by President Charles de Gaulle for France.

The U.S. government believes strongly that the De Gaulle plan to make France an independent nuclear power is a divisive element within the alliance and that a multi-nation approach to the problem of Europe's nuclear defenses is essential.

Rusk will leave shortly after Monday midnight and is due in Paris Tuesday afternoon. Later in the week he will fly to West Berlin, where he is expected to make a brief speech, then on to Bonn, the West German capital. In following days he will visit Rome, London and Lisbon. The whole series of talks will occupy about 10 days.

The trip has been widely described as a fence-mending mission but Rusk has insisted to associates that it is much more significant than that.

State Department officials say the Atlantic Alliance, which is now a dozen years old, is entering a new phase in which there is major emphasis on the development of much greater economic and political unity in Western Europe. The United States is doing everything possible to encourage this welding of national resources into a virtual united states of Europe.

The Kennedy Administration envisions a further third phase of Allied development in which closer associations would be forged between Western Europe and North America.

The United States wants the European Common Market to commit itself to low tariff, liberal trade policies and avoid any restrictive practices which would damage U.S.-European trade and create anti-European resentment in this country.

At the same time he is expected to emphasize U.S. opposition to De Gaulle views which are considered here to work against greater unity among the Allies. The most important of these by far is De Gaulle's drive to give France its own nuclear weapons force, a drive with which President Kennedy is determined the United States will not cooperate.

Aliens With Skills May Enter U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some 10,000 skilled specialists and their dependents, including about 6,900 Chinese, would be eligible for U.S. visas under a bill pending in Congress, government experts estimated Saturday. They said perhaps around 300 would come from Hong Kong.

The measure, introduced by Rep. Francis E. Walter, D-Pa., co-author of the basic Walter-McCarran immigration law and chairman of the House Immigration subcommittee, also would allow visas for an estimated 20,000 or so Europeans—mainly Italians — who are related to U.S. citizens.

By providing for a change in the law, Walter's bill would differ from the emergency procedure announced by President Kennedy during the recent flood of persons from Communist China into Hong Kong.

The Kennedy administration's action is similar to that taken for refugees after the Hungarian uprising. It is an executive "parole" or waive of normal requirements which, unlike Walter's bill, would require subsequent legislation to permit the parolees to become permanent immigrants.

Kennedy gave no precise figure in announcing his plan May 23 and U.S. Immigration Service officials say they still do not know just how many Hong Kong Chinese it will bring in. Their current estimate is 5,000.

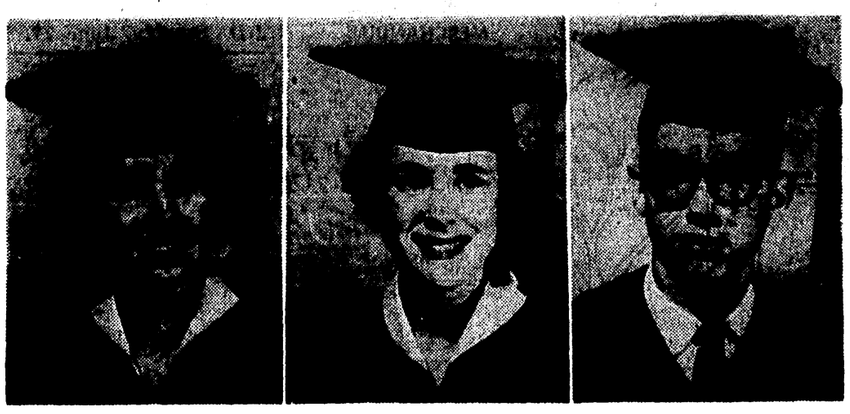

Walter said he thought the United States should begin with "first preference cases." News accounts at the time Walter's bill was introduced carried an incorrect estimate that 3,000 Hong Kong Chinese would fall into this category under the bill, plus an equal number of wives and children.

Walter's legislation provides that first preference aliens—those possessing skills needed in the United States and who have sponsors in this country—can be given visas, or U.S. entry permits, regardless of quota.

Even though already cleared for entry, would-be immigrants from low-quota countries sometimes wait years for their turn. China's annual quota is 105.

DIFFERS ON POLICY

Premier Resigns In South Korea

SEOUL (AP)—Song (The Tiger) Yo-Chan, hero of the Korean war and postwar revolution, quit as premier Saturday in what appeared to be a dispute over charting South Korea's economic future.

His entire cabinet resigned with him. But the military junta accepted only the resignations of Song and Finance Minister Chun Byung-Kyu. Song and Chun were reported sharply divided on economic policy.

Thust he civilian facade erected by the ruling junta was chipped away further. On March 24, President Yun Po-Sun quit in protest against the blacklisting of many Korean politicians.

Long a friend of the United States, Song occupied a largely figurehead position as premier. His resignation came as a surprise.

Under the junta, Song and his cabinet had little say on economic matters. It was considered unlikely they even were consulted when the junta announced its currency reform last Saturday. This currency revaluation has virtually paralyzed business in South Korea.

Then, even as Song and his finance minister were stepping down, the junta announced a freeze of $89 million in Korean bank accounts to provide funds for industrial development under a government corporation.

Song told a news conference he submitted his resignation June 7, three days before the currency reform was announced.

The 44-year-old general said he had been unable to step down earlier because of anti-U.S. student demonstrations protesting the currency reform program. He did not elaborate.

Song said he was resiging because he had been "unable to bring about desired accomplishments."

U.S. military and economic aid is the main prop of the sagging Korean economy, but inflation remains a major problem.

In the hope of checking inflation and encouraging private investment, the junta replaced the old hwan with a new currency unit, the won. The hwan had been set at 1,300 to the U.S. dollar. The won was pagged at 130 to $1.

In announcing the freeze of all private accounts of more than $130, Park said the main purpose "is to convert speculative and idle funds into industrial capital" under his five-year plan.

Federal Suit Filed After Negro Fired

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The Justice Department filed a federal court suit Saturday charging that a Negro teacher was fired because of voter registration activities the suit demanded reinstatement of the teacher with reimbursement of lost pay.

A Justice Department spokesman said it was the first time a court order had been sought to restore a job lost in connection with civil rights action.

Ernestine Denham Talbert, 33, a college graduate from Lucedale, was fired from the Greene County Vocational School staff April 25. County Supt. Evans T. Martin said the action was taken in the best interest of the school.

Contacted at his home in Leakesville, Martin repeated his earlier stand that the action was taken in the best interest of the school.

But he quickly added: "She was not fired. Her contract simply was not renewed for the 1962-63 school year. It looks like the Justice Department is trying to take over the administration of our local county schools."

The suit alleged she was dropped from employment as an apparent result of efforts to register to vote and her testimony about those efforts in a civil rights suit.

School Principal M. A. Hayes contended there never had been complaints about her work as commerce teacher and librarian.

Mrs. Talbert was one of six Negroes whose affidavits appeared in a Justice Department voter registration suit against the George County Election Commission and the circuit clerk.

Mrs. Talbert resides in George County and commuted to Greene County.

Saturday's suit asked for a temporary injunction against the board of education's hiring of a replacement until the case has cleared the courts. U.S. Dist. Judge Harold Cox will hear the case next Saturday in Biloxi.

The suit carried affidavits from Mrs. Talbert and a letter from the school principal, which said she was recommended for another year. She was the only one of 22 teachers not approved by the county board.

Second 'Chute Saves Life Of Sky Diver, 32

PIRU, Calif. (UPI)—A 32-year-old sky diver escaped possible death Saturday when an emergency parachute finally opened near the ground after he fell nearly 2,500 feet.

Armond Dichwald of Santa Barbara, Calif., told investigators he tried desperately toopen his parachute after jumping from an airplane at an altitude of 2,500 feet, but something went wrong.

He said nothing happened when he pulled at the ripcord. Then he grabbed it again with both hands and pulled harder—but still nothing happened.

Finally, as Dichwald approached the ground, he pulled hard on the ripcord to his emergency 'chute and it opened. But it was too late to allow him to guide himself down.

The attending physician at nearby Santa Paula Memorial Hospital said the sky diver suffered a fractured vertebra as a result of the fall. He said he would have to remain in a body cast for some time, and that recovery would not be quick.

Senator Says Tax Cut Talk Is Propaganda

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., said Saturday the Kennedy administration's talk of a tax cut is "just so much political propaganda" in view of the current budget deficit.

Williams, top Republican member of the tax-writing Senate Finance Committee, said "It may be popular back home but the long-range effect would be disastrous to the country."

He also voiced doubts that Kennedy's pending tax reform bill will ever clear the Finance Committee or pass if it reached the floor.

As for a tax cut, Williams said "You can't cut taxes in the face of a $7 to $8 billion deficit unless you are going to pull out all stops on inflation" and slash federal spending.

The President's proposals were defended by Sen. John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., in a radio-TV broadcast for Southern stations and by Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N. J., who advocated a tax cut now to "remedy the regressive effect of our present tax structure."

Case said he preferred a cut in both personal and corporate taxes to giving Kennedy standby authority to reduce taxes.

Two California Students Held By Communists

BERLIN (UPI) — Two California students attending universities in Germany are being held in Communist East German jails and one of them will be tried on June 20, the U. S. Mission here said Saturday.

They are Jean F. Loba, 36, of Altadena, Calif., a student at the Free University in West Berlin, who was arrested in East Berlin June 2, and Robert F. Mann, 19, Sepuveda, Calif., a student at the Stanford University campus in Stuttgart, who had been listed as missing since he entered Communist Berlin last January.

The Missission said it did not know what charges faced the students. However, Rep. Edgar W. Hiestand of California said in Washington recently he had been told the two were arrested because they were trying to bring false identification papers to East German friends to enable them to flee.

Mann was expected to be brought to trial next week. There was no word when Loba would be tried. Trials in East Germany are held in secret.

Until the charges against the two men are known, it is difficult to predict what is in store for them. Last September 26, however, two other Californians were sentenced to two years imprisonment for trying to smuggle an East Berlin girl out.

FRENCH SLATE STRIKES

PARIS (AP)—Twelve-hour gas and electricity strikes for next Tuesday and Wednesday were decided on Saturday by two unions representing workers in the nationalized industries. They seek higher pay and other benefits.

Suspect Is Held In Burglary Of Room At Motel

Monroe Police Chief James C. Kelly reported that his department has apprehended a suspect implicated in the Friday morning burglary of a local motel room.

Henry Kilpatrick, 17, Negro of 203 Jarvis Alley, Monroe, was booked on a burglary charge at 10 a.m. Saturday. Kelly said the Negro has been identified by witnesses, but the department is still investigating.

Police reported that approximately $50 was taken from one of the rooms at the Texas Motel, 2408 Louisville Ave. The guest whose rooms was burglarized was gone earlier Thursday and upon returning to the room around 1 a.m. Friday, opened the door to find a Negro in the room. The Negro bolted and ran, and police have been investigating the incident since.

Though not definitely established, authorities believe that entrance was gained by jimmying the lock on the door of a connecting room.

Council Sends Hyannis 6 More Reverse Riders

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Capital Citizens Council sent six more Negroes, one a 17-month old infant, on a "Reverse Freedom Ride" to Hyannis, Mass., Saturday.

The council now has sent 42 Negroes to Hyannis and 13 to other northern and western cities.

Saturday's riders, all from North Little Rock, were:

Robert Lee Robinson, 22.

All three men were unemployed and told Amis Guthridge, head of the council, they wanted to hunt jobs in the North.

Guthridge said the six were ready to leave Thursday but the council did not have enough money to send them until Saturday. He said the program would be curtailed unless persons interested in it continue to donate funds.

Guthridge paid $256.30 for tickets for Saturday's group and gave them $30 to spend on the way. The riders are due in Hyannis at 3:23 p.m. Monday.

Aliens With Skills May Enter U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Some 10,000 skilled specialists and their dependents, including about 6,900 Chinese, would be eligible for U.S. visas under a bill pending in Congress, government experts estimated Saturday. They said perhaps around 300 would come from Hong Kong.

The measure, introduced by Rep. Francis E. Walter, D-Pa., co-author of the basic Walter-McCarran immigration law and chairman of the House Immigration subcommittee, also would allow visas for an estimated 20,000 or so Europeans—mainly Italians — who are related to U.S. citizens.

By providing for a change in the law, Walter's bill would differ from the emergency procedure announced by President Kennedy during the recent flood of persons from Communist China into Hong Kong.

The Kennedy administration's action is similar to that taken for refugees after the Hungarian uprising. It is an executive "parole" or waive of normal requirements which, unlike Walter's bill, would require subsequent legislation to permit the parolees to become permanent immigrants.

Kennedy gave no precise figure in announcing his plan May 23 and U.S. Immigration Service officials say they still do not know just how many Hong Kong Chinese it will bring in. Their current estimate is 5,000.

Walter said he thought the United States should begin with "first preference cases." News accounts at the time Walter's bill was introduced carried an incorrect estimate that 3,000 Hong Kong Chinese would fall into this category under the bill, plus an equal number of wives and children.

Walter's legislation provides that first preference aliens—those possessing skills needed in the United States and who have sponsors in this country—can be given visas, or U.S. entry permits, regardless of quota.

Even though already cleared for entry, would-be immigrants from low-quota countries sometimes wait years for their turn. China's annual quota is 105.

ADMIRAL TO RETIRE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Rear Adm. Eugene B. McKinney will retire July 1 after 39 years of naval service. He won three Navy Crosses as World War II commander of the submarines Salmon and Skate.

DIFFERS ON POLICY

Premier Resigns In South Korea

SEOUL (AP)—Song (The Tiger) Yo-Chan, hero of the Korean war and postwar revolution, quit as premier Saturday in what appeared to be a dispute over charting South Korea's economic future.

His entire cabinet resigned with him. But the military junta accepted only the resignations of Song and Finance Minister Chun Byung-Kyu. Song and Chun were reported sharply divided on economic policy.

Thust he civilian facade erected by the ruling junta was chipped away further. On March 24, President Yun Po-Sun quit in protest against the blacklisting of many Korean politicians.

Long a friend of the United States, Song occupied a largely figurehead position as premier. His resignation came as a surprise.

Under the junta, Song and his cabinet had little say on economic matters. It was considered unlikely they even were consulted when the junta announced its currency reform last Saturday. This currency revaluation has virtually paralyzed business in South Korea.

Then, even as Song and his finance minister were stepping down, the junta announced a freeze of $89 million in Korean bank accounts to provide funds for industrial development under a government corporation.

Song told a news conference he submitted his resignation June 7, three days before the currency reform was announced.

The 44-year-old general said he had been unable to step down earlier because of anti-U.S. student demonstrations protesting the currency reform program. He did not elaborate.

Song said he was resiging because he had been "unable to bring about desired accomplishments."

U.S. military and economic aid is the main prop of the sagging Korean economy, but inflation remains a major problem.

In the hope of checking inflation and encouraging private investment, the junta replaced the old hwan with a new currency unit, the won. The hwan had been set at 1,300 to the U.S. dollar. The won was pagged at 130 to $1.

In announcing the freeze of all private accounts of more than $130, Park said the main purpose "is to convert speculative and idle funds into industrial capital" under his five-year plan.

Federal Suit Filed After Negro Fired

JACKSON, Miss. (AP) — The Justice Department filed a federal court suit Saturday charging that a Negro teacher was fired because of voter registration activities the suit demanded reinstatement of the teacher with reimbursement of lost pay.

A Justice Department spokesman said it was the first time a court order had been sought to restore a job lost in connection with civil rights action.

Ernestine Denham Talbert, 33, a college graduate from Lucedale, was fired from the Greene County Vocational School staff April 25. County Supt. Evans T. Martin said the action was taken in the best interest of the school.

But he quickly added: "She was not fired. Her contract simply was not renewed for the 1962-63 school year. It looks like the Justice Department is trying to take over the administration of our local county schools."

The suit alleged she was dropped from employment as an apparent result of efforts to register to vote and her testimony about those efforts in a civil rights suit.

School Principal M. A. Hayes contended there never had been complaints about her work as commerce teacher and librarian.

Mrs. Talbert was one of six Negroes whose affidavits appeared in a Justice Department voter registration suit against the George County Election Commission and the circuit clerk.

Mrs. Talbert resides in George County and commuted to Greene County.

Saturday's suit asked for a temporary injunction against the board of education's hiring of a replacement until the case has cleared the courts. U.S. Dist. Judge Harold Cox will hear the case next Saturday in Biloxi.

The suit carried affidavits from Mrs. Talbert and a letter from the school principal, which said she was recommended for another year. She was the only one of 22 teachers not approved by the county board.

Second 'Chute Saves Life Of Sky Diver, 32

PIRU, Calif. (UPI)—A 32-year-old sky diver escaped possible death Saturday when an emergency parachute finally opened near the ground after he fell nearly 2,500 feet.

Armond Dichwald of Santa Barbara, Calif., told investigators he tried desperately toopen his parachute after jumping from an airplane at an altitude of 2,500 feet, but something went wrong.

He said nothing happened when he pulled at the ripcord. Then he grabbed it again with both hands and pulled harder—but still nothing happened.

Finally, as Dichwald approached the ground, he pulled hard on the ripcord to his emergency 'chute and it opened. But it was too late to allow him to guide himself down.

He landed on his back on the edge of the Santa Clara River, taking the full impact on the lower part of his spine.

The attending physician at nearby Santa Paula Memorial Hospital said the sky diver suffered a fractured vertebra as a result of the fall. He said he would have to remain in a body cast for some time, and that recovery would not be quick.

Senator Says Tax Cut Talk Is Propaganda

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., said Saturday the Kennedy administration's talk of a tax cut is "just so much political propaganda" in view of the current budget deficit.

Williams, top Republican member of the tax-writing Senate Finance Committee, said "It may be popular back home but the long-range effect would be disastrous to the country."

He also voiced doubts that Kennedy's pending tax reform bill will ever clear the Finance Committee or pass if it reached the floor.

As for a tax cut, Williams said "You can't cut taxes in the face of a $7 to $8 billion deficit unless you are going to pull out all stops on inflation" and slash federal spending.

The President's proposals were defended by Sen. John J. Sparkman, D-Ala., in a radio-TV broadcast for Southern stations and by Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N. J., who advocated a tax cut now to "remedy the regressive effect of our present tax structure."

Case said he preferred a cut in both personal and corporate taxes to giving Kennedy standby authority to reduce taxes.

Two California Students Held By Communists

BERLIN (UPI) — Two California students attending universities in Germany are being held in Communist East German jails and one of them will be tried on June 20, the U. S. Mission here said Saturday.

They are Jean F. Loba, 36, of Altadena, Calif., a student at the Free University in West Berlin, who was arrested in East Berlin June 2, and Robert F. Mann, 19, Sepuveda, Calif., a student at the Stanford University campus in Stuttgart, who had been listed as missing since he entered Communist Berlin last January.

The Missission said it did not know what charges faced the students. However, Rep. Edgar W. Hiestand of California said in Washington recently he had been told the two were arrested because they were trying to bring false identification papers to East German friends to enable them to flee.

Mann was expected to be brought to trial next week. There was no word when Loba would be tried. Trials in East Germany are held in secret.

Until the charges against the two men are known, it is difficult to predict what is in store for them. Last September 26, however, two other Californians were sentenced to two years imprisonment for trying to smuggle an East Berlin girl out.

FRENCH SLATE STRIKES

PARIS (AP)—Twelve-hour gas and electricity strikes for next Tuesday and Wednesday were decided on Saturday by two unions representing workers in the nationalized industries. They seek higher pay and other benefits.

Suspect Is Held In Burglary Of Room At Motel

Monroe Police Chief James C. Kelly reported that his department has apprehended a suspect implicated in the Friday morning burglary of a local motel room.

Henry Kilpatrick, 17, Negro of 203 Jarvis Alley, Monroe, was booked on a burglary charge at 10 a.m. Saturday. Kelly said the Negro has been identified by witnesses, but the department is still investigating.

Police reported that approximately $50 was taken from one of the rooms at the Texas Motel, 2408 Louisville Ave. The guest whose rooms was burglarized was gone earlier Thursday and upon returning to the room around 1 a.m. Friday, opened the door to find a Negro in the room. The Negro bolted and ran, and police have been investigating the incident since.

Though not definitely established, authorities believe that entrance was gained by jimmying the lock on the door of a connecting room.

Council Sends Hyannis 6 More Reverse Riders

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Capital Citizens Council sent six more Negroes, one a 17-month old infant, on a "Reverse Freedom Ride" to Hyannis, Mass., Saturday.

The council now has sent 42 Negroes to Hyannis and 13 to other northern and western cities.

Saturday's riders, all from North Little Rock, were:

James Rowe, 25, and his wife, Henrietta, 17.

Robert Lee Robinson, 22.

All three men were unemployed and told Amis Guthridge, head of the council, they wanted to hunt jobs in the North.

Guthridge said the six were ready to leave Thursday but the council did not have enough money to send them until Saturday. He said the program would be curtailed unless persons interested in it continue to donate funds.

Guthridge paid $256.30 for tickets for Saturday's group and gave them $30 to spend on the way. The riders are due in Hyannis at 3:23 p.m. Monday.

FREQUENT STOPS

Don't try for endurance records on the highway. Stop the car every so often and let the whole family get out and stretch their legs. It's good for the circulation, the Louisiana Heart Association says.

LEADS DEATHS

From age 1 through 34, accidents are the leading cause of death. From age 35 up, diseases of the heart and blood vessels become the Number 1 killer, according to the National Office of Vital Statistics.

FREQUENT STOPS

Don't try for endurance records on the highway. Stop the car every so often and let the whole family get out and stretch their legs. It's good for the circulation, the Louisiana Heart Association says.

LEADS DEATHS

From age 1 through 24, accidents are the leading cause of death. From age 25 up, diseases of the heart and blood vessels become the Number 1 killer, according to the National Office of Vital Statistics.

HELP FOR HOMEMAKERS

DEAR FOLKS:

I struck upon an idea that I have tested for months and I think will solve some sloppy messes in the kitchen. Why don't you try it?

When you open a can of tomatoes (corn or anything else for that matter) and pour it into something small, such as a small pan, bend the two sides of the top of the can together to form a pouring spout! It pours beautifully!

Nothing is worse than to use a half can of tomatoes and try to pour the remaining part in a small-necked jar or jelly glass and have the contents slop over the sides.

I found that I could remove the top (but removing the entire top is not a prerequisite, as the can will bend just as easily when the lid is still connected) and take your hand and just bend the sides of the can to form an oval.

Also, if the contents are something you are not going to cook — such as prepared pie fillings — the can should still be bent slightly as your spoon will scoop the contents out quickly and food drains to the bent part.

Now . . . if you do remove the entire lid . . . and are cooking something . . . don't throw the lid in the garbage. Place it up-side down on your stove so that you will have a place to put the spoon when you use it. This is called FREE-no-washing-spoon holders.

When you stir your food, place the spoon on the lid that you have set aside. After the meal is over, . . . throw the can lid in the garbage. This eliminates the need to wipe the stove.

—Heloise

COFFEE POTS

DEAR HELOISE:

About boiling soda in aluminum coffee pots. The two just aren't compatible. A coffee pot or any other kind of aluminum turns dark if soda is boiled in it.

The stain looks worse when soda is boiled in a coffee pot because of the coffee oil that leaves a residue on the inside of the pot.

However, there is a remedy for those who have made this mistake. A teaspoon of oxalic acid (bought in drugstores) per one quart of water will bring the pot back to its original color.

Oxalic acid is a poison so must be treated with the greatest respect.

—Aileen Gutheridge

I have not tried this, but the answer is confirmed by a reputable company.

TOWEL TIP

DEAR HELOISE:

For those gals who still use doilies, place mats and fancy finger-tip linen towels —no need to spend hours ironing, only to have them crushed in the linen cabinet. After they are ironed, I roll mine on the cardboard tube which comes on the inside of a roll of paper towels.

This eliminates creases

—M.H.

LINT HINT

DEAR HELOISE:

After reading your column about the lint balls on sweaters, I thought I'd do a little experimenting. The razor blade method seemed too tedious for a sweater that had so much lint.

I got an old suede shoe brush and started brushing a sleeve of the sweater from shoulder to wrist. By holding my foot on the body of the sweater—always brushing from the shoulder seam down—to go with the weave of the cloth, the brush did not tear or ruin the weave and when I finished pressing it on the wrong side, the sweater looked like new.

—Maxine Flanagan

SHIRT TAILS

DEAR HELOISE:

I have a simple trick which I use to keep my boys' shirt tails in place.

I taught my boys to tuck their shirt tails inside their underpants. This keeps their shirts neatly in place. And Heloise, do you know that this same method can apply to little girls who wear shorts and slack suits?

—R.R.B.

EYEBROW TWIST

DEAR HELOISE:

I remove the scratches on my dark furniture by using a brown eyebrow pencil and then rubbing the mark into the wood with a soft cloth.

On black furniture, a black pencil may be used the same way.

—Mrs. Ray Bevan

TOPSY-TURVY

DEAR HELOISE:

To get more wear out of my sheets . . . I put them on correctly (the big heading towards the top) during the first half of the year. This is easy to remember.

The last six months I turn all sheets upside down with the little hem at the top of the bed.

—Mrs. Davis

DEAR HELOISE:

A little vinegar, when added to the water in which eggs are being boiled, will keep the pan from discoloring.

Evelyn Ryan

STRAIN IT

DEAR HELOISE:

For those who just simply cannot make gravy without lumps . . . and it often happens to the best of us . . . why worry?

Just finish making the gravy in the roasting pan and strain it through a tea strainer into another pot. There will be NO lumps!

Clean your roasting pan and put it away and give that gravy "time" to really finish cooking by putting it back on the stove over a low flame.

A. King

SOAP SPRAY

DEAR HELOISE:

I put my liquid detergent in an old hand lotion dispenser bottle.

—Mrs. W. R. Osment

DEAR HELOISE:

I got cranberries on my beautiful table cloth and found that camphor would remove it.
